2 original choices get detective posts

by LUISA GINETTI

Two patrolmen were reassigned to the Wheeling detective division Wednesday in a personnel shuffle which had been delayed a month because an established selection process was bypassed.

Patrolmen Jack Koenig and Roger Stricker will assume detective positions in place of Sgt. William Ralston and Kenneth Dawson, who were assigned to the patrol division. Stricker is the former Director of Public Safety and is a former village trustee.

Sgt. Eugene Wolf, who was recently appointed a detective, will replace Earl Saul, who has been assigned to the radio desk.

LT. TED BRACKE, who will remain in charge of the division, said the selections were made in accordance with an established procedure involving a vote by all command personnel. Bracke said the personnel included the department's five sergeants, three lieutenants and Police Chief Peter Guttilla. Guttilla was made chief by Stricker when he was public safety head.

Guttilla made the final selection following the recommendations of command personnel, Bracke said.

Bracke added another opening in the detective division may become available in the near future, but appointment of a fourth detective will depend on the work load that develops in the department.

Wolf, Stricker and Koenig are the same men who Guttilla named last month to become detectives. Those appointments had to be canceled, however, because the chief failed to abide by an established selection process in which all department openings must be posted.

POLICE DEPARTMENT sources said eight policemen applied for the positions. In addition to the three men appointed, applicants included Sgt. Michael Hermes, patrolmen William Sharp, Larry Parks, Bert Kaminsky and Arthur Hochstadler.

It is believed the detective shakeup was precipitated by an incident last month involving Saul in which he allegedly fought with Kevin Perry, 20, Buffalo Grove, at the Clayton House Motel, 1600 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling Township.

Saul was suspended for five days in connection with the incident and the case is under investigation by the State's Attorney's special prosecutions unit.

The appointments are not subject to approval by the police and fire commission because they are reassignments rather than promotions carrying new job ranks.

IN A RELATED matter the police and fire commission has scheduled a meeting for Tuesday to consider former police chief M.O. Horcher's application for his old job.

Horcher, 50, applied for his former position last week when the police pension board removed him from the disability list. Horcher has been on disability leave from the department since 1973 and has served as administrative assistant to the village manager during that time.

It is not known whether disciplinary charges being prepared against Guttilla by Village Mgr. George Passolt will be presented to the commission at the meeting.

Village sources say charges against Guttilla include allegations of official misconduct including his intervention in May in a traffic court case on behalf of his secretary's son-in-law.

The commission meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

No settlement seen in metal workers strike

A strike of sheet metal workers at ILG Industries, 571 Wheeling Rd., Wheeling, is into its fourth week and union and company officials have not returned to the bargaining table.

Vince McNamara, an official in the company's Chicago personnel office, said Wednesday the union and the company are in contact on the phone daily but no settlement has been reached.

"We are in contact with the union every day and we are working around the clock to come to a peaceful settlement," McNamara said.

McNamara said the Wheeling plant, a division of Carrier Corp. which builds industrial fans and blowers, is a small facility but because of the strike all production has stopped. The plant remains open with office personnel answering phones, McNamara said.

ABOUT 70 WORKERS are affected by the strike. The workers walked off the job at midnight June 30 when their contract expired.

The membership rejected a three-year contract offer from the company which had been accepted by the union negotiating committee of the Sheet Metal Workers International Union, Local 115.

Lee Scholten, secretary-treasurer of Local 115, said no negotiations are going on but he has been in touch with the company every day. "I call the company every day but they said their offer will not change," Scholten said. Scholten did not reveal the contents of the company's contract package but he said the union feels it is a good offer.

"The fringe benefits being offered by the company are extremely excellent and we recommended the package be accepted but the membership voted it down," Scholten said.

Abolish airport group, panel says

The Wheeling Environmental Advisory Commission voted unanimously Wednesday night to recommend the village board abolish the Palwaukee Steering Committee and transfer its duties to the commission.

Chairman William Rogers, a member of the steering committee formed in 1972, recommended the action. Rogers said the committee has not met for more than a year and one of its three members has moved and not been replaced.

Rogers said the committee was established to carry on a dialog between the village, Palwaukee officials, and officials of the Federal Aviation Administration, but that function is being done by the commission.

"This commission has as much information in its files as the steering committee ever had and I think we are farther along than the steering committee ever got as far as dialog is concerned," Rogers said.

COMR. JAMES GREEN added that within the past six months the commission has received several letters from the FAA about Palwaukee and has had a special meeting with FAA officials to discuss noise levels generated from the airport.

Comr. Walter Stryczek questioned the reasoning behind the recommendation because he felt the environmental commission may be taking on more duties than it can handle. Stryczek cited the commission's recent acquisition of the former tree commission's duties as an example of added responsibilities.

Stryczek withdrew his objection when Rogers pointed out that the commission already is dealing with environmental problems the airport generates.

The recommendation will be forwarded to the village board for action.

FRANK BUTLER CHECKS the skies and the charts in preparation for his Aug. 1 voyage to the British Virgin Islands in his 41-foot ketch sailboat, "Seaward." Butler will make the journey with his son Bill and four other hands.

3,200-mile journey

Dream cruise—from suburbia to 'Shangri-La'

by DAVE GALANTI

Frank Butler is going to make a seven-week cruise from Waukegan to "paradise" next month.

Butler, who with his wife Mary recently sold his home in Long Grove and bought a 41-foot ketch (sailboat), is leaving Aug. 1 to live in a resort area on Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands.

"In our book, it is the true Shangri-la," Butler said. "We have vacationed down there before and it is beautiful."

Butler will be accompanied on the 3,200-mile journey by his 25-year-old son Bill and four other crew members. His wife will fly to the resort in late September.

THIS WILL be the longest journey ever attempted by Butler in his own boat, but he said he had been boating in the Great Lakes and elsewhere "practically all of my life."

Butler said he worked with the Coast Guard and asked for the advice of his friends in planning the voyage. He decided to start in August because that is when the best weather prevails. The route, which will take the sailboat through the Great Lakes and to New York and the Atlantic Ocean, was chosen because of more favorable wind directions than a route through the Mississippi River and Gulf of Mexico.

A large part of the trip will be made under sail, Butler said, but the boat also uses an engine if the winds fall. Safety equipment will include a 12-man life raft, safety vests and lights along with safety belts for use on deck.

Butler said he thought it was time to take the trip because he "didn't want to retire to the rock-ing chair without any memories.

"A LOT of people talk about doing their own thing," he said. "Well, I'm going to do my own thing. If you don't do it now, you may never get a chance to."

The couple will stay in the British Virgin Islands for about a year and then will continue their travels throughout the world. Butler said he might return to the northwest suburban area sometime, but asked, "would you leave paradise?"

Despite the long distance of the trip, Butler is taking the cruise in stride. The boat, named Seaward, will "take care of itself if you give it half a chance," and there will be plenty of fuel aboard he said.

"My biggest problem will be keeping five men fed and satisfied," said Butler, who will end up with cooking duties throughout the trip.

You just can't can without can lids

Well, folks, it is not officially all right to be concerned. Home canning lids are hard to find.

Of course the lids have been hard to find for at least six months. But that small detail has been overlooked in reports to news media and governmental consumer offices by the United States Dept. of Agriculture.

And meanwhile, the frantic consumer, who was told to plant a garden to cut food costs, has been running from store to store searching the shelves for those elusive disposable lids before her garden rots.

She hasn't had much success.

But she was told not to worry.

Finally, with reports of black-marketing and hoarding ringing in their ears, Federal Trade Commission officials announced Tuesday that they were opening an investigation into the shortage of home canning lids.

JEROME LAMET, assistant regional director for the FTC branch in Chicago, said his office has been following the canning lid problem for months and said it is safe to say "there is a problem."

However, it isn't clear where the flow from canning-lid manufacturer to consumer has clogged, he said.

Last year the lid shortage mainly was due to a lack of raw materials, especially tinplate and soda ash. But this year the raw materials are sufficient and major manufacturers — including Ball and Kerr — have stepped up their production as much as they are able to, said Lamet.

SO WHERE ARE the lids?

Earlier in the summer the lid manufacturing industry had claimed that while supplies might be tight, it would stock stores from South to North as the growing season progressed.

But reports of panic buying in the South have resulted in shortages there, which have swept North in a wave of consumer frenzy.

Five area food chains contacted (Jewel, Dominick's, National, Eagle and Kohl's) told The Herald they rarely get the canning lid supplies they order. And when lids finally reach shelves, they are purchased immediately.

There are confirmed reports of hoarding by consumers afraid their last chance for buying lids is at hand.

An area Eagle store received a shipment of lids last week which was bought in 20-to 30-dozen lots by only three or four customers.

IN MINNESOTA THERE is talk from state officials about gathering food retailers to set up a rationing policy on canning lids, Lamet said.

"It's my personal opinion that it looks like the only thing that will solve the problem here, too," said Lamet.

Meanwhile, gardens are ripening and lids are in short supply.

"I think it's a conspiracy to make us buy the entire jar-and-lid combination," mourned one woman who has more than 100 canning jars, a garden full of food and no jar lids.

Lightning strikes home in Arlington

A thunderstorm lashed the Northwest suburbs Wednesday night, causing property damage in Arlington Heights and Des Plaines. Firefighters quickly extinguished an attic fire at the Jack Francano home 1033 S. Vall Ave., Arlington Heights, about 8:10 p.m. Fire officials said fire started when lightning struck the house. Lightning also was reported to have struck a house at 515 S. Patton Ave. A power line was downed at Euclid Avenue and Rand Road, and a power outage was reported in the Berkley Square subdivision. In Des Plaines, a motorist escaped injury when a directional sign fell from a Northwest Tollway overpass at Higgins Road near Devon Avenue onto his car, smashing the windshield.

Repossessed car real 'bomb'

Sometimes it's wise to check used cars very carefully. An agent working for the repossession firm that took back a car whose owner had defaulted on a loan found a live hand grenade in the car Wednesday. An Army explosive expert from Ft. Sheridan was summoned by Arlington Heights police and he disarmed the grenade.

MEG makes several arrests

Agents of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group, an undercover narcotics police agency, made several arrests in the Northwest suburbs within the past two days. MEG agents arrested a Villa Park man and charged him with selling undercover agents $1,000 worth of cocaine in the parking lot of a restaurant at Ill. Rte. 83 and Algonquin Rd., Mount Prospect Police said the man, Patrick J. Gobson, was carrying a loaded .38-caliber pistol when arrested. MEG agents also arrested a manager at the Rio Rand Motel in Des Plaines and two other persons at the motel. The agents seized 1,000 doses of methamphetamine, two pounds of marijuana and drug paraphernalia in the raid.

Domed roof urged for stadium

The latest in the continuing saga of the proposed Bears' stadium in Arlington Heights: A village planner for Arlington Heights suggested that the Bears' stadium be built with a domed roof. The planner warned that an open stadium could become a "white elephant like Soldier Field" in Chicago unless the playing field and stands are protected from the elements. Madison Square Garden officials responded that they have no plans to put a dome on the proposed stadium. And attempts to get the race track property to disannex from the Salt Creek Park District and join the Arlington Heights Park District is an "act of piracy," the attorney representing track property owners said. There have been suggestions that, since the race track and its surrounding property is now in Arlington Heights but outside its park district, that the planned stadium and tax-rich race track property move into the Arlington Heights Park District. Atty. William Moore, representing Madison Square Garden Corp., said his client will have nothing to do with such a suggestion.

School closings anger official

Cody restrains board: school chief

The chairman of the Archdiocese of Chicago School Board charged Wednesday that the board is being "systematically suppressed" by John Cardinal Cody and has threatened to adjourn the board indefinitely if differences between the cardinal and the board aren't resolved by Aug. 4.

The board and Cody clashed last month over the cardinal's decision to close four inner-city Catholic elementary schools. The board objected to Cody closing the schools without the recommendation of the board.

Cody publicly criticized the board for questioning his decision June 23, saying he has sole authority over school closings and the board's recommendations are not binding.

Cody also said he placed in abeyance rules giving the board authority to review and make recommendations on proposed closings.

VITO PETRUZZELLI, school board chairman, said Wednesday the cardinal has advised the board that everything the board does is to be held in abeyance.

The cardinal's actions, Petruzzelli said, "have made it apparent to all members of the board that the board as we knew it, as we accepted it when interviewed as candidates, and as we have served on it, is in the process of being systematically suppressed."

"The board clearly has reached an impasse," he said.

Cody was out of town Wednesday and a spokesman for his office said there was "no comment."

PETRUZZELLI HAS requested that Cody "clarify" his views of the board's role.

"Unless such clarification is received prior to our next regularly scheduled meeting of Monday, Aug. 4, the board will be unable to effectively serve the cardinal and the people of the archdiocese as it is duty bound. If no such recommendations are forthcoming by that date, I am prepared to introduce a motion calling for adjournment sine die (without date)," he said.

Petruzzelli said the board could continue to act on important matters without any reference to its "im-passé" with Cody but "this would be a disservice to its constituents; it could resign en masse, an action quite dramatic, yet certainly counterproductive."

Clarification of the board's bylaws and constitution are needed because of the "serious breach of trust" between Cody and the board, said Petruzzelli.

HE SAID CODY'S public criticism of the board contained two allegations which are "categorically false and misleading."

Cody said the policy giving the board authority and responsibility to review requests for school closings has been suspended "at the verbal direction of the cardinal at various meetings with the executive committee."

"This statement is not true," Petruzzelli said. "The cardinal has never said to the executive committee of the board that (the) policy was to be held in abeyance."

Cody also said school board recommendations are not binding on his decisions and "the apparent feeling of ... the school board is that when they offer a recommendation (Cody) must accept it."

"This allegation is also untrue and grossly unfair," Petruzzelli said. "The school board in the past ... made its recommendations to His Eminence and accepted his decision to act contrary to the advice he received without any ill will or animosity. In the current school closing cases the board was not even given the opportunity to exercise its authority and responsibility."

Petruzzelli said the board never has questioned the ultimate authority of the archdiocese "but the rescinding of policies and the restructuring of the board's constitution appears to be an arbitrary application of that authority."

Dow plunges 10 more; 6th loss in row

New York (UPI) — Inflation concerns chilled a Wall Street rally Wednesday and drove prices sharply lower for the sixth consecutive session in moderately active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, ahead more than three points in the early afternoon, plunged 10.09 points to 836.67, bringing its six-day loss to 45.14 points. It was the worst loss since it fell 10.71 points July 7.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 1.27 to 90.16. The average price of an NYSE common share decreased by 46 cents. Declines routed advances, 1,226 to 274, among the 1,836 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 20,150,000 shares, down slightly from the 20,660,000 traded Tuesday.

Federal National Mortgage led the actives, off 3/8 to 15 on 328,000 shares. Weyerhaeuser was third unchanged at 37-3/8 on 267,400 shares. National Semiconductor was the second most active issue on 260,100 shares. It fell 3-5/8 to 39 1/2.

Prices closed sharply lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share fell 17 cents. Volume totaled 2,545,000 shares compared with 2,468,000 traded Tuesday.

In the Amex options, Walt Disney July 50s led the actives, off 9/16 to 3/16 on 1,164 contracts. Disney October 50s followed, off 7/8 to 3-7/8 on 632 contracts. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith October 20s were third, off 1/8 to 2-1/8 on 615 contracts.

On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, 77,887 contracts were traded compared with 73,219 Tuesday. Polaroid October 40s led the actives, off 1 to 5-3/8. IBM July 200s followed, off 1-3/8 to 5/8. Xerox October 90s were third, off 1/4 to 1/2.

Tornado kills 2 in Canton, Ill.

by United Press International

A tornado roared across the east side of Canton, Ill., Wednesday, toppling mobile homes, ripping into gas lines, killing at least two persons and trapping several others inside a building.

Authorities said the twister struck the International Harvester farm machinery plant on the city's east side, injuring several employees.

The trauma center at St. Francis Hospital in nearby Peoria sent emergency teams to the area.

STATE POLICE said all but two telephone lines into the Canton area were blocked and a number of area radio stations were temporarily knocked off the air.

"It's bad, it's damn bad," a Fulton County sheriff's deputy at Lewistown, Ill., said. He said extra police were called to duty to halt looting in the damaged area.

The storm apparently swept eastward in a wide front across western Illinois. In Moline on the Iowa border, lightning set afire a six-story warehouse and at least one home. Flames from the warehouse shot 200 feet into the air and traffic was halted on the Burlington Northern and Rock Island rail lines.

Severe thunderstorm warnings were posted for several counties in central Illinois.

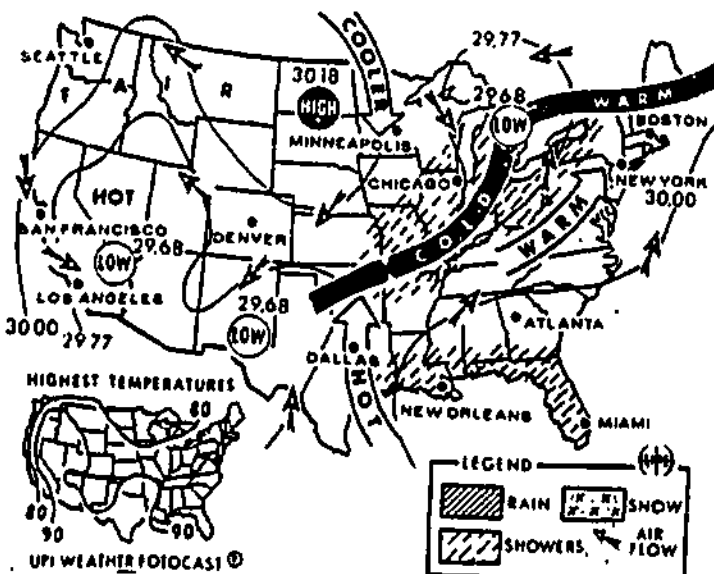

THE STORM climaxed a day of substantial rains which spread across the Midwest, falling on thirsty farmlands and ending in many areas a three-week dry spell that threatened to cut into an expected bumper corn crop.

The rainfall extended into portions of Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana. The Peoria area received nearly an inch in six hours. At Brandon, Iowa, Patricia Baumgartner, 33, was killed by lightning.

Thunderstorms also lashed the Gulf Coast from east Texas to Florida, stalled at the Carolinas and moved through the Texas Panhandle into western Oklahoma.

In the East, Penn Central Railroad crews worked to repair flood-damaged switching equipment at Trenton, N.J., and hoped to restore local service in the New York-Philadelphia corridor.

Death wins the fire rescue race

By United Press International
A fire escape collapsed during a fire Tuesday, plunging a teen-age baby-sitter and child five stories to the ground. A Boston fireman was saved from a fall by grabbing the tip of an outstretched ladder.

The woman, Diane Bryant, 19, died during surgery. Her godchild, Tiare Jones, 2, was in stable condition with multiple injuries.
A spokesman said Fireman Robert O'Neill had lowered himself from the roof to help Miss Bryant and the child. An aerial ladder reached up to the fifth floor fire escape moments before the fire escape collapsed, and O'Neill grabbed it and hung by his hands as the two others fell.

A fire department spokesman said the arson squad was investigating.

Apollo heads toward Pacific splashdown

HOUSTON (UPI) — The men of the last Apollo, near the end of their historic international mission, predicted Wednesday orbital flight by women and men will be "somewhat routine" in the coming age of the space shuttle rocket plane.

Thomas Stafford, Vance Brand and Donald "Deke" Slayton flew toward a 4:18 p.m. CDT Pacific Ocean splashdown Thursday and the close of the Apollo era. The recovery carrier New Orleans stood by to greet them. Landing zone weather was reported good.

The astronauts stowed medallions and flags in their sleek white Apollo — mementoes from their tandem flight with two Russian cosmonauts. They packed garbage in the throw-away docking tunnel on Apollo's nose that had formed the bridge last week to the Russians' green Soyuz spacecraft.

At 2:46 p.m. they jettisoned the tubular, 10-foot-long docking tunnel and sent it spinning off like a top. Scientists hope Apollo and the tunnel, flying 186 miles apart in space, will help them map the buried edges of the continents by detecting small changes in gravity.

A one-second burst with Apollo's main engine 35 minutes later put the spacecraft into an orbit 136 by 144 miles high, moving it away from the docking tunnel and into position for the gravity shift measurements.

Flying the 15th and last Apollo, built to carry Americans to the moon, the spacemen were headed toward the 31st splashdown by the Mercury, Gemini and Apollo craft that have carried 43 Americans into space since 1961. It will be the last U.S. spacecraft water landing.

Back on earth a senior U.S. space official in Houston said Slayton — last of the original seven Mercury astronauts to travel beyond earth's bounds and, at 51, the oldest man ever in space — would get a chance to direct testing of the revolutionary shuttle and fly it in orbit.

"We're predicting . . . that space is going to become more and more a medium to work in that can benefit the people on earth," Stafford said, looking into the second 15 years of man's ventures beyond his home planet. The key change, he said, will be the advent of the U.S. space shuttle in 1979.

"After a quiet period of four or five years," Stafford said, "Then you're going to see space become more and more a somewhat routine type of operation."

Brand, asked about the future of women in space, replied: "I certainly think that in the years to come we'll have women in space. I think the first good chance for women in space would be in the shuttle era."

Maximum boost for 1st class stamp eyed

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Ballar said Wednesday he will seek the maximum boost in first class stamp prices possible to help pay for the new three-year labor contract which will ultimately add nearly $2 billion a year to the postal deficit. He said that with a 13-cent first class rate, he believed he could cover the cost of the new contract and put the postal service on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Senate OKs extension of Vote Rights Act

The Senate Wednesday approved a seven-year extension of the Voting Rights Act — after rejecting an attempt by southerners, with the backing of President Ford — to apply federal controls over local election laws in all 50 states. By a 52-42 vote the Senate accepted an amendment from assistant Democratic leader Robert Byrd to reduce the House-passed 10-year extension to seven years. Acceptance of seven years instead of 10 threw into doubt whether the House would go along in time to meet an Aug. 6 deadline.

Kissinger relays Egypt's peace proposal

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger relayed Egypt's latest Mideast peace proposal to Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz Wednesday and indicated progress toward settling the dispute over Sinai. "I think it's going forward," Kissinger told reporters on emerging from a White House meeting with Dinitz. "I think we're in negotiations."

Ford lobbies to lift Turkey arms sale ban

President Ford lobbied Wednesday with a third group of House members to lift the ban on arms sales to Turkey. At the same time, Congress moved toward a compromise on Ford's proposed sale of a $350 million air defense system to Jordan. Deputy White House Press Secretary William Greener told reporters the President "is certainly very hopeful" the House will vote to lift the Turkish arms ban.

JFK sought reaction to possible Castro assassination: Smathers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Florida Sen. George Smathers said Wednesday President John F. Kennedy sought his reaction to a possible assassination plot against Cuban Premier Fidel Castro early in 1962.

Smathers, speaking with reporters after being questioned by the Senate Select CIA Committee, said Kennedy "wanted to know what the reaction in the United States and around the world would be."

"I said it would be terrible if it got out in the United States and because no matter what Kennedy did it would be attributed to him," Smathers said.

He gave no indication whether Kennedy actually approved any attempt to kill Castro.

Earlier, in a telephone interview, the Rev. James Vizzard said the CIA gave Belgian Jesuit Rev. Roger Vekemans $5 million in 1963 — with Kennedy's approval — to support anti-Communist political movements in Chile.

Smathers said his memory on the assassination conversation has dimmed with time but he believes Kennedy brought up the subject. At the time, Smathers said, "I was more against Castro than he was."

During the conversation, Smathers said, Kennedy "was very outspoken against taking that assassination line even though admitting that someone had suggested it to him. I don't know who that was."

The Roman Catholic priest, Vizzard, said Vekemans reported he got the secret CIA funds and another $5 million in aboveboard U.S. foreign aid money after he met Kennedy and John McCone, then director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

"Roger came back from the White House with a big grin on his face and he said, 'I got $10 million — $5 million from AID (Agency for International Development) and $5 million covert from the CIA,'" Vizzard said.

Vizzard was commenting on allegations of CIA ties to church groups raised by John Marks, a former Foreign Service officer and co-author of the book "The CIA and the Cult of Intelligence."

Smathers, a Democrat who retired from the Senate in 1970, had related his conversations with Kennedy about a possible Castro assassination plot in a 1964 taped interview for the Oral History Series in the Kennedy Library.

Smathers said he is irritated that aspects of that conversation "got out" in news reports.

Report Ford has new oil price plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said Wednesday President Ford has a new compromise formula for decontrolling oil prices, and Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield hinted Congress might accept it.

In an apparent attempt to sweeten the offer and get fast action, spokesmen also suggested Ford might accept a brief extension of current oil price controls while Congress works on his long-term plan for decontrol.

With current oil price controls due to expire Aug. 31 and Congress recessing Aug. 1 for a month, there was little time to break the current deadlock on energy pricing policy. Ford Monday vetoed legislation that would have tightened existing controls, and Congress Tuesday killed Ford's counter-proposal for gradual phaseout of controls.

"The President might send a new oil price decontrol plan to Capitol Hill if it looks like Congress is willing to compromise," deputy press secretary William Greener told a news conference.

Ford told White House visitors he talked compromise on the oil price issue with congressional leaders Tuesday night and said, "We hope to find an answer in the next few days or week so the Congress and the President can work together."

Greener said Ford's willingness to compromise depends upon Congress' willingness to act rapidly.

Graham favors ordaining qualified homosexuals

American evangelist Billy Graham said Wednesday he is in favor of ordaining qualified homosexuals to the ministry, but preferred to decline comment at present on the ordination of women. He said they should fulfill certain qualifications, including turning away from their sins, receiving Christ, offering themselves to Christ and the ministry after repentance, and obtaining the proper training.

Howard Hughes pleaded with the Long Beach, Calif. harbor commission to save his Spruce Goose, once the world's largest plane, because he has a "very great emotional and sentimental attachment" to it. Hughes' attorney, Jonal Jones, said in a year Hughes can arrange to have it preserved as an exhibit. The plane, with a 320-foot wingspan, was airborne once — for a few minutes in 1947, with Hughes at the controls. Hughes pays the federal General Services Administration — actual owners of the plane — $100,800 a year for upkeep.

at Greenwood Racetrack. Organ was asked to punch numbers 9 and 5, but actually punched 9 and 6. He was unable to sell the ticket, so paid for it himself. The horses came in and he is now $3,501 richer.

Interior Secretary Stanley K. Hathaway offered to quit last week because of fatigue and mild depression, but President Ford rejected the offer, deputy presidential press secretary William Greener said Wednesday.

NBC-TV president Robert Howard says cops 'n robbers television shows aren't just mindless diversion but help educate Americans about how law enforcement really works. He said good television drama can show "police work as it is, and as it changes in response to new needs and attitudes of society."

Greenspan: recession recovery ahead of schedule

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presidential economist Alan Greenspan said Tuesday recovery from the recession is running "ahead of schedule" but inflationary forces may be picking up steam.

Greenspan also said the administration is confident the economy can absorb the jolt of another round of oil price increases this fall without aborting recovery. He disputed studies by other economists that foresee an acceleration of both inflation and recession resulting.

Another increase is expected this fall in the price of foreign or domestic oil, or both. A sharp increase in 1973 is considered one of the major causes of the recession.

Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, gave an upbeat outlook in an appearance before the congressional Joint Economic Committee. Democrats challenged his optimism.

"We believe that the developments of the first half of the year have set the stage for recovery and, taken together, they indicate a somewhat stronger pickup in production and employment in the second half of this year than we had generally been anticipating," Greenspan said.

But he cautioned that an increase in farm prices will produce a bulge in the wholesale price index for July. Overall, he said, consumer prices can be expected to rise in the neighborhood of 6 to 8 per cent this year.

Two Democrats disputed Greenspan.

by BETTY LEE

Buffalo Grove village officials are conducting field surveys on the Jackson Drive area in Wheeling Township to find a suitable site for a retention basin.

Village Engineer Arnold Seaberg said topographical surveys will show areas where a retention basin can be built to relieve the flooding problems at University Court in Buffalo Grove.

"We'll look at the area to see what would be the best," Seaberg said.

Included in the Jackson Drive area are 2.8 acres belonging to Wheeling- Buffalo Grove Dist. 21. School officials have said they are willing to sell the property to the village for its purchase price two years ago—about $50,000.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS earlier approached the school district to obtain property at Sandburg School, immediately west of University Court.

School officials, however, were cool to the idea and said the district needed the property. They also said a retention basin would pose dangers for school children.

Buffalo Grove officials also were seeking to have a pump installed at Lakeside Villas townhouse development in Wheeling as part of the flood relief system.

The developers, Zale Construction Co., said they did not want to install the pump because facilities were adequate.

Zale did offer to install a pump between Lakeside Villas and Tahoe Village, north of the Zale development between Buffalo Grove Road and Jackson Drive. An agreement on installing the pump, however, must be made with the builders of Tahoe Village, Ben Pekin Corp., before it can be installed.

THE VILLAGE of Wheeling, whose officials had agreed to participate in the flooding matter, has hired consulting engineers to study the feasibility of installing the pump.

Seaberg said he has not heard from Wheeling officials but expects an engineering report soon.

A retention basin seven acre feet or any basin equivalent to seven acres of water one foot deep, is needed to solve the flooding problems, Seaberg said. He added there were doubts whether property that size can be obtained.

Seaberg also said he was uncertain when residents along University Court can see flood relief. The village must determine costs and design and obtain financing for the retention basin, as well as village board approval, Seaberg said.

Flood relief may come in six months, Seaberg said. "But I see nothing for the fall," he said.

Parks' tax levy rises by $16,000

The Prospect Heights Park Board approved a preliminary tax levy ordinance of $80,750 this week.

The final ordinance, which will provide next year's real estate tax receipts for the district, will be approved next month.

The preliminary levy figure, which does not include bond indebtedness, compares with a similar figure of $73,342 last year. Park Director Ronald Greenberg said the levy was increased because of an anticipated rise in the district's total assessed valuation.

Greenberg said the park board expects the assessed valuation to increase despite the reduction of the assessment equalization factor by county officials. There has been a large amount of construction, including apartments, in the district.

Pacers set fast pace in first year

The Prospect Pacers baton corps has had a successful first year's work, culminating in its first-place finish in the recent state championships at Buffalo Grove High School.

The 23 girls in the corps, who range in age from 9 to 16, are a beginners' parade corps, sponsored by the Prospect Heights Park District and directed by Judy Magnuson.

In their final competition of the year, at the National Baton Twirlers Assn. state championship, the corps won two first-place awards—for novice parade corps and dance-twirl team. The championship was held July 12 at Buffalo Grove High School.

The group also captured a first-place award in an Illinois Park and Recreation Society competition and won second place in the same organization's state championship. The group's total awards from four competitions, include three first and one second-place finish.

Girls of all ages, interested in baton lessons or the Pacers, should contact the park district, at 394-2848. New classes will be formed in September.

FBI probes Palwaukee plane 'theft'

The reported theft Tuesday of a single-engine airplane from Palwaukee Airport possibly was the result of a misunderstanding between friends, but the FBI has begun an investigation.

An FBI spokesman said he did not know the location of the stolen plane nor if any arrest had been made. The plane, a Cessna 122M valued at $26,000, was reported stolen at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday from the airport, south of Wheeling.

Sheriff's police said a friend of the plane's owner, Leo Brigrman, 39, of 2136 N. Avers, Chicago, heard a radio report of the plane's takeoff and told Brigrman. Brigrman told police he had not given anyone authority to take the plane.

Esther Noffke, an administrative assistant at Palwaukee, said Brigrman told her he knew who took the airplane. "It is some kind of communications problem," Ms. Noffke said.

SEVERAL PERSONS have been permitted to use the plane by Brigrman, Ms. Noffke said, and it was apparently one of them who took the plane Tuesday.

Brigrman kept a key to the plane under the cowling (engine housing), which is probably how the airplane was taken, Ms. Noffke said.

"These people come and go. They have their own individual hangar, their own assigned area," she said, adding that Brigrman told her it was the second time the airplane was stolen. Previously, the airplane was kept at Chicagoand Airport, north of Wheeling on Milwaukee Avenue.

Sheriff's police said Brigrman told them he would sign a complaint if the person who took the plane is caught. No authority could give the name of the alleged airplane thief. An unconfirmed radio report Tuesday said the plane was headed for Virginia.

Rooftop for Bears' stadium urged by Arlington official

The stadium proposed for Arlington Park Race Track should be enclosed in order to have maximum usability, Joe Kesler, Arlington Heights village planner, has told officials of Madison Square Garden Corp.

"The stadium is not just a project for Arlington Heights, or the suburban area of Chicago," Kesler said. "This is a facility for all of Northern Illinois."

An open-air stadium as proposed by Madison Square Garden could turn out to be "another white elephant similar to Soldier Field in Chicago," he said.

Though an enclosed stadium would cost more to build, Kesler admitted, the potential for year-round use would mean more revenue from stadium events to pay off construction bonds.

KESLER SAID he would like to see restaurants, meeting rooms and galleries included in the stadium plan to make it a "civic and cultural attraction for the entire suburban area."

Arlington Park Race Track and Oak Brook are the two best-sited locations for a stadium, Kesler said. Oak Brook has better highway access, but the race track has the advantage of the Chicago and North Western Ry. commuter station, he said.

In response, William Moore, attorney for Madison Square Garden, said that "there has never been any groundswell (of support) for an enclosed stadium."

Whether to put a roof on the stadium or not comes down to a matter of "individual preference," he said.

Madison Square Garden has never proposed an enclosed stadium for Arlington Park, and there is no indication that one is being considered.

Foxboro faces review tonight

The Wheeling Plan Commission tonight will review progress on improvements required by the village at the Foxboro apartment development.

The plan commission required the improvements, including installation of a well, regrading and landscaping of a drainage ditch, installation of a deceleration lane, parking lot striping, installation of street signs and fencing around tennis courts, before approval for second phase development work is given.

The improvements were required when the village learned that developer, Irving Lefkowitz, had made changes in certain designs, including the size of parking spaces and sidewalks, without first receiving plan commission approval.

The village board will not approve building permits for the second phase of development for the 238-unit project until the plan commission gives its approval.

The commission meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

'Miss Peanut' contest tonight

The Wheeling Township Kiwanis Club will host its annual "Little Miss Peanut Contest" tonight for girls 6 to 8 years old.

Wheeling Township contestants can be registered at 6:30 p.m. at the Old Orchard Country Club, Rand Road and Euclid Avenue, Mount Prospect.

The contest, in which girls will be evaluated on poise and personality, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Winners will receive $25 bonds, will enter other district contests and will help publicize fund-raising drives for community projects.

There also will be entertainment, a magic show and free gifts.

Judges will be: Joseph Lesniak, Prospect Heights Park District; Roland Goins, Hersey High School principal; Mory Hryczek, principal of the Eisenhower Elementary School in Prospect Heights; the Rev. Anton Weber, Church of the Good Shepherd, Prospect Heights; and Sally Okimo, Prospect Heights Dist. 23 school board member.

Big day for Susan

Bone-cancer victim leaves hospital under own strength

by NANCY COWGER

Today is Susan Lark's homecoming. Susan will walk out of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, under her own power and with the aid of crutches, nearly a month of treatment for bone-marrow cancer. Part of her treatment included the amputation of one leg.

The 11-year-old Arlington Heights resident has a big following, even though she can't see all the faces and know all the names. Susan is the focus of a suburban fund-raising effort supported both by friends and strangers, to help pay her uninsured medical bills, now estimated to exceed $40,000.

Dinner will be served Tuesday at two McDonald's restaurants in Arlington Heights, in Susan's behalf.

BILL KIMPEL, owner of the two franchises, Wednesday announced he will donate half the proceeds of the 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday business to the Susan Lark Fund. On a normal Tuesday evening, that would amount to about $600, Kimpel said. But with support from the public he hopes to raise the donation figure to $1,000. The restaurants are on North Arlington Heights

Susan Lark

Road, just south of Rand Road, and on Northwest Highway at Wilke Road.

"I have sympathy. Nobody can afford that kind of catastrophe," said Kimpel of the Lark family's plight. Susan's father, a computer specialist, had been unemployed due to the recession most of the past two years. Although he now has started a new job in Toronto, the family has no hospitalization insurance. Susan's oldest brother, Steve, 19, works at the Northwest Highway restaurant.

Children in Palatine are holding a carnival Saturday with pony rides, games and refreshment sales to raise funds in Susan's behalf. It will be in the home of Irene Kinsella, 13, at Walnut and Glencoe streets.

A benefit garage sale starts today at the home of Patricia Shipley, 4513 Lincoln St., Rolling Meadows, and will continue through Saturday. Area merchants and family friends have donated merchandise. Another garage sale will be July 31 through Aug. 2 at 312 N. Van Buren St., East Dundee.

BRITISH FRIENDS of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Lark, Susan's parents, are holding a "pie and pea supper" with donations of money requested. Mrs. Lark is a native of England, although she has lived in the U.S. 20 years. The supper is a British tradition.

The fund, established at the First National Bank of Dundee, has surpassed $1,400, although a check for the first $1,000 was presented to the Larks at a benefit dance Saturday night. Donations may be mailed to the bank in care of Joyce Proia, 2015 Berkshire Circle, Carpentersville, 60110.

An anonymous donor sent a $250 check to the fund, Mrs. Proia said. Other donations have come from children, as well as adults. A group of Bensenville youngsters raised $27 in a car wash, and Rolling Meadows children earned $10 in a carnival, and both groups sent the money to Susan's fund.

Susan's mother said final reports after the amputation surgery July 11 indicate "they caught everything in time." Susan is "all excited about" going home and being able to use the crutches instead of a wheel chair. Therapists may be able to fit her first artificial leg within three weeks, Mrs. Lark said. Susan will have to have new artificial legs periodically, as she grows.

"THE DOCTOR figures within a year she'll be able to do all the things other children are doing," Mrs. Lark said. "Things are looking so good for us. You can't really believe people care so much, but they do," she said.

Susan "has her ups and downs, but then who wouldn't," said Mrs. Lark. Her hospital room has been festooned with cards and gifts since her illness first was made public July 12.

"When Susan realized what could have been, she was very grateful" for the life-saving surgery. "She wants to live," Mrs. Lark said.

Kensington School keeps deaf education program

by DOROTHY OLIVER

The Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization board voted Wednesday night to keep the controversial deaf education program at Kensington School in Arlington Heights.

The board voted 8 to 1 to adopt the recommendation of the cooperative's new director, Edward McDonald, to keep the program at Kensington.

Seven of the 18 families with deaf children in the program later said that they would remove their children from the Kensington program. One mother said she has prepared a letter to County School Supt. Richard Martwick asking if he could do anything to remove the program from Kensington.

IN MAY, 12 of the 19 families with children in the program petitioned NSSEO asking that the program be removed from Kensington and Arlington Heights Dist. 25. Parents charged there was a lack of social integration for their children and inadequate speech development program, lack of equipment and said "good teachers" had been dismissed.

In his recommendation, McDonald acknowledged that the concerns of parents are legitimate but that many of the problems have been resolved.

"I was not responsible for the problems at Kensington. They were here when I arrived," he said. "I believe the administration should have taken an active role earlier so it would not have come to this point."

McDonald said this is his first decision as the director of NSSEO and he arrived at it "with the best interest of the children in mind — not only children in the program today but those who come in the future."

McDONALD SAID he hopes the 10 districts in the cooperative will make a commitment to sending their deaf children to Kensington.

Board President Richard Soby, of Arlington Heights Dist. 25, said "the administration needs our support. This is his first decision."

Board member Donald Hoeck of High School Dist. 214 complimented

McDonald "on your forceful, well-stated stand."

The lone 'no' vote was cast by Barbara Somogyi of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59. The Dist. 59 board has stated it will offer deaf children in its district an alternative program to the one at Kensington.

A COMMITTEE of the NSSEO board studying the possible movement of the program from Kensington also was considering Ridge or Clearmont schools in Dist. 59.

Barbara Prokopek, of Mount Prospect, a Dist. 59 parent of a deaf child, later said she has drafted a letter to Martwick asking his help. She was among the seven parents who Wednesday night said they will not send their children back to Kensington.

William Engler of Schaumburg, said if Dist. 59 makes a program available to deaf children, "that's where my child will go, too."

Carolyn Best, Elk Grove Village, said, "I have never seen such an example of barnstorming a program through in my life." Frank Ford, Elk Grove Village, another Dist. 59 parent, said, "McDonald may have won the battle but he will lose the war." The Fords also intend to remove their son from the program. Dist. 59 parents are meeting with their administration today to discuss an alternative program.

Zoo brew is 'near beer,' but ticket's the real thing

United Press International
Acting on the complaint of a suburban housewife, the Illinois Liquor Control Commission issued a citation Wednesday to the Brookfield Zoo for selling beer without a license.

The woman complained that children were drinking beer at the zoo. Commission agents found that concession stands run by the zoo were serving Kingsbury Brew, a drink containing 1.2 per cent alcohol. A state license is required for selling any drink with more than .5 per cent alcohol.

"The commission is principally seeking compliance with the Liquor Control Act," said Michael

R. Berz, commission chairman. A hearing is set for Aug. 28.

PETER CROWCROFT, the zoo director, said sale of the drink which he called "near beer" was discontinued Monday.

"We would like to sell beer just like the Milwaukee Zoo does but we can't," Crowcroft said. "We were not in any way trying to do something illegal."

He said the drink was not very popular because beer drinkers find it "awful" and soda pop drinkers think it is not sweet enough.

Crowcroft said the zoo had sold near beer for about four years because "we like the atmosphere of serving a foaming liquid."

Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine submit testimony

Let 3 towns switch to lake water by 1980: panel

The DAMP Water Commission asked the state Wednesday to allow three Northwest suburbs to switch from well water to Lake Michigan water in 1980.

The commission, formed by Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine in 1958, submitted voluminous written testimony and exhibits to the Illinois Division of Waterways in support of the request from Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine for lake water.

Des Plaines, which already gets lake water under an arrangement with Chicago, also is seeking a state allocation, but is not represented by the DAMP commission.

The DAMP panel asked that existing wells in the three villages be used after 1980 only as an emergency backup system.

DAMP WITNESSES argued that the three villages should switch to lake water exclusively.

The reason, they said, is that the three villages use such large amounts of water they could drain underground aquifers needed by communities that are smaller or farther from the lake.

They also pointed to the superior quality of Lake Michigan water as a reason for switching from well water.

The DAMP request is one of many being heard by the state before allocations of lake water are made next spring. The state is attempting to divide the court-imposed 3,200 cubic-feet-per-second limit on the amount of water Illinois can take from Lake Michigan.

DAMP IS asking for a 1980 allocation of 29.9 CFS of lake water. Individually, Arlington Heights is asking for 14 CFS; Palatine for 8.4 CFS; and Mount Prospect for 7.5 CFS. In 1974, the three communities' total use averaged between 20 and 25 CFS.

The only other local community to offer testimony at the hearing is Buffalo Grove. Officials of that village said they hope to use lake water only to supplement well supplies, not to replace use of well water.

Witnesses for DAMP Wednesday included Howard I. Olsen, who represents Palatine on the DAMP commission. Olsen said DAMP's consulting engineers have consistently recommended using lake water to alleviate local water shortages. He said that despite "good water management," the three communities will need lake water by 1980 because of declining ground-water levels.

GENE WILLROTH, Arlington Heights public works director and a DAMP commissioner, said Arlington Heights will need 117 gallons of water per person per day in 1980. Arlington Heights wells have been dropping an average of 13 feet per year since 1970, he said. The wells are nearing the lowest level at which they can be used practically, he said.

Robert Miller, Palatine public works and engineering director, said his village will need 137 gallons of water per person per day in 1980. Palatine's well levels have been declining at an average of 22 feet per year, he said.

David Creamer, Mount Prospect director of public works, said that village will need 94 gallons of water per capita per day in 1980.

Creamer said lower water usage in his village, as compared to Arlington Heights and Palatine, may be attributed in part to the small amount of industry in Mount Prospect.

Well levels in Mount Prospect have been dropping 16 feet per year since 1970, he said.

"We are fast approaching the point at which our water needs can't be satisfied by wells," he said.

WILLIAM H. PLAUTZ, a consulting engineer to DAMP, said the quality of Lake Michigan water makes it easy to treat for use as drinking water. He said for Arlington Heights, Palatine and Mount Prospect to continue to use well water would be "needless destruction of valuable ground-water supplies needed by smaller or less advantageously situated communities."

Questioning of local witnesses by the Metropolitan Sanitary District legal staff took five hours at Wednesday's hearing. Sanitary district attorney James Schink asked about the needs for lake water for the 250 acres proposed for development at the Arlington Park Race Track property.

He also raised questions about Mount Prospect's statistics which call for increased water usage per person in 1980, even though per-capita usage has declined in recent years.

Plautz said under cross-examination that local villages could drill more wells, but he said that would only advance the date when ground-water supplies would be insufficient.

He said supplementing well-water with lake water in a dual system would not be economically feasible for the three villages, even though Des Plaines has such a dual system.

Liquor dealers to appeal ruling on county tax

County liquor dealers are hoping to defeat in court a "gallage" tax on retail liquor sales before attempting to abolish the home-rule power under which the tax was approved.

A spokesman for the Illinois Liquor Store Assn. said Wednesday that opponents of the liquor tax believe they have a good chance of defeating it in the Illinois Appellate or Supreme Court.

The tax was upheld Monday by Cook County Circuit Judge F. Emmett Morrissey. Unless struck down by a higher court, the tax will become effective Aug. 1.

Liquor dealers, however, found comfort in Morrissey's ruling, which said that imposing the tax on inventories held by dealers on Aug. 1 would be unconstitutional.

HOWARD SCHWARTZBACK, president of Famous Industries, Inc., and president of the liquor store association, said Morrissey's ruling "got some ideas into the record" which the dealers hope will provide the basis for a favorable ruling by the higher courts.

He said attorneys for the liquor dealers will argue against "vagueness and the impossibility to enforce" the law.

Schwartzback said there is no other tax in the nation based on "gallage." Other comparable taxes, he said, are geared to the retail selling price. But, he said, the county has no authority to impose an additional sales tax.

Opponents of the tax have argued that it usurps the state's authority to regulate the liquor industry.

THE COUNTY BOARD approved the tax under the home-rule provision of the 1970 state constitution which allows certain governmental units of power to impose taxes and regulations not specifically forbidden by the General Assembly.

The liquor dealers are considering a drive to abolish the county's home-rule power through a referendum if the tax is upheld.

If the tax is enacted, it will add 20 cents to the price of a fifth of liquor, 2 1/2 cents to a six-pack of beer, and 12 or 30 cents to a gallon of wine, based on alcoholic content.

Marriage after 65

They found happiness late in life

by ELEANOR RIVES
(Second of two parts)

Love stories belong to all ages, and that includes the elderly.

"Do I perform marriages of elderly couples? Certainly," said Dr. James Martin of First Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights. "I rejoice with them that they have found companionship and compatibility, someone with whom to share life in their golden years."

"Older marriages are exceedingly fruitful despite some static on the part of children who might imagine the newcomer is out to get their portion of the family funds. But usually the children are delighted, too."

Murray and Irma Tyler of Palatine have been senior citizens for a number of years. They celebrated their first wedding anniversary in May.

They believe their marriage a good one. They are happy, content.

BOTH WERE LIVING with their children in Palatine when they met at the Palatine Leisure Club, a senior citizens' group. They played cards together, they took trips with the group. They liked each other enough to want to be together all the time.

Murray had been a widower for six years when he married Irma, who had been married twice before. They bought a condominium in a building complex that provides them with swimming pool, clubhouse and a senior citizens' club of its own.

"I wondered what it would be like, to set up housekeeping again," said Irma. "Well, it was fun. It was fun buying new furniture, choosing carpeting, starting all over. It wasn't an ordeal at all."

The Tylers do everything together — travel, go to movies, to potluck luncheons. They belong to about half a dozen senior citizen clubs.

THEIR ADVICE TO "golden years" couples contemplating marriage: Don't rush into things. Go together for a year or two to be sure you would enjoy living together. Be sure you can live comfortably on the fixed income you will have.

"Murray is extremely compatible, very easy to get along with, a perfect gentleman," said Irma. "These marriages are good things. You can get terribly lonely, even living with your own family. They have their own friends. It's not like being in your own home where you can cook, entertain, do as you please."

Jay and Clara Knutz of Mount Prospect have been happily married for six years. They live in a ranch house — the house Jay and his first wife built in 1957. Her death ended a marriage of 41 years.

CLARA HAS a house, too, a duplex in South Carolina. But there's another place that's especially dear to them, where they spend a couple of months each year. It's the place where they met: Trinity Methodist College in Dunedin, Fla.

Clara was organizing the bazaar for the Student Aid fund, her annual volunteer project. Jay was using the facilities for a two-week vacation. The hostess seated them at the same table.

"We were together three meals a day, every day," said Jay. Clara added, in her soft, southern drawl, "We sized each other up, we talked, his ways suited my ways."

Instead of two weeks, Jay stayed two and a half months.

THEY CONTINUED their romance by correspondence and met there again the following year. Jay's daughter had already guessed the next step. But when Clara's daughter learned of

BETTER TO BE WITH someone your own age, agree Murray and Irma Tyler, center, both of whom lived with their children before their marriage a little over a year ago. Their bridge-playing buddies at the Palatine Leisure Club, where they first met, are their engagement, she broke into tears.

"After she met Jay, she was delighted," said Clara. "My two grandchildren called him 'grandpa' right off."

The Knutzes enjoy the freedom of having a home, the fun of working in the garden, traveling, going out to dinner, socializing with other seniors.

"If one is active and one is not, it's no good," said Jay.

To seniors considering marriage, he has this advice: In regard to finances, reach a definite understanding of the financial arrangements between yourselves and in relation to your children. In regard to making the marriage succeed, always consider the feelings and wishes of the other party.

CLARA GLANCED at Jay admiringly and said, "How could he have stayed single seven years, a good looking man like him!"

The best antidote for loneliness is togetherness if one follows the golden years' lifestyle of Elmer and Erna Passow of Des Plaines. That is, if one can keep up with them. It isn't easy.

The Passows married when he was 61 and she was 58. He had been a widower for two years, she a widow for four. They met at Ladendorf Motors where he was a salesman, and where, after 50 years, he still spends an hour or two each day.

Fate must have been smiling when Elmer delivered Erna's new car to her home. The coffee pot was on; the coffee cake was waiting. It started from there.

THE PASSOWS have been happily married for 15 years. "What one does, the other does," said Elmer. That includes exercise classes at the Y, swimming and water ballet — "Imagine! At my age, I learned to swim," exclaimed Erna; bicycling as much as 12 miles before breakfast; housekeeping; gardening; and traveling — more traveling in the 15 years of their marriage than in all the previous years of their lives.

Traveling is a dynamic activity in the hands of the Passows. Erna organizes trips for the Golden Agers of Des Plaines, often serves as guide. She and Elmer take extensive photographs, then create a slide travelogue with taped commentary and musical background appropriate to each country. They present their show to churches, nursing homes, schools, senior citizens' clubs.

WHEN THEY MARRIED, Erna moved into the home Elmer had lived in since 1927, and added a paneled family room to the rear. Despite their busy schedule, housekeeping is not much of a chore, for, as Elmer explained, "If you don't mess it up, you don't need to clean it."

The Passows have had the foresight to plan now for the time when they can no longer keep up a house and yard. "Neither of us could live with our children; we have our way of life, they have theirs," said Erna.

They have applied for future purchase of a small duplex-type home in a church-sponsored senior citizens' project in Ottawa, Ill. Every type service is available, from minimum outdoor maintenance to complete nursing care.

WHAT MAKES A second-time-around, autumn-of-your-life marriage succeed? According to the Passows, one factor is compatibility, teamwork, to like the same activities. Another is good health. Another is a sound financial agreement before marriage, one that both parties and their children feel is fair and just.

Elmer added still another when he said thoughtfully, "A successful second marriage often depends upon how successful the first marriage was."

DOING EVERYTHING together enriches the lives of Elmer and Erna Passow of Des Plaines, who have been married 15 years. That includes bicycling, swimming, travel and giving travelogues.

SIX WONDERFUL YEARS — That's how Jay and Clara Knutz of Mount Prospect describe their late-in-life marriage. In their seventies, they maintain a home and garden, travel a great deal, socialize with other couples and belong to Extensioners and Young At Heart senior citizens clubs.

Farm policy works against consumer

Any way you look at it, farmers and consumers lose.

Despite the glib rhetoric of U.S. agricultural policymakers, U.S. farm policy continues to ensure a no-win situation for farmers and consumers — not to mention the starving millions abroad — while benefiting instead the interests of agribusiness and U.S. foreign policy.

At a meeting in Chicago last month, Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., and Richard Lyng, president of the American Meat Institute (a trade association) and formerly assistant secretary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, promoted the preferences of USDA and agribusiness. As usual, the message was clothed in glowing promises of full production and good prices for farmers and adequate food at reasonable prices for consumers.

Lyng and Curtis advocated a free market and no government food reserves, which has been USDA policy for several years — years which have seen the U.S. selling out its wheat reserves to the Soviet Union while food prices for consumers and feed grain prices for farmers soared and millions of people in Africa starved.

The President's Council of Economic Advisors this year reported the obvious: that USDA's free market farm policy "has brought out a basic characteristic of agricultural markets — large price fluctuations and the uncertainty that these fluctuations generate."

That basic characteristic was bitterly realized in the 1920s and '30s, and USDA responded then by setting up a price stabilization structure to modify unpredictable food supplies and prices. Over the years it involved price supports, export-import controls and food reserves, which kept things on a relatively even keel for farmers and consumers but was vastly unpopular with agribusiness and so has been dismantled.

For example, Lyng criticized an export embargo that was put on soybeans several years ago to reduce soaring domestic prices. He lamented that it had resulted in Brazil gaining entrance into the international soybean market.

That attitude is consistent with commercial interest in "aggressive" international trade, and with the government's interest in achieving agricultural trade dominance as an economic and political lever, but it is hardly consistent with the interests of U.S. consumers and farmers or the less developed countries.

The concept of U.S. trade dominance in agricultural commodities was proposed in the "Flanigan Report" of the Nixon Administration. Besides preventing other countries from competing agriculturally — and maintaining high prices — it is a blueprint for continued concentration of farm production onto huge corporate farms, thus pushing still more family farmers out of business. In spite of this, Lyng blithely predicts less corporate farming and more "large family farms."

As for food reserves, Curtis declared they are "unfair to American farmers and taxpayers. Yet according to a former USDA official, Carol Brunthaver, now an economist at the Brookings Institution, the cost of carrying food stocks is "relatively small compared with the additional costs consumers have paid for food over the past two years."

In the face of the critical worldwide food situation, USDA has now come out in favor of non-government food reserves. But the idea that reserves held by profit-seeking commercial interests would be used to stabilize prices is absurd. Lyng flatly stated that "reserves should not be used as price stabilizers," a view undoubtedly shared by most of agribusiness.

Thus, the Congressional Research Service bleakly reported to the Senate three alternatives for this year's agricultural outlook:

- Bumper crops, which without government purchases for reserves could severely depress the U.S. farm economy (but with large foreign sales, consumer prices will stay high);

- Moderate crops, which without reserves may be inadequate to meet livestock feed needs (meaning high meat prices);

- Poor crops, which would certainly mean soaring prices and famine worldwide.

For farmers and consumers both here and abroad, it's heads you lose, tails you lose.

The homeline

by Dorothy Ritz

Frozen food: pick up last and dig deep

Dear Dorothy: The supermarkets sure haven't solved how to store frozen foods properly. I've just practically had to toss a package of frozen broccoli because it had no taste. I've long been suspicious about those open freezer compartments in the stores. Isn't there anything we can do about it? — Jane Amundson

Only thing I know is that when you have a choice go to the store that takes some care. As all of us know, supermarket help can range from first-class to awful and sometimes, I'm afraid, the awful tend the freezers. The things to do are take a long second look to make sure the package you're after is well under the frostline in the freezer, isn't soft and has no ice coating on the outside. One other suggestion: Make it a practice to buy your frozen foods and perishables last when marketing. Less time between store and your own refrigerator the better.

Dear Dorothy: We have washable wallpaper in our bathroom. Is there a special way we should wash it? — Jan Willett

Like any wall-washing job, start from the bottom. Squeeze out a sponge from a solution made of detergent and cool water. Using as little water as possible, wash a small area at a time, overlapping each area. Rub gently. Rinse with a clean sponge wrung out of clear lukewarm water. Then blot dry with a clean cloth or towel.

Dear Dorothy: Can you bake rice just as easily as boiling it? — Helen Zuckerman.

Just as easy. Heat your oven to 350. Put one cup of rice and one teaspoon of salt into a casserole. Stir two cups of boiling water into the rice. Cover pan tightly. Let it bake 30 to 35 minutes. Do not peek; do not stir. Fluff with a fork just before serving.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Padlock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jordan

Wedding in Wisconsin

Marsha Mott, a Wheeling girl who moved to Rhinelander, Wis., in June of '74, became the bride of Thomas Jordan of Rhinelander in a spring ceremony there in St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

Marsha is the daughter of the Philip Mott and is a '73 graduate of Wheeling High School. She is now secretary to the dean of community services at Nicolet College and Technical Institute in Rhinelander, and her husband works for Triumph Twist Drill Co.

MARY LOCKFEER of Wheeling was maid of honor and John Kronschnabl of Rhinelander best man. The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Donna Mott of Gurnee, served as bridesmaid and Dennis Brown, Rhinelander, as groomsmen.

Marsha and Tom, who composed their own double ring ceremony, were driven to the reception in a 1929 Willys Knight owned by the groom and his groomsmen.

The bridal pair honeymooned in Florida, Georgia, Kentucky and Tennessee for a week before returning to Rhinelander.

Four o'clock is romantic hour for Hoffman couple

Although Kathleen A. Martin and Richard M. Reif became engaged at 4 a.m. at O'Hare Airport two years ago when Kathleen was returning from a visit in Europe, they chose 4 p.m. for their wedding June 28.

Kathleen, daughter of the Donald M. Martins, Hoffman Estates, and Richard, son of the Milo J. Reifs, Waco, Va., former Hoffman Estates residents, were married in Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, Hoffman Estates.

For the candlelight, double ring service Kathleen chose a hoop-skirted gown of lace. Kathleen made her own elbow-length veil which was held by a cap of pearls and daisy applique. She carried white roses with white, yellow and light green carnations.

MRS. GREG Komorski was matron of honor for her sister's wedding and bridesmaids were Patricia Martin, Hoffman Estates; Cynthia Toboldt, Round Lake, Ill.; and Lynn Reif, the groom's sister-in-law, from Newark, Ohio.

All wore gowns of nile green dotted Swiss with a matching bolero jacket and wide brim hats with white floral trim and matching ribbons. They carried yellow, light green and white daisies, carnations and baby's breath.

Michael J. Gascon, Schaumburg, was best man and John Reutsche, Hoffman Estates, the groom's brother, Thomas P. Reif from Newark, Ohio, and Theodore Geiersbach III of Hoffman Estates also served the groom.

A DINNER reception for 108 was held at the Holiday Inn in Rolling Meadows. The couple then left for a honeymoon in Florida.

Kathleen, a '73 graduate of Conant High School, attended Harper College.

Anonymous group sets open meeting

Families Anonymous, a self-help organization for parents of drug users, will hold an open meeting next Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in Bethel Lutheran Church, 2150 Frontage Rd., Palatine.

The meeting is intended to acquaint interested persons with the work of Families Anonymous, which normally is closed to non-participants. According to a spokesman, the meeting will be especially geared toward professionals, such as counselors, clergymen and others, who might refer people to Families Anonymous.

A founder and two members of the group will discuss how it operates and what it seeks to achieve.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Reif

She is employed at F. W. Means and Company in Rolling Meadows.

Richard is a '70 graduate of Conant and a '72 graduate of Harper College. He is now attending Northern Illinois University and is employed at Harry Dehner and Associates in Elgin, where the couple is making their home.

Ring pillow from 1919 carried at June rites

A ring pillow first used in her grandparents' wedding on June 23, 1919, was again carried last June 23 for the wedding of Barbara Jean Pingel, daughter of the Willard A. Pingels, Mount Prospect.

St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect, was the setting of Barbara's marriage to Jon Elmer Dahl, son of the Elmer S. Dahls, Rolling Meadows.

The bride designed and made her gown of silk-faced organza and Chantilly lace and wore a matching cap which held a fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis, baby's breath, mums, pink roses and ivy. Her "something old" was a 60-year-old cameo pin, the first gift her maternal grandfather gave to her grandmother.

MRS. CRAIG WOODS, sister of the bride from Coon Rapids, Minn., was the matron of honor and the groom's sister, Virginia Dahl, Rolling Meadows, was maid of honor. Their colonial gowns were in pink and white and they held bouquets of pink daisies, carnations and bachelor buttons, with baby's breath and ivy. The bride's two-year-old cousin, Megan McCaskey, Palatine, carried the ring pillow. The pillow was also used at the wedding of the bride's parents and also at the wedding of her sister.

Scott Crawford, Hoffman Estates, served as best man. The groom's brother, Blaine, Rolling Meadows, the bride's brother-in-law, Craig Woods,

Mr. and Mrs. Jon Dahl

Coon Rapids, and Robert Potter, Pittsburgh, Pa., were groomsmen.

A BUFFET SUPPER for 100 guests was held in the church. The couple is at home in Monmouth, Ill.

The bride, a 1972 graduate of Forest View High School, attended Rosary College in River Forest. She is now attending Western Illinois University.

The groom, a 1971 graduate of Forest View, recently graduated from Monmouth College and has a sales position in Galesburg, Ill.

Damage they do tells on garden bugs

My friendship with insect pests goes back to childhood. When other kids were cashing in pop bottles for money to go to the movies, I was collecting lightning bugs and selling them to an insect lab. And who among us has never earned the old allowance by picking potato bugs for mother?

I planted lima beans this year, just hoping to find a lima bean pod borer or two — one never knows. This insect is pink with a pale yellow head, found in the South and often wiggles violently when disturbed. Here is a needed addition to my bug collection — a borer with a bad temper!

Don't you agree that tent caterpillars at home are very flashy-looking? Big cotton-candy masses conspicuous in trees, these gems are better collected on film with a snapshot camera, after which a shot of Dipeol, a biologic — not chemical — weapon will "tent-cide" them. I'm not especially fond of caterpillars, because the boys in our neighborhood always used to drop them down the backs of our dresses when we were little girls.

PEOPLE WRITE that they are having problems with leaf miners, cutworms, slugs, cabbage worms and squash bugs this year:

On vegetable leaves that are mined out, pinch off these miner-filled leaves and destroy them. It keeps the population down. During swarming time, I

by Mary B. Good

control with tobacco dust. For cutworms, apply wood ashes inside and outside of the collar-encased plants. Encourage toads and you'll never have a slug in the garden — failing this, wood ashes or lime repel slugs.

Squash bugs stink when crushed, so dust with pyrethrum, an environmentally-safe dust, and vamoose.

If sour milk is applied to the center of cabbage plants, this will repel the cabbageworm — the larva of the white cabbage butterfly.

I'VE ALWAYS admired the acrobatic locomotion of looper, another cabbage pest, and the inchworm.

These two can be rendered immobile with an application of Dipeol.

Sometime when you're not doing anything, go on a small-game safari in your garden. After just one season of bug-watching, you'll be so good that you may be able to identify different insects even when they are not there, by observing the damage they do.

I know that I never met a bug I didn't like — especially if it wasn't moving!

(Copies of Mary Good's Bug Booklet for controlling more than 90 specific pests, without posing chemicals, are available by writing her at Box 36, St. Germain, Wis. 54588 and enclosing 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Herald opinion

U.S. needs health plan

As the battle over national health insurance heats up, it is becoming clear that the conflict centers on the nature of, and not the need for, a plan.

National health insurance is a clear national necessity. The soaring cost of medical care, coupled with the fact that at least 21 million Americans are not covered by any form of health insurance, dictates the need for insurance for all Americans, regardless of their age or level of income.

As with most other significant social advances of this century, national health insurance isn't going to come cheaply. Social Security and Medicare have raised our taxes, but we generally acknowledge that they provide a needed social service to most Americans.

The focus of the present controversy is the House Ways and Means committee, which is presently considering five insurance plans. This diversity of approaches follows the pattern of the past several years, for national health insurance has become an increasingly popular cause for public officials, special interests groups and members of the public.

The central issue, as in the past, is the method of funding the insurance. The question has provided the battleground for a variety of views from Congress and the insurance field. Several bills, including one co-sponsored by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and backed by organized labor, supports government operation of the program; other bills would allow control of the program through the insurance industry.

Heat has also been added to the debate by the medical profession which is fearful of an approach that would socialize medicine. A survey taken by the magazine "Private Practice" shows that 197,500 doctors oppose national health insurance and 57,829 of those doctors say they would refuse to practice under such a plan.

Despite the fact that President Ford has ruled out national health insurance this year because of its potential cost to the taxpayers, we believe it's time for approval of some kind of national health insurance plan. Needed medical treatment must not be allowed to remain an unobtainable luxury for millions of Americans; what Congress must develop is a stable system to permit all of us to avoid the perilous overload of today's medical costs.

It is argued by opponents that any such plan is unneeded today because of the widespread availability of private insurance. But statistics show that all too many Americans, for whatever reason, don't have adequate insurance protection. Too often, these Americans simply cannot afford the kind of medical care needed during a catastrophic, long-term illness.

This undue financial, and perhaps physical, suffering is enough to prompt a national health insurance plan.

Home for retarded should be approved

Severely retarded adults are like the rest of us; they, too, have to worry about a suitable place to live.

In the past, it's been difficult for such persons to find suitable housing in the Northwest suburbs. Now, there's a hopeful sign that a nonprofit facility near Woodstock will provide housing for adults who are severely mentally retarded.

Last week the McHenry County zoning board approved a rezoning petition from the Suburban Townships Assn. for the Retarded (STAR) to convert the St. Joseph Novitiate into a home for such persons.

The home will hold 100 adults, many of whom would come from the Northwest suburbs, if the full county board approves the project on Aug. 12.

The issue has stirred quite a controversy in McHenry County, for some residents have concerns about the nature of such a facility. However, the zoning board has strictly limited STAR's use of the building, and there are no outpatient facilities planned.

We view the zoning board's action as a progressive step towards the needs of a frequently neglected group of people — and we encourage the McHenry County Board to approve the proposal on Aug. 12.

Ma Bell's historical party line

by BOB LAHEY
Political Editor

Ma Bell has outdone herself in celebration of America's bicentennial.

In a remarkable bit of historical research, the telephone company has uncovered facts never found by scholars of the nation's development.

I'll bet, for instance, that you never suspected that Benjamin Franklin once spoke, via an 1878 butterstamp phone, to the Statue of Liberty, who listened on Bell's 1878 Centennial model phone, and then passed the message on to an astronaut (circa 1969), who listened on a modern coin phone, and then relayed the message to...

One the covers of its 1975 directory, Illinois Bell Telephone Co. has concocted a parody of a familiar Norman Rockwell cover done in the 1940s for Saturday Evening Post, in which imaginary characters passed a rumor from ear to ear.

But Rockwell, pedestrian artist that he was, depicted only ordinary citizens in his pictorial of how rumors are passed along.

HELLO, CENTRAL?

The telephone book cover goes much further. On the front page alone, we get a veritable panorama of all the things that made America great.

From the astronaut (who manages to speak into the modern coin phone without removing his space helmet), the message is relayed by a Marilyn Monroe-type telephone operator to the author of the Declaration of Independence, Thomas Jefferson, who listens intently on an 1878 wall phone.

Jefferson, believing as he did in the sovereignty of the people, immediately passes on the message to an 1890s American Indian, who just happens to have a 1954-color phone on his desk. The Indian rings up Abraham Lincoln (1860 desk phone), who loses no time in passing the word on to Shirley Temple (1968 Touch-Tone TRIMLINE, what else?).

Shirley, ever aware of where her duty lies, promptly dials a toothless

John D. Rockefeller (1897 desk phone), who calls one of his intimate Eskimo friends (who happens to be one of the few Bell customers who possesses a 1968 transparent TRIMLINE, not commercially produced).

The Eskimo, of course, passes the word on to a grinning Will Rogers, who answers on his 1910 desk phone, and mischievously buzzes the eminent Frederick Douglass, who responds on his 1949 desk phone and then dials, of course, Norman Rockwell, who looks understandably startled.

But that's only the front cover, folks.

On the back page, you can find Whistler's Mother talking to a dog — yes, a dog, who tearfully passes the message to Alexander Graham Bell.

Also on the back cover, you can see Jackie Robinson angrily receiving a message (on a white phone), and passing it calmly on (on a black phone) to a giddy Betsy Ross (who is so busy sewing that flag that somebody has to hold the receiver of the 1913 wall phone for her).

Here also you can find a giggling Uncle Sam making what could be an obscene call to a character the phone company describes as the American Teenager, and who could be mistaken for Jo Anne Woodward portraying a middle-aged prostitute.

No one goes without tribute in Illinois Bell's panorama. We are given the Young Rebel — "willing today to fight for his rights as he was 200 years ago."

There is, of course, The Senorita — "From the days of Columbus onward, the Spanish people and their culture have helped shape America."

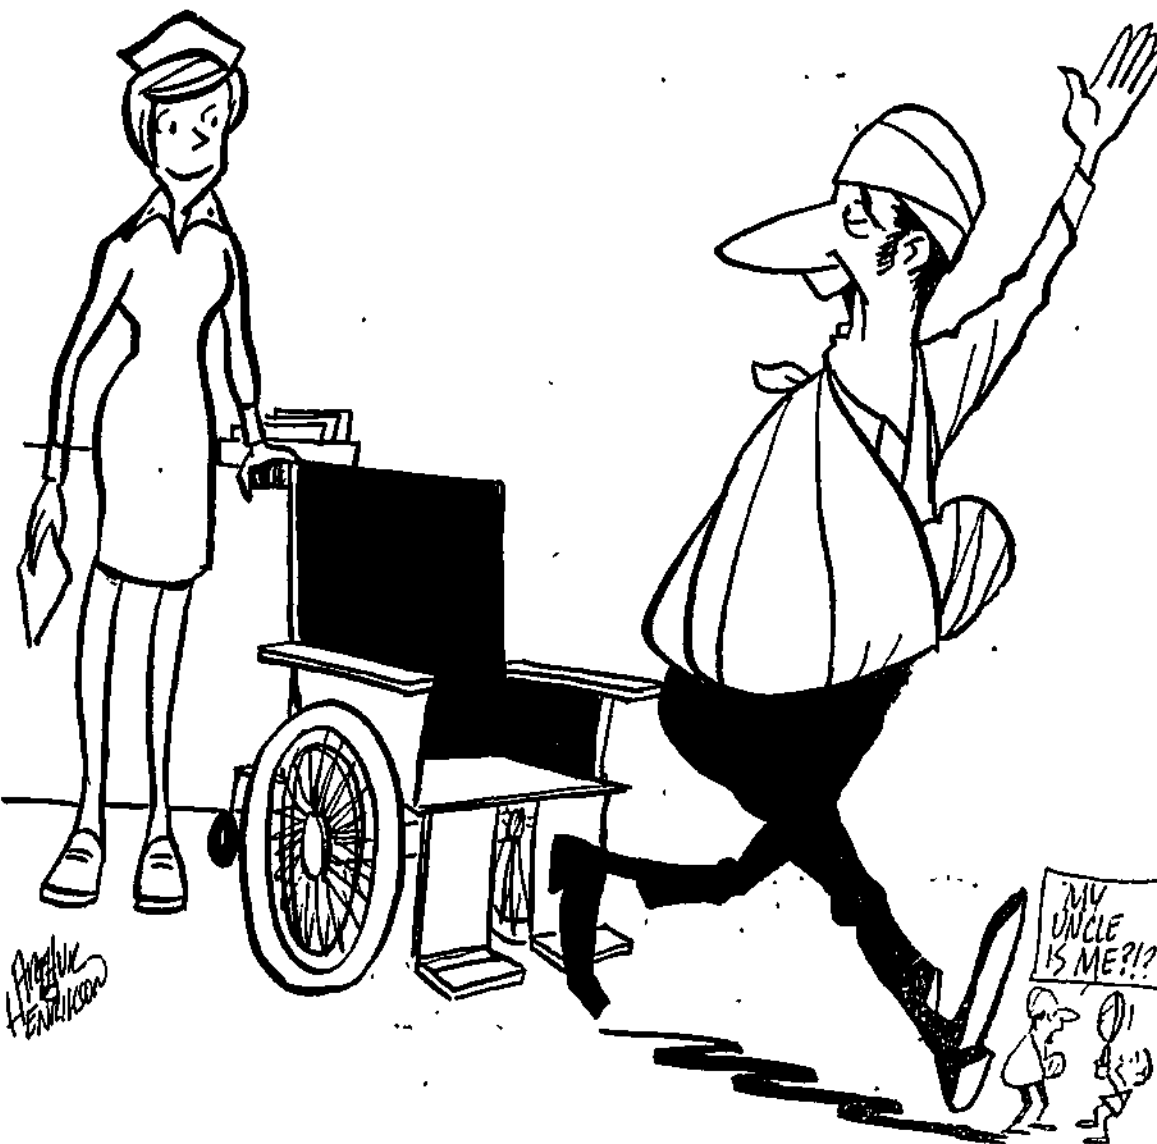

And how could Ma Bell forget — Dad? — "Strong and agile enough to wrestle a steel girder into place atop a 100-story building, but amazingly nervous and awkward when he picks up his 7½ pound baby for the first time."

Each of these key figures in the development of the greatest republic known to man — from the dog to Shirley Temple — is depicted speaking into one of Ma Bell's wonderful inventions.

Please signal when through, Paul.

Can't wait till federal health insurance.
I'll just say, "Send the bill to my Uncle!"

He backs nuclear power

I would like to comment on Jim Kelly's letter which appeared in The Herald on July 10. First of all, I also support solar energy research. I support any and all energy research.

I would now like to answer some of the questions raised by Mr. Kelly. His first question is, "Why do we need to have this particular source of power to meet this country's energy needs?" We need nuclear energy to meet our current needs, solar power as the answer to our large electrical needs is still a long way off. We need nuclear energy in the interim to give us time to do the necessary research to develop other sources of energy.

Mr. Kelly stated that there are large quantities of information on geothermal energy and solar energy. This is correct. What he does not state is that there are few areas where geothermal energy may be economically recovered. There are also many problems with converting geothermal energy to electricity. One of the largest problems is the large amount of minerals in geothermal steam. These minerals play havoc with the turbine equipment which converts the steam to electricity.

Mr. Kelly also asks why we have paid millions of dollars for the development of solar energy in the space program and are not getting much in return on our investment. Actually we are getting much return on our investment. The solar panels developed for the space program helped us put a man on the moon and have helped us put up satellites which keep on functioning year after year without being dependent on batteries which will eventually run out of energy. However, the solar panels are not cheap, as used in the space program they are extremely expensive, they do cost millions of dollars. The reason we have used them in the space program is: the cost for solar panels is less than the cost of rocket power to orbit batteries. Also, if we put a battery on a satellite, the satellite is only good as long as the battery lasts. In this application solar power is the only good source of power.

Here on earth, solar power is much more expensive than other forms of electrical power such as power from coal, oil or uranium. Another problem with solar power is storage. Our battery technology is not such today that we can store enough power to get us through the long dark cold winters in areas like Chicago, where we do not get sufficient sunshine to satisfy our energy needs. Solar power is going to be developed. Whether it will be economical remains to be seen. This depends on the technological developments of the future and on the future cost of alternate forms of power.

A petition drive to develop solar power within 10 years may perhaps supply more government money for research, but it will not of itself make solar power economically competitive. Mr. Kelly forgets that he cannot petition the laws of physics. Making solar power competitive with other forms of power depends on technological breakthroughs. More money alone will not guarantee these breakthroughs.

Mr. Kelly says that the cost of storing and safe-guarding plutonium will quickly overshadow any savings of the nuclear power program. This is blatantly untrue. The storage and safe-guarding of plutonium has been going on in the United States ever since the early 1940s.

The technology for disposing of radioactive waste material is available now. There are two means for achieving this disposal, the only reason our government has not taken a strong stand on which way they will dispose of the material is there is not enough material to present a large problem. There will not be enough material to present a large problem for some time to come, so the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the Energy Research and Development Administration do have time to decide which means of waste disposal they are going to pursue, above ground or underground.

Mr. Kelly quotes the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility concerning the moral responsibility of this generation towards the generations to come. I would like to say that we do not have a right to burn all the oil and coal before future generations are even born. If we continue using oil the way we have in the past, we will have it all burned within 50 to 60 years. This leaves our children with no oil, let alone future generations. We have a moral responsibility to develop new and better forms of energy for our children and for their children. Solar power is certainly one of these forms of energy but so is nuclear energy. We have no right to deprive our children of a viable source of energy which just might buy mankind enough time to develop a viable solar energy system.

We need solar energy, we need nuclear fusion and we need the fast breeder reactor. The only one of these three forms of power which has been proven viable is the fast breeder reactor. We need this form of energy while we are developing the other two.

The almanac

Today is Thursday, July 24, the 205th day of 1975 with 160 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening star is Venus.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Leo.

American aviatrix Amelia Earhart Putnam was born July 24, 1898.

On this day in history:

• In 1679, New Hampshire became a royal colony of the British crown.

• In 1923, President Herbert Hoover signed the Kellogg-Briand Treaty under which 43 nations agreed to denounce war as an instrument of national policy.

• In 1969, Apollo 11 returned to earth after a historic moon landing mission.

• In 1974, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that President Nixon must give Judge John Sirica White House tapes for the criminal trial of his former associates.

A thought for the day: American author Albert Terhune said, "Win without boasting, lose without excuse."

Public asked to help identify endangered areas

by LEA TONKIN

The public may participate in a state Dept. of Conservation campaign to identify natural land and water areas within Illinois.

"The Department of Conservation, in cooperation with the Illinois Nature Preserves Commission, has a responsibility to protect and manage areas in Illinois which exhibit natural conditions, provide habitat for rare and endangered species of wildlife or vegetation, or include geologic or other natural features of special scientific or educational value," said Tony Dean, department director. Preservation of Illinois' natural areas is difficult because there is no comprehensive inventory of the natural features, Dean said.

Initial studies will be conducted in McHenry, Jo Daviess, Fulton, Vermilion, St. Clair and Johnson counties. Contact with scientists, educators and other interested citizens will be an important part of the inventory process. The survey will be conducted by the Landscape Architecture Dept. of the University of Illinois and the Natural Land Institute, Rockford. For additional information, contact: Natural Areas Inventory office, University of Illinois, Room 214, Mumford Hall, Urbana, Ill. 61801.

PEP meeting July 29

The Pollution & Environmental Problems Inc. (PEP) organization will meet July 29 at 8 p.m. at the Palatine Village Hall, Palatine.

Fight to save whale

Members of the Greenpeace V Expedition returning to Vancouver, B.C., Canada, report the score of the "save-the-whale" campaign was Greenpeace 8, whalers 27,000. Greenpeace spokesman Bob Hunter said two expedition boats sailed nearly 90 days on the Pacific Ocean between British Columbia and California. Their mission was to place themselves between Soviet whalers and the large mammals. Most countries declared a moratorium on the killing of whales, whose population is diminishing. The Soviet Union and Japan maintain commercial whaling fleets. Hunter said another whale expedition is planned in 1976. "We may not be saving them as fast as they're killing them, but we know how to hassle them now," Hunter said.

Pollution studies urged

A recent decision by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency should allow state and local review of large developments that would likely generate auto pollution. The federal EPA had proposed a review of planned developments such as shopping centers and theaters that would draw heavy automobile traffic. The plan was supposed to start July 1, but the review date was later moved to January 1976, then dropped. The EPA "indirect source" regulations already adopted in several states will remain in effect.

The Illinois Pollution Control Board is considering proposed indirect source air-pollution controls following the conclusion of hearings in May. Thomas Reid of the Illinois Manufacturers Assn. said the organization called for state air-pollution control regulations similar to proposed federal regulations rather than more stringent controls.

Environment class begins

An environmental workshop will be offered at Governors State University in Park Forest South, starting today. The workshop will provide field study and classroom discussion in an 8-hour course designed for science and social studies teachers. Among the speakers at the workshop sessions will be Dr. Val Haensel, vice president of technology for UOP Inc., Des Plaines. He will discuss energy and environment at the Aug. 12 session.

$300 average increase seen on GM cars

DETROIT (UPI) — Industry pricing leader General Motors confirmed Monday that it may follow the highest-in-history 1975-model prices with an average $300-a-car increase on the 1976 models that debut this fall.

The announcement could spark a buying surge in August and September by Americans trying to beat the higher costs, one industry analyst said. That was the case last August when sales nearly equalled record 1973 levels before dropping disastrously when the '75s were introduced.

Detroit Dilemma

Auto Makers Agonize Over '76 Model Prices And the Effect on Sales

It isn't easy to determine what size price increase the consumer will tolerate. Henry Ford II chairman of Ford Motor, says he has seen one survey that indicates the public is resigned to rises of up to $100 a car. "But it didn't say that they'd buy," he adds.

the '76 price increase

By a WALL STREET JOURNAL Staff Reporter
DETROIT — Ford Motor Co. said it could raise prices up to 6% or an average $300 on 1976-model cars and light trucks for fleet customers. The increase on heavy-truck orders by fleets could go as high as 7%, the auto maker added.

Due to the heavy over supply of new cars and trucks we are forced to literally give away 100 cars and trucks for a 1.00 profit (legal tender). You will never have an opportunity like this again, especially since the 1976 models are going up approx. 6% or 300.00 per car, as stated in the Wall Street Journal.

Ask Andy

Yams, sweet potatoes different

Andy sends a complete 26-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Kimberly Jo Salyer, 11, of Indianapolis, Ind., for her question:

ARE YAMS THE SAME AS SWEET POTATOES?

By the time they get to the dinner table, yams and sweet potatoes look and taste very much alike. In fact, if your taste buds are not alert, you may have a hard time telling which is which. Nevertheless, plant experts tell us that these two tasty vegetables are not even related to each other.

In the supermarket, sweet potatoes look somewhat like ordinary potatoes, tapered at each end and tinted with a brownish-pink blush. Yams look like large and thicker sweet potatoes, tinged yellowish-brown. These similar vegetables belong in three different families of the plant world.

This may seem odd, for both yams and sweet potatoes grow leafy vines and the part we eat is produced underground. However, there are telltale differences in both their leaves and roots: The sweet potato leaf is heart-shaped and zigzagged with a network of veins. This proves that it is a dicot, belonging in one of two major divisions of the plant world.

The smooth leaves of the yam have veins that run side by side in neat parallel lines. This means that the plant belongs to the large group of monocots. Other differences show up in the two underground root systems. The sweet potato grows a network of pale roots that soaks up moisture from the soil. The thriving grocery upstairs produces surplus food which is changed into starchy material and stored downstairs in the bumpy we call sweet potatoes.

The yam sends down a special branch of stringy roots called a tuber. It stuffs itself with food and nourishment and grows big enough to go to market. To a botanist, the yam tuber is different from the bulging root of a sweet potato. The sweet potato belongs in the same family as the lovely morning glory. The yam shares a different plant family with 50 or so yammy cousins. Ordinary potatoes belong in the same family as tomatoes and petunias.

As a rule, yams are slightly more expensive than sweet potatoes because they must be shipped from mild, moist regions. The sweet potato grows closer to home. However, where summers are short, we must start the vines indoors. This is no problem, when one end of a sweet potato is placed in a glass partly filled with water and placed on a sunny windowsill. It helps to stick a few toothpicks in it to prevent the potato from touching the bottom of the glass.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Paula Jean Kinley, 9, of High Point, N.C., for her question:

ARE BEES COLORBLIND?

A busy honeybee sees all sorts of colors. But strange to say, they do not look quite the same to her as they do to us. What's more, she can see certain lovely blue colors that we cannot see at all. Her favorites seem to be blue and yellow, and certainly she can tell which is which. On the other hand, she does not see red well and may mistake it for black.

The bee has two large eyes, one on each side of her head — plus three small eyes in the center. She cannot see far, but her eyes are arranged to see close objects on all sides. Certain wildflowers need her to help to prepare their seeds. So to attract her attention, they spread forth her favorite perfumes and wear her favorite shades of blue or yellow.

Jackass gets East's goat

The defense was short, sweet and unsuccessful. East rose with the ace of diamonds and returned the king of spades. It held and he continued with the queen. West thought about over-taking but finally ducked. East led a diamond and South rattled off the rest of the tricks.

"You play like a jackass," shouted East. "Don't you know that I would have raised you in spades if I held king-queen and another."

West was tempted to stand up and poke East in the nose, but refrained for two reasons. First of all, he was a trifle ashamed of his play, but secondly he had a beautiful sarcastic speech ready.

"You know," he told his partner, "there is a traditional way to get a jackass' attention. You hit him over the head with a two by four. You could have obtained this effect by leading the queen and then the king of spades. This unnatural play could mean just one thing. You held just two spades. I would have risen with my ace and given you a ruff to set the contract."

Get second opinion on hysterectomy

I have a book on carbohydrates, and it says that all you need is 55 to 60 grams of carbohydrate a day. It says that if you don't consume any more than that you won't have to count calories and that you'll never gain weight. Is this true? If it's not, what is the proper amount of carbohydrate you should have a day?

It is half true. You need a minimum of 50 grams of carbohydrate (about 400 calories) a day to prevent abnormal chemical changes in the body causing a condition we call ketosis and other undesirable effects in the body.

But, you also need enough carbohydrate-containing foods to provide needed vitamins, minerals and especially bulk for a normal healthy diet. That requires more carbohydrate a day. Cereal bulk is particularly important to your body for normal function.

And, you need to know that your body will take any protein you don't use for building and convert it to either fat or carbohydrate. The calories of fat or carbohydrate derived from protein are just as fattening as any other calories. Calories are energy units and do count, just as kilowatts of electricity are kilowatts of energy and do count on your electric bill. Too many calories of any kind, protein, fat, carbohydrate, or alcohol, can lead to obesity.

The trick is that many protein foods are low in calories. Lean meat is 70 per cent water. The end result is that you can eat a lot of real low fat, protein foods and not consume many calories. Anything that results in limiting the intake of calories limits the obesity problem, but the calories do count.

I would like to know if drinking water with your meal can hinder you in any way? I have heard that it dilutes your food and you don't get as much nutritional value from it. What is the truth about this? Is there anything at all wrong with drinking water with your meals?

That little rumor is just one more bit of misinformation provided to the public. Your food is going to be diluted with water anyway. The digestive juices in the stomach and those from the pancreas and small intestine are all mostly water. The extra water content in your food is quickly absorbed into the bloodstream, leaving what you need to keep food at the right consistency for digestion.

Did you know that food can't even leave the stomach until it has been liquified or at least converted into a slush-like consistency?

The water may help to fill you up at first and give you a more satisfied feeling. This is helpful in people who tend to overeat anyway.

Then there is lots of water in your food. Lean round steak is 70 per cent water, milk 87 per cent, bread about 25 per cent and juice is mostly water. Finally, breaking down such dry foods as table sugar for energy liberates carbon dioxide and water.

Setting price on home tricky business

by LEA TONKIN

Housing value can be a slippery figure for home buyers and sellers who've been out of the real estate market a few years, or for those who plan a first-time transaction.

Get a handle on reasonable prices for available homes by following the lead of area real estate brokers and appraisers. Check the selling price of similar homes in the area. Consider the competition for homes in the market, the pros and cons of a home's location and emotional factors such as first appearance. Add them all up, and you're ready to bargain.

Many home sellers make the mistake of setting their sights too low when it comes time to put a price tag on their house, said Donald Heldorn, vice president and general sales manager for Annen & Busse Realtors, Mount Prospect. "I would say in most cases they don't really realize the amount of profit they can obtain," he said.

THE PROCESS of determining market value includes a check of selling prices for comparable homes in the area, Heldorn said. The comparison includes size, location and amenities. "In other words, a good opinion should be supported and documented," he said.

Brokers will set a value for a house based on the comparison of similar homes and other factors that affect price, Heldorn continued. Some factors will be more important to one family than to another. The distance to schools, square footage, landscaping, quality of construction, the addition of amenities such as a fireplace or patio, and other factors will influence price.

Emotional reactions will affect the buyer's and seller's decision on the value for a home. Almost everyone reacts emotionally in some way, Heldorn said. The style of architecture and decor may influence a buyer, he said, "but when it gets down to spending $50,000 bucks, in the last analysis I think the buyer takes a pretty common-sense approach."

THE EMOTIONAL value of a home may also cause a seller to overprice a house in some cases, said William Kabat, sales associate in the Baird & Warner, Inc., Arlington Heights office. An owner may put in a $1,500 fireplace, for example, and expect to get full value when the house is sold. The owner should check comparable selling prices to determine whether or not he can make a buck on the extras, Kabat said.

If a seller insists that his home is worth more than a price set by his broker, it will be listed at the higher price. An adjustment can be made if there are no takers. In a few instances, sellers ask for an independent appraisal of their property, Kabat said. The seller pays for the service, approximately $100 or more.

Kabat said home sellers will get top dollar if they

Disclosure law may delay mortgage commitments

Advance disclosure of all closing costs must now be provided to home buyers under the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act of 1974.

The added paperwork required under the new law, effective June 20, may cause a slight delay in lenders' mortgage loan commitments and an increase in the lenders' cost of doing business, said Lee Shemroske, assistant vice president of mortgage loans at First Savings and Loan Assn. of Schaumburg.

Shemroske said the preparation of disclosure forms required under the law "definitely adds to our costs, but the law says we cannot pass it along to customers." The customer will be given information on all closing, or settlement costs, and a copy of the booklet, "Settlement Costs and You."

THE STATEMENT of settlement costs is forwarded to customer along with a mortgage loan commitment, Shemroske said. The institution previously offered customers an accounting of costs that would be associated with the real estate closings, Shemroske said.

Verbal commitments will be eliminated to allow customers an opportunity to view the settlement cost statement at the time they receive the written loan commitment.

"I don't think the law is going to do the consumer all that good," Shemroske said. Most area lenders already disclosed closing costs in advance because, "There's nothing worse than a buyer coming to a closing with insufficient funds," he said.

Anthony Lagod, assistant vice president of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Assn., Arlington Heights, said the settlement procedures act is designed to eliminate abuse by firms that charge excessive service fees. The law does not have a significant impact on the type of information offered to customers by most lenders, he said.

"THIS IS REALLY nothing new to us," Lagod said of the closing cost disclosure. "The only thing it does cause is a lot of extra additional work at closing. Now at closing we have to prepare special forms for buyers and sellers."

The added time required to process new forms, the expense of printing new disclosure forms and the re-programming of savings and loan association computers are among the items that will add to lender costs because of the new law, Lagod said. The new law will mean an increase in closing time by a half hour to 45 minutes, Lagod said.

The act requires that lenders disclose all closing costs to buyers at least 12 days before the closing date. Disclosure of the property's previous resale price, if purchased within the past two years, and other information is required.

Among the closing costs paid by buyers is the service charge levied by the lender. The charge may be expressed in points. Each point represents one per cent of the loan amount.

More than 123 tons of printed information for home buyers has been ordered by U.S. banks to comply with the settlement procedures act, said the American Bankers Assn. (ABA). The association mailed complimentary "how to" kits to some 14,000 member banks in mid-May.

Another 14,000 booklets were ordered by July 1, plus 750,000 three-page disclosure forms and 750,000 consumer booklets. "Because the act covers virtually all types of mortgage transactions, for one to four family dwellings — including condominium units — almost everyone buying a home will benefit," said Roger Hawkins, ABA director of the housing and real estate finance division.

make sure their home looks well-maintained and clean. "A home that shows well always gets a little more," he said.

ALBERT GUNDELACH of Gundelach & Associates, Arlington Heights, is a professional appraiser who seconds Kabat's advice. "Put trends on the stairs, make everything clean," he said. "This is all cosmetic, but you get the most out of your house."

The extras such as air-conditioning and a fireplace may fetch a better price in higher-priced homes than in a relatively inexpensive home, Gundelach said. Built-in kitchen appliances and electric garage door openers are features that may have added appeal to buyers, he said.

Buyers and sellers can check the price of similar homes within a certain price range, Gundelach said. Prices change rapidly in some cases, he said.

"Comparatively few homes are for sale right now," the appraiser said. "There is a tremendous demand situation right now in the Northwest suburbs."

The competition for available homes makes it a seller's market, he said.

BUYERS SHOULD look at as many homes as possible in their price range, Gundelach advised. The comparison is at least one good indicator of value. He estimates Northwest suburban homes generally increase 3 to 5 per cent a year in value, although the percentage varies according to location and other factors.

John Kotleba, sales manager at the Robert W. Starck and Co., Realtors, office in Schaumburg, said buyers generally look at a number of homes within their price range before they decide to sign on the dotted line. The comparison of values is a good indicator for buyers and sellers, he said.

A market analysis is used by a broker to determine the home value, Kotleba said. The size and condition of the house, amenities and other factors are considered. Then it's stacked up against similar homes sold within the area. "This would give you a pretty realistic idea of what it's worth," he said.

Custom homes are priced in a different manner. Kotleba said a broker will determine the replacement cost for the home, per square foot.

Kotleba said sellers who bought a home five years ago may underestimate the change in housing values. In some cases, prices may rise 10 per cent a year.

Area industry growth to continue

The Northwest suburban area will continue to attract new industrial development, predicts Owen W. Pollard, director of area development for Commonwealth Edison Co. Pollard singled out Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Schaumburg and Wheeling as communities that have above average potential for industrial development.

Factors that were used in evaluating each community included the availability of vacant land zoned for industry, the degree of readiness for actual use, availability of sewer and water facilities, land cost, proximity to expressways, degree of community interest and the presence of an active developer.

THE TOTAL available industrial acreage in the Northwest Cook County area has varied during the past three years, the Edison survey indicates. As it has been absorbed for actual use, the land available for industrial development has been gradually reduced. In its community listings, the survey does not imply that all the acreage is within municipal limits.

The square footage of available industrial space buildings in Northwest Cook County increased during 1974, following a decline the previous year. Among the major manufacturers that have located in the area within the past few years are International Products & Mfg. Co., Palatine, with 228,000 square feet of space; General Bathroom Products Co., Elk Grove Village, with 210,000 square feet of space; Shure Bros. Inc., Arlington Heights, with 325,000 square feet of space; and Enterprise Mfg. Co., Wheeling, with 280,000 square feet of space.

The Edison charts indicating available land and space available in Northwest Cook Co. are reprinted from the "Chicagoand Development" publication of the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry.

Fun park set to open next spring

Construction plans for the Rotor, Super Round Up, the Wave Swinger and Triple Track Antique Car rides were recently announced by the Marriott Corp. for its Great America Park in Gurnee.

Park general manager Jim Buoy said the four new rides are among attractions to be featured in the park when it opens in May 1976. Construction of other thrill rides and the four-lane park entrance is on schedule, he said.

The Great America Park is a $25 million complex that will feature more than 125 rides, shows, shops and restaurants. It is on a 200-acre site at Grand Avenue. An additional 400 acres purchased by the Marriott Corp. will be used for a future Marriott hotel site and possible industrial sites.

Co-op owners to get rebates on 1973 property taxes

Owners of cooperative apartments will be receiving rebates on their 1973 real estate taxes soon, County Treasurer Edward J. Rosewell said.

The refunds are the result of a court-ordered reduction in the assessed value of 186 cooperative apartment buildings.

In a recent lawsuit Circuit Court Judge Daniel Covelli ordered the county to assess cooperative apartments at 22 per cent of market value, the same level used for single-family houses and condominium apartments.

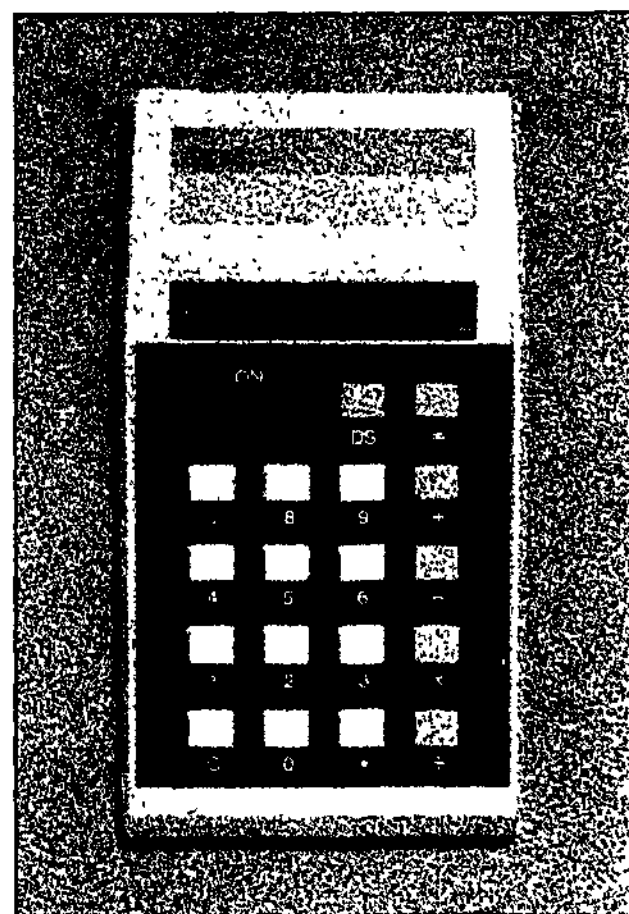

Formerly cooperatives were assessed at rates as high as 40 per cent.

Nearly $3 million was held in escrow pending the outcome of the court challenge to the tax structure.

Rosewell said after the rebates are made to property owners, the remainder of the tax money held in escrow will be distributed to the various taxing bodies.

Most cooperative apartments in the county are located on the north side of Chicago or on Lake Shore Drive, he said, although there are some cooperatives in suburban areas.

More mortgages given to those under thirty

Families where the husband is 25 to 30 years old represent nearly half of today's mortgage borrowers. And, more than a quarter of the loans are to 30-to-40-year olds. The remaining fourth is split evenly between the 40-50 and 50 and over groupings.

The findings gleaned from a sampling of 200 mortgages made by $175 million Lincoln Federal Saving and Loan Association of Berwyn were reported by President Frank J. Kinst.

"There were 93 husbands in their 30's and 54 in their 40's," Kinst declared, adding:

"Sixteen families in the sampling were buying new homes and 184, existing ones. Included in the 200 borrowers were 183 couples, seven singles, four divorced persons and one widow."

Families with children accounted for 58.5 per cent and those without minors, 40.5 per cent.

Among the 183 couples were 103 working wives, or 55 per cent of the total.

Kinst rated this representation a dramatic gain in employed wives from the 35 per cent reflected by the 1973 figures. It amounted to a 58 per cent increase. He pointed out:

"Although the husband's income traditionally provides the criterion for mortgage feasibility, additional money earned by a wife often permits the purchase of more expensive housing than otherwise justified."

"It is thus possible for a young family to acquire earlier a home meeting the needs of its more mature and affluent years."

More families were buying a distance away from their old address than those purchasing in the same general locality by a ratio of 109 to 91.

And, the Lincoln Federal president revealed, there were 104 one-car families, 87 two-car, 4 three-car and 2 four-car units. Three families had no auto.

Most purchasers declared other obligations. Only 46 of the 200 were not paying off other debts.

Only activity at Lincoln Federal's main Berwyn office is reflected. Findings were not included from Columbia (North Riverside) and Altamont divisions or the new full service Hoffman Estates branch.

Frank Kinst

Amounts of loans analyzed ranged from $2,500 (eq) to $45,000. The average mortgage was for $27,000, amortized over 25 years.

Everything Bolger Touches Turns to "SOLD"

Put your finances in order

With inflation on the rise again, you can no longer afford to manage financial affairs "by the seat of your pants." Today, to make ends meet with the same amount of money as last year, you must put your financial house in order — and keep it there.

To help you do a better job of managing your money under present conditions, the American Bankers Association (ABA) offers the following tips.

Budgeting. The problem is how to get started. You can't do much planning unless you have a point of departure. So that's where you begin. Take your checkbook and analyze your spending for the past year. Identify fixed costs, such as rent, mortgage, and taxes, versus variable expenses. The rest is simple. Just subtract fixed costs from after-tax income, and what's left is spendable. Once you know that figure, you can make a sensible budget. Without it, you're guessing.

Take food expenses. For years, most experts advised that a family of four with an income of $15,000 should spend no more than 20 per cent of take-home pay. But today, inflation requires you to increase the food guideline to 25 per cent. That means you have to cut somewhere else to keep your head above water. There's nothing you can do about fixed costs. So look elsewhere — like eating out only once a week instead of twice or pre-planning to make fewer shopping trips or taking less expensive vacations.

How much you should save is another key question. An old rule of thumb suggests setting aside an emergency fund equivalent to 30 or 40 per cent of gross annual income. But this will vary depending on your age, relative job security and whether your employer covers you for medical, dental and disability problems.

Also if you have children going to college in a few years, you ought to know what inflation is doing to tuition and student living costs. They're going out of sight. So you can't start too early to establish a college education fund. And if you already have one, make sure its goals are still realistic. Chances are inflation will require you to up your commitment to the fund.

Insurance. The main point to be made about insurance is don't cut it when things get tight. It's too important, not only for you but also your loved ones. If anything, consider increasing your coverage, not only on your life but also on your automobile and home.

Along with everything else, inflation has increased many of the costs you think insurance will cover. Look at what has happened to housing costs. If you haven't done anything about your home insurance in a couple of years, chances are you have inadequate coverage to replace your present home. You also need more life insurance to provide beneficiaries with enough funds to meet today's and tomorrow's higher-cost living conditions.

The type of insurance best for you depends on many factors. But young people in particular should try to get the most coverage for the least premium. In most cases, this means term insurance. Other types of insurance offer investment features, but in an inflationary economy, their benefits are less attractive.

Investments. It takes a smart investor just to keep his assets intact these days. But if you invest, make sure you're purchasing shares of high quality corporations or good mutual funds.

Many consumers are also looking to diversify their assets into high-yield instruments. Good quality municipal bonds, for example, pay tax-exempt dividends of about six per cent. Depending on your income, that's the equivalent of a conventional return of up to 12 per cent. Also bonds of many sound corporations are yielding more than 10 per cent.

Also growing in popularity are new cash-management funds that invest in government securities, Treasury bills, certificates of deposit and other short-term money market instruments.

Real estate investment is another attractive alternative. But despite all the stories you've heard of windfall profits, speculating in property has plenty of pitfalls. Prices can go down much faster than they go up, especially if the growth trend in the community suddenly shifts its direction or if zoning is changed to your detriment.

Another shortcoming of real estate investment is lack of liquidity. Unlike the stock market, you don't always have a ready buyer when you're ready to sell.

If you select well-located property, however, you may create a good inflation hedge. And you can do it with a lower downpayment than with most other investments, providing adequate mortgage funds are available.

If you're a real gambler, you could join the trend toward investing in more exotic items, such as antique furniture, paintings, art objects, coins and stamps. Big profits have been made in the last two years. But off-beat investments, like real estate, are subject to wide fluctuations in price, and they are not always particularly liquid.

Credit. Intelligent use of credit is a must at any time, but especially in periods of high inflation. With day-to-day essentials going up in price, you need to watch your spending closely to keep from going too deep into debt.

But don't let the harbingers of doom inhibit you from buying a much needed item because you don't have hard cash. That's what installment buying is all about. It lets you enjoy goods and services today that are repaid later on a schedule that fits your budget. It also has some extra pluses. You'll be repaying the loan with inflated dollars, and the interest is tax deductible.

On the other hand, if you go overboard and find yourself deep in debt, don't panic. There's usually a way out, although it will require some discipline and a few sacrifices. Go to your local banker and give him a candid description of your problem. If you're serious about doing something about it, he can work with you to consolidate or extend loans, construct a realistic budget and set a sensible timetable for working out the problem.

Homeownership. Probably the best hedge against inflation is home ownership. In the last year alone, the average house in a good neighborhood has increased at least 10 per cent in value. And although property taxes are increasing, they are income-tax deductible, along with mortgage interest.

The question many people face, especially young families, is whether to buy now or wait for what they hope will be lower prices and interest. Most experts agree there's little if anything to be gained from postponing the decision. Even if interest rates decline, chances are the gain will be more than offset by increased home prices.

How much house can you afford? The old rule of thumb says 2½ times your income. But inflation has been accelerating faster than a lot of incomes. Also, your life style will influence how much you can carry each month. It's probably more realistic, therefore, to relate your income to your mortgage, not the home's purchase price. And most people can handle a mortgage of about twice their income.

If you already own your own home, you probably find the cost of maintenance and improvements going up in huge leaps. This not only reflects higher labor prices but suddenly skyrocketing costs of construction materials. If you're handy, obviously you can save a lot of money. But if you're all thumbs, make sure you hire a reputable contractor.

Before going ahead consider whether the improvements are the type that will appeal to prospective buyers if you decide some day to sell your house. Adding a bathroom or remodeling a kitchen always enhances your equity, but a basement workshop or adjoining greenhouse might add little value.

If you're like most homeowners, you'll be financing the work with a bank home improvement loan. Despite tight money, banks have funds to lend for worthwhile projects. A typical $5,000 remodeling loan can be repaid in five years at an average annual interest of approximately 10 to 12 per cent. Also, some banks are offering reduced rates on energy-conservation home improvement loans.

Your estate. One positive aspect of inflation is what it has done to the average person's estate. The typical 40-year-old wage earner, for example, has a "net worth" that's more significant than he or she might realize. Inflation has upped the value of houses and belongings, while shares of a company's retirement or profit-sharing fund have been getting bigger.

The problem occurs when your heirs inherit this inflated estate. Unless you have set up the proper trusts, they may have to pay two or three times as much tax as they would need to. In addition, you can make the whole process of inheritance far simpler for your beneficiaries if you have made the right arrangements.

Start at your local bank by talking with a trust officer. There's no charge for an exploratory discussion of your situation. Your banker will be glad to tell you whether your situation would benefit from a trust and which kind would make the most sense in your particular circumstances.

More stores open in Woodfield

Woodfield's new west wing, with Lord & Taylor as the anchor, is now three-quarters filled. The shopping center at the intersection of Golf Rd. and Route 53 in Schaumburg has welcomed a new restaurant, John's Garage and Filling Station. Whimsical menus and liquor lists carry out the automotive theme of the eatery located next to Lord & Taylor on Woodfield's lower level.

Also in the west wing, a woman's specialty shop, Alroe, features sportswear and coats on the upper level, and Shop Around the World offers gifts and jewelry from every corner of the globe on the lower level.

Other recent openings at Woodfield include Afro-Orient Arts, west of the Grand Court on the upper level, specializing in handcrafted accessories and gifts from Africa and India; Alan's Radio, on the upper level of the north wing, headquarters for leading brands of television, stereos, hi-fi equipment and radios; and Paul Harris, on the lower level facing the south court, high fashion women's clothing, including many imports. Sporting a most unusual cave-like interior, Silver Brick Road, on the lower level west of the Grand Court, carries sterling silver Indian jewelry and does custom design and repair work on silver pieces.

When fully leased, the new wing will have almost 40 shops, in addition to the New York-based Lord & Taylor store and the Woodfield Ice Arena.

Legislation for existing homes needed

A plea for inclusion of existing homes in any legislation aimed at stimulating the housing industry was sounded today by Art S. Leitch, president of the National Association of Realtors.

"We have pointed out consistently," Leitch said, "that Census Bureau data indicate that 55 per cent of those seeking to purchase a new home must first dispose of an existing home. Thus, measures designed to spur the purchase of homes from the new housing inventory cannot achieve their aim if they are not accompanied by a corresponding stimulus to the sale of previously occupied housing."

Leitch pointed to the home-purchase tax credit which was attached to the tax reduction bill, enacted in March. That provision granted an income tax credit of five per cent, up to a maximum of $2,000 to those purchasing a new previously unoccupied home which was completed or under construction by March 25, 1975 and occupied by Jan. 1, 1976.

"The intention of that measure was to accelerate the sale of new homes, thus permitting the construction of additional housing and creating new jobs in the process, as a means of helping to end the economic recession," Leitch said. "It has been moderately successful in meeting its objective, but inclusion of existing homes in the tax credit program would have made it far easier for the prospective buyer of a new home to finance his purchase and would have accommodated the millions of home buyers who prefer an older home. Generally the older home sells at a lower price and represents a better buy for the budget-conscious family."

Leitch pointed out the same flaw in both the emergency housing bill recently vetoed by the President and the modest successor bill which was passed on the eve of Congress' Fourth of July adjournment.

"We are grateful that Congress included in both bills a provision that up to 20 per cent of the funds released to supply housing credit go toward the purchase of existing housing. However, Realtors had urged Congress to specify that a minimum of 25-30 per cent of such funds be earmarked for existing homes," Leitch said. "There is little benefit in offering low-cost mortgage credit to a family contemplating the purchase of a new house if the lack of mortgage financing makes it impossible for the family to find a buyer for its existing homes."

Rich Port is first in referrals

The latest Nationwide Find-A-Home Report for 1974 shows Rich Port, Realtor to be the leader in combined sales of incoming and outgoing referrals.

"To make the top 10 Nationwide combined sales list means you have to be alert to every opportunity and provide 'Real Service in Real Estate' for your customers," comments Dick Caruso, president of Rich Port, Realtor. So far this year, we're 10 per cent ahead of last year in sending out referrals to destination Realtors and 30 per cent ahead on receiving incoming referrals. By the end of this year, we plan to do better than this, as well as increase our overall sales on referrals in both categories.

Nationwide Find-A-Home Service is a personalized real estate referral service. It is Realtor owned and operated service with more than 1,000 offices and 11,000 trained representatives throughout the U.S. and Canada. The members are all well established Realtors in their communities.

"The objectives of Nationwide," according to Caruso, "are two-fold. First, to assist the home owner, who is transferred or moving to another part of the country, in selling his home and to purchase a home at the new destination city. Secondly, to assist corporations and companies who transfer employees throughout the country."

Rich Port, Realtor, with suburban Chicagoland offices, offers Nationwide Find-A-Home Service to the corporate business community throughout the greater Chicago Metropolitan area and to more than 150 residential communities it serves in the west, far west, northwest, north and north shore suburbs.

Through its Corporate Services Department, Rich Port, Realtor, provides corporations and their incoming transferees with an audio visual presentation of Chicagoland and special packets of material containing information on various communities, schools, churches, medical facilities, shopping centers and other useful information. The same packet is also available to the out of town homeowner or individual who is moving to the Chicago area.

After contacting the incoming prospect and determining his needs, a Realtor-Associate selects a number of homes for the family to inspect upon their arrival in the Chicago area. If the prospect cannot find what they desire in one area, they will be referred to other Rich Port, Realtor offices until they find the home they desire to purchase.

Realtor Rich Port, founder and Chairman of the Board of Rich Port, Realtor, is Chairman of the Board of Directors of Nationwide.

Clarence Kaebnick, a full time referral coordinator, supervises the program for Rich Port, Realtor.

Hoffman Estates and two offices in Prospect Heights. A new office is scheduled to open in Lake Zurich January 1, 1976.

Trofholtz tops $1 million in '75

Jerry Trofholtz, real estate sales representative in Quinlan and Tyson's Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates area office, has sold $1 million of property in 1975.

This is the fourth time Trofholtz has gone over the million mark since joining Quinlan and Tyson in June of 1969. Last year he was the leading sales representative in the Schaumburg office, and his career sales total now stands at $6.6 million.

A licensed real estate broker, Trofholtz holds the coveted G.R.I. designation. He was named to Quinlan and Tyson's President's Circle in 1972 for his accomplishments.

Trofholtz lives in Schaumburg.

Singles want to buy

Purchase of homes by single men and women continues on the increase, reports the National Association of Realtors. Lending institutions are no longer reluctant to make such mortgage loans, and singles have become increasingly aware of investment and tax advantages found in home ownership.

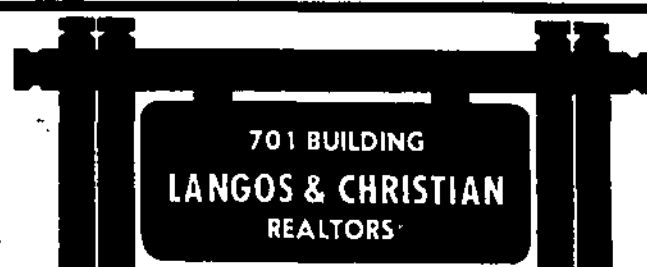

New service added at First Arlington

First Arlington National Bank in cooperation with Automatic Data Processing, has announced the development of computerized payroll, accounts receivable and payable, and general ledger services for the bank's business customers, according to Lawrence Stone, marketing director.

"We believe that this new arrangement with ADP will make it possible for our bank to provide a fast, efficient and economical service to our corporate customers," Stone said.

ADP will pick up the informational input at a customer's place of business, or it can be phoned in to the data processing center. When payroll checks or accounting reports are completed they are returned by special courier to the bank's customer.

"This new service will make it possible for the bank to deliver a complete payroll to a corporate customer in a 24 hour period, if required," Stone added.

Jill Bohrnell

Jill Bohrnell joins sales staff

Jill Bohrnell has joined Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, as a real estate sales representative in the firm's Palatine area office.

Her appointment was announced by Beverly Ann Berry, office sales manager.

Mrs. Bohrnell is a member of the St. Peter Lutheran Church PTL in Schaumburg and formerly was active in Delta Sigma Pi Sorority, Sigma Kappa Sorority, Surf Rod & Gun Club Auxiliary, Orpheus Singing Club Women's Auxiliary, Chicago and Samoyed Club and Northwest Obelisk Club.

She attended Bradley University and North Park College, Chicago.

Mrs. Bohrnell and her husband, Bertell, live in Barrington, and previously were residents of Hoffman Estates. They have two children.

Jo Monson earns special designation

Jo Monson of A-Appraisals has earned the designation of Independent Fee Appraiser. This designation is awarded by the National Assn. of Independent Fee Appraisers upon successful completion of an examination to determine knowledge of appraisal techniques and submission of a narrative appraisal of a residential building.

There are only five female Independent Fee Appraisers in Illinois.

Mrs. Monson has been associated with the A-Appraisal firm, located at 310 S. Northwest Hwy. in Palatine for three years and is also a sales associate with Homes North by Northwest Real Estate.

Young Americans want to own homes

This may come as a big surprise, but young Americans aged 14 to 25 consider owning a home as their greatest necessity.

Almost 60 per cent — the largest number — of a national sampling of 2,510 persons in this age group placed home ownership at the top of a list of 12 items they considered necessary. After that came pension plan, 57 per cent; a $5,000 savings account, 43 per cent; and $50,000 in life insurance, 40 per cent.

Less than a third ranked a new car as a necessity, and such items as stereo systems, travel abroad, and a color TV were well down on the scale, under 14 per cent.

"Considering what you hear and read about young people — that they're not interested in material things or security, this survey is quite a revelation," said Ted A. Wrobel, vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc.

The survey was conducted by Gilbert Youth Research for the Institute of Life Insurance. According to Wrobel, the results suggest that the demand for homes by the younger generation should make itself known in the market place.

"As a matter of fact, the married people in this survey age group show a stronger interest in home ownership than the group as a whole," he said. "Sixty-three per cent of these marrieds rank a home as their most wanted necessity." He also considers it significant that 58 per cent of the survey singles rated homeownership as their highest necessity.

Home Town lists top sales staffers

Top sales people for Home Town's four other offices were: Carl Behrens, III for the Arlington Heights office, Jo Jaworski for the Hoffman Estates office and George Amundsen for the Schaumburg office.

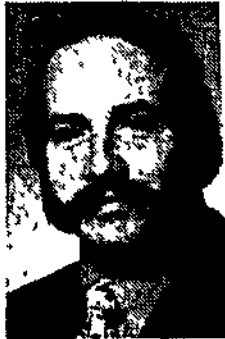

Home Town is a member of the M.A.P. Multiple Listing Service and also of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Deane Wandersee named May leader

James Dustan, vice president of T. A. Bolger, Realtors, Rolling Meadows office, announced that Deane Wandersee was the sales leader for the month of May. This marks the second month in a row that Mrs. Wandersee has been the sales leader of the office and five out of the last 12 months since joining Bolger, Realtors, in April, 1974. Her May sales topped her previous achievements with a sales volume of a quarter million dollars.

Mrs. Wandersee and her family have lived in Rolling Meadows for the past twenty years. She is presently serving her third year as President of the Rolling Meadows Community Chest and served as a member of the Zone III Finance and Allocations Committee of the Suburban Council of Community Chests. Mrs. Wandersee is also a member of the City of Rolling Meadows Zoning Board of Appeals.

Extend heating now

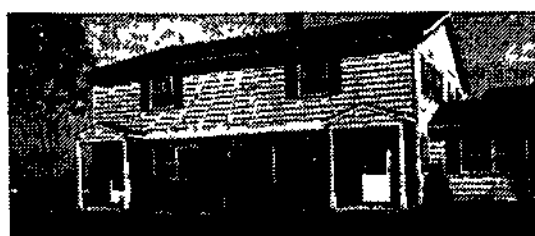

If you've been spending your summer weekends expanding the living space of your home, don't wait till the first cold snap to install the heating. You may find prices of heating materials more competitive in warm weather, and if you're having the local heating contractor do the job, he is more readily available now, when you need him.

Whether finishing the attic or adding a new section to the house for use as a den, there are no great problems in providing the necessary heat if you have a modern hydronics system, says the National Better Heating-Cooling Council. Most boilers have enough extra capacity to handle the additional heating load, and that can be determined in a half hour by a competent heating man.

Drilling holes for the additional tubing to and from the new heating baseboard makes little mess as the tubing is usually 3/4 inch in diameter, and can get through anyplace. The new space can be treated as a separate zone with its own thermostat, so it will operate as needed without affecting the comfort of other parts of the house. The thermostat controls its own zone valve or circulator, sending heat only when that area requires it.

Vacation home market still alive

The second — or vacation home market — is very much alive.

"There are still a great many people who have vacation homes on their minds despite current economic shadows."

So observes Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company, Boston, a leading organization in the private mortgage insurance industry.

"The throttled money market caused a very definitive slowdown in sales of all homes during the past year or so. This, coupled with previous over-building and some speculative purchases, leads to industry-wide troubles."

"But skies are brightening for the second home market — concomitant with an upswing in primary housing demand," Goss states.

Before there is a full return to normal, however, "we must lower the present inventory overhang of vacation homes."

"Also, we must see industry's acceptance of the fact that there will be a new type of consumer to deal with — more fastidious in taste than his predecessor," he declares.

Goss points out that the "new" buyer will be seeking:

Price and location — the future second home market will be strongest not far from metropolitan areas. The easier to reach the dwelling, the better.

• Well-planned developments — featuring the entire spectrum of amenities.

Facilities such as tennis courts, golf courses, skiing and other recreational activities — either as part of the complex or certainly easily accessible.

Goss predicts less speculative buying as the second home market recovery picks up.

"Fewer people will be buying simply to invest or to turn the property into rental gain. They will be occupying the homes themselves on a year-round, weekend or vacation basis."

He foresees increasingly good buys and values upcoming in the second home market.

"The homes are there — the buyers exist."

"Gitting these two together is becoming a brighter prospect every day," Goss concludes.

Avoid being underinsured

Many homeowners encounter a double shock when disaster strikes their home.

The first shock is when they discover their dwelling has been destroyed or ravaged by fire or ransacked by burglars.

The second shock is caused by the discovery that inflation has increased the value of their personal possessions so much that the insurance policy limits have been exhausted before they can recover all of their loss.

To counter this second shock, a major insurance company is now offering a policy in this state which offers replacement value for personal property items.

With the replacement value endorsement offered by the Kemper Insurance Companies, insureds will be paid for the cost of a brand new item, without deduction for depreciation.

Virtually all existing personal property insurance policies pay only actual cash value for personal property stolen or destroyed. That amount is the replacement cost of the item less depreciation. Depreciation is determined by the nature of the item, its use and how long it has been owned.

"Because of the massive increases in the cost of virtually all household items, coupled with the actual cash value provision standard in almost all policies," Maxwell D. Rudgers, chief insurance officer of the Kemper Insurance Companies said, "we found many insureds were not able to make themselves 'whole' within the terms and limits of their policies' personal property provisions."

"But now, through this endorsement," Rudgers said, "The independent agents who represent us make it possible for our insureds to replace destroyed, damaged or stolen property with a brand new item."

This endorsement does not apply to property which cannot be replaced, such as art objects and antiques, which should be scheduled separately; property not maintained in good or workable condition and property not being used by the insured or stored for such use.

Kemper has filed the replacement value endorsement in California, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, New Jersey, upstate New York, Oregon, Virginia and Washington.

Location, price concern buyers

For years employees and executives whose jobs have taken them to new communities have regarded schools as the most important consideration in choosing where to buy a new home.

Today, says Robert A. Poltzer, general manager of Gladstone, Realtors, transferees place primary importance on a home's general location and its cost.

"This shift in priorities was determined in a spring survey of a cross-section of the membership of RELO/Intercity Relocation Service," Poltzer said. "By contrast, in a similar survey two years ago schools ranked first in importance followed by location, price and resale value."

Gladstone, with offices in Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Berkeley, Westchester, Villa Park, Franklin Park and LaGrange, is a member of RELO, which assists families in selling and buying homes as they move to and from more than 8,000 cities and towns in the U.S. and overseas served by nearly 800 member firms.

In the latest survey, RELO real estate brokers were asked to evaluate the importance of the following factors in home purchases, according to their experience with transferee-customers: resale value, price, interest rate, down payment, schools, location, railroad or expressway, commuting time and unattached sale of old home.

When results were tabulated, a ranking of first was assessed one point; second, two; third, three, etc. Location, with the lowest total points, was deemed most important to transferees, closely followed by price, then by schools and resale value. Interest rate, down payment, guaranteed sale and commuting time trailed, in that order.

Ordinance No. 75-83

AN ORDINANCE GRANTING A ZONING VARIATION

WHEREAS, the Zoning Board of Appeals has heretofore held a public hearing on a request for a variation from the provisions of the zoning ordinance to permit the use of the property at 6 East Campbell Street for a Baskin & Robbins Ice Cream Store in the B-3 Central Business District without the payment of the required financial contribution to the Central Business District Special Off-Street Parking Fund; and

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees have considered the application for said use variation and have determined that the unique circumstances and that there are practical difficulties and particular hardships in requiring said financial contribution;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILLINOIS, that a variation from the use regulations of the zoning ordinance of the Village of Arlington Heights, as applied to the property legally described as:

The East 17 feet of the West 40 feet 15 inches of Lot 1 and the East 17 feet of the West 40 feet 15 inches of that part of the North half of Lot 7, all in Block 27 in the Subdivision of the West 1/2 of the Southwest 1/4 of Section 20, Township 42 North, Range 11 East of the 3rd Principal Meridian, Cook County, Illinois, commonly known as 6 East Campbell Street, be and it is hereby granted to permit the use of said premises for a Baskin & Robbins Ice Cream Store in the B-3 Central Business District without the payment of the required financial contribution to the Central Business District Special Off-Street Parking Fund.

SECTION TWO: This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication in the manner provided by law.

Resolution No. R19-75

RESOLUTION GRANTING EXTENSION OF TIME

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Arlington Heights, Illinois, have adopted Ordinance No. 74-77 granting a variation from the zoning ordinance of the Village of Arlington Heights to permit the use of classrooms in the Christian Education Building of the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights, 302 N. Dunlap Avenue, Arlington Heights, Illinois, for use as a special education facility for students with learning disabilities; and

WHEREAS, said zoning variation by its terms did expire on June 15, 1975; and

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees have determined that the continued operation of "Summit School," a special education facility for students with learning disabilities is in the best interest of the Village of Arlington Heights;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILLINOIS:

SECTION ONE: That the variation granted on the property known as the Christian Education Building of the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights, 302 N. Dunlap Avenue, Arlington Heights, Illinois, for use as a special education facility for students with learning disabilities, be and it is hereby extended for a period of one year, until the expiration of the term of said variation shall expire on June 15, 1976.

SECTION TWO: That this resolution shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication in the manner provided by law.

Carol Grimm hits one million

Carol Grimm of Century 21 — Arlington Realty has achieved the $1 million mark her very first year in sales. During her first 11 months as a licensed real estate sales associate, Mrs. Grimm has participated in residential sales amounting to $1,147,500. She is also the firm's sales leader for more than 50 sales associates in 1975 with a volume just under $900,000 for the first six months.

In April 1975, Carol established a new company record with sales of $506,500 and was the top sales associate of 200 sales people representing 21 offices of Century 21 in the Northwest suburban area.

Mrs. Grimm, husband Phil and two children reside in Arlington Heights where she is active in community affairs.

She is associated with the firm's new North Arlington office at 1635 N. Arlington Heights Road.

John Wotring, vice president of T. A. Bolger, Realtors Schaumburg office, is pleased to announce Jeanette Doppke as "Sales Associate of the Month" for May, having also exceeded half a million dollars in residential sales this year.

Jeanette Doppke

A full time salesperson and resident of Schaumburg for six years, Jeanette has attended courses at GRI, completed Bolger's 300 hour training program and has recently completed a human development course.

Don't wait to buy

The National Association of Realtors notes that potential home buyers who are waiting for an interest rate drop before buying a home probably will end up costing themselves money. With homes today increasing in value about 10 per cent per year, it would take an interest rate drop of two per cent during the year to compensate for the value increase.

LET'S TALK IT OVER

JERRY BOUSCHARD

Selling your house yourself to save the commission is not as easy nor as economical as it sounds. If you decide to do this, be prepared for "lookers" who want to go through your house at any hour. Many have no intention or means to buy but are merely curiosity seekers. They love "For Sale By Owner" because there is no one to screen them and eliminate those who are not prospective buyers.

Even those sincerely interested are reluctant to make an offer directly to the owner... it may seem that they don't fully appreciate the house. If an offer is made and accepted, there are many troublesome details which must be handled. By knowing where to find buyers who want the kind of property you have, we render a valuable service to buyer and seller. Let us tell you about it.

John L. Markay, founder and partner in the firm with Vincent J. Bolger, and Linda Bass, RELO Coordinator, are among the group who will learn improved techniques to help families on the move solve their real estate problems. Gladstone represents RELO in over 58 suburban communities, some of the more than 8,000 cities and towns in the United States and overseas in which RELO members are leading real estate brokers.

"RELO members serve people on the move by referring their housing needs to fellow members in destination communities, thus expediting the search for new homes," Ms. Bass said. "The mid-year meeting is designed to further polish our skills in providing this service."

The 785-member referral organization plans a workshop format to allow the greatest possible participation and exchange of ideas by both RELO broker-members and their sales associates.

Rural areas grow in popularity

Exodus to exurbia.

"Those far-out rural areas are gaining in favor."

So observes the real estate division of Esmark, Inc., Chicago, a diversified company with additional major interests in foods, energy and chemicals, as well as insurance and varied business and financial services.

A prime indicator of a healthy economy has always been residential developments.

"Although our present condition is anything but robust, there is a glimmer of hope to be found on the suburban home building scene."

Esmark sees young married couples being responsible for sparking the trend of new focus on far-suburbia.

"A recent survey of 1,000-plus over-30s who live in metropolitan areas revealed that 69 per cent were dissatisfied with their city life styles."

They cited overcrowding and ecological problems as prime reasons for their wish to leave the cities.

"Planning a family, amateur gardening and informal entertaining ranked high on their lists of priorities — and metropolitan areas, obviously, did not fulfill these needs."

Esmark notes that "back to basics" is the mass appeal-getter today.

"The shift back to exurbia will accelerate during the latter half of the '70s."

Current economic storm clouds have created a pent-up demand for more and better housing, particularly for young married couples who not only could not afford new homes — they just couldn't find them.

"Forced to take second-best apartment and in-town dwellings, they are now dreaming of that house in the country."

"Residential developments — complete with amenities, schools, churches, shops and recreational facilities — will answer this need and make their dreams come true."

Plan offers new features

The revolutionary Buyers Protection Plan announced by Homefinders Realtors a year ago now has several new features, announces Robert L. Zaun, president of Homefinders.

Basically, the Buyers Protection Plan Service Agreement provides for the repair or replacement of essential home components for one full year after the date of the closing of the sale for purchasers of Homefinders-listed homes.

Protection under the Buyers Protection Plan covers deficiencies in the heating system, plumbing system, entire electrical system within the home, water heaters, sheet metal duct work, central air conditioning systems, built-in appliances such as dishwashers and disposals, all plumbing fixtures except toilet seats and water softeners.

Three new plans have now been introduced as innovative aspects of the Buyers Protection Plan. Plan "A" is for the seller of the home, while Plans "B" and "C" are for homebuyers.

Under Plan "A," the seller of the home can obtain a $100-deductible service agreement at a cost of $125. This is the cost for all homes selling for less than $150,000. Homes selling for more than $150,000 require an additional $35 for this service agreement.

"This plan obviously makes a home more desirable to the buying public," states Zaun.

At the time a property is sold, the buyer may choose to upgrade his protection by choosing Plans "B" or "C." Plan "B" is a $50-deductible and will cost the buyer $40. Plan "C" is a $25-deductible and will cost the buyer $20. If he does not choose "B" or "C," he still gets Plan "A."

All costs are paid at the time of closing, hence the seller never incurs any obligation until the home is sold. In addition, there is no cost to either party for the house inspection.

The Buyers Protection Plan Agreement is available only because of Homefinders' affiliation with Electronic Realty Associates, otherwise known as ERA. This is a nationwide network of brokers who use electronic transmitting devices to inform persons in one area of the country what homes are available for purchase in another area. In six minutes, a family seated around the kitchen table can secure its first photos of homes for sale in the northwest suburbs.

Homefinders is the exclusive ERA broker in the northwest suburbs of Chicago.

Founded in 1967, Homefinders maintains sales offices in Antioch, Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Lake Zurich, Libertyville, McHenry, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Roselle, Schaumburg, Streamwood, and Waukegan.

The executive offices of Homefinders are located at 235 N. Northwest Highway, Palatine.

Save with heating, cooling tips

Want to cut down on the costs of running your air conditioner this summer and your furnace next fall and winter.

Then heed these suggestions from the engineering staff of the Hoffman Homes Division of Hoffman Rosner Corporation, one of the Chicago area's leading community developers:

If you're buying a new home, ask about the insulation. If you already have a home, consider upgrading the insulation. Proper insulation can save 15 per cent or more on your heating and cooling bills.

If your home doesn't already have storm windows and storm doors, or insulating glass, install them. You'll recover the cost in about six years through reduced fuel costs.

Keep storm windows and doors in position all year-round. They'll help lower air conditioning bills in summer as well as heating bills in winter.

Lower the heat input to your home in summer by drawing shades and drapes to keep out direct sunlight. In winter, do the same at night to keep warm air from escaping.

Consider insulated drapery lining to reduce heat loss and also to keep draperies from fading.

Check to see that air registers aren't blocked by furniture or draperies.

Keep filters clean. Check them once a month. Dirty filters can interfere with air flow and make your furnace or air conditioner work harder.

For air conditioning, set the thermostat at 78 or 79 degrees, not 70. In winter, try a setting of 68 degrees. If you wear a sweater, you can be comfortable at 65 degrees and you'll save money as well as conserve energy.

In winter, set your furnace for continuous air circulation. This will use up the warm air otherwise wasted when the furnace goes off, and will also prevent drafts and cold floors. The cost of running the fan continuously is offset by the lower heating bill.

Close off registers in rooms you're not using and shut the door.

If you feel uncomfortable in winter even when the indoor temperature is 68 or higher, use a humidifier. Air that's too dry makes you feel cooler; adding moisture should restore your comfort.

Check the weatherstripping and caulking around windows and doors if yours is an older house. Install new weatherstripping and caulking if needed to reduce cold air infiltration.

If you're in the market for a new home, remember that advances in engineering make it possible to build new houses that are more energy-efficient and cost-saving than homes of a few years ago, the Hoffman Homes people say.

The company is building homes in Westlake in west suburban Bloomington/Glendale Heights; Indian Oaks in southwest suburban Bolingbrook; and Frankfort Square near south suburban Frankfort.

Heat your pool

"The old swimming hole" behind your house, the pool that cost you many thousands to build, does not have to be shut down on Labor Day. Extension of your house heating system to heat the pool water can give your family extra weeks of fun, even after vacation time is over.

If you have a hydronic home heating system there's a good chance it can be used for pool heating as well. Your contractor can add a "heat exchanger" alongside your boiler and tie it into your pool pumping system. A simple temperature controller turns on the system and maintains the pool water at any temperature you want.

Bear in mind that your house heating system is not operating during your swimming seasons, so the full capacity of the boiler is available to heat the pool. Considering that it needs only a few additional degrees to make the water comfortable during the cooler September days, it would use little fuel to take the chill out of the water.

And come next May you can hop into your heated pool whenever you're ready.

Apartment renters are choosy

Apartment renters are just as discriminating as home buyers.

"When it comes to choosing where they live, they give the matter as much careful consideration as do prospective home purchasers."

So observes Marshall C. Dennison, president and chief executive officer of Pennamco, Inc., Philadelphia-based national real estate financing and servicing organization.

"However, that dream apartment can be just as hard to find as that dream home," Dennison notes.

A little like the proverbial "needle in a haystack," it takes some serious searching to discover one that offers a renter everything he's looking for.

Based on a recent survey of apartment seekers, units in California and Florida came closest to having all the salient features necessary for a dream-rated apartment — 76 per cent; the Northeast ran second with 68.5 per cent.

Dennison profiles that idea, yet elusive unit:

A large living room with ceiling to floor windows — preferably opening onto a balcony.

A separate dining area — roomy enough to serve a seated dinner for six.

In the kitchen: frost-free refrigerator, self-cleaning oven, dishwasher, garbage disposal and trash compactor. Double sinks — and no-wax floors.

Master bedroom with adjoining bath and dressing room. Clothes closets with built-in drawers.

Water-resistant, wall-papered bathroom, marble-topped lavatories — double medicine cabinets, three-way mirrors and ceiling sun lamp.

Individually controlled, year-around heating and air conditioning.

Rooftop swimming pool and sun-deck area — a sauna and exercise room in the building.

Adequate electrical outlets — rheostat lighting in living and dining areas.

Cedar-lined, walk-in storage closet; linen and broom closets.

A view — something better than just another building across the street.

Closed circuit television for protection — 24-hour switchboard service.

Indoor garage parking.

Arlington Federal receives permission for branch office

Establishment of a branch office of Arlington Federal in Elk Grove has been received from federal authorities in Washington, D.C.

This fifth office of the savings and loan association, founded in Arlington Heights in 1933, will be located in the vicinity of Bluestemfield and Arlington Heights Roads in the Grove Shopping Center.

Arlington Federal is believed to be the only savings and loan in Illinois which as thus far received Federal approval for four de novo offices.

Last March the association was authorized to establish an office in Mount Prospect in the vicinity of Golf and Busse Roads.

Arlington Federal has two branch offices in operation, in Lake Zurich at 400 S. Old Rand Road and in North Arlington Heights at 6 E. Rand Road.

Marlene Kennedy joins Homefinders

Marlene Georgette Kennedy of Hoffman Estates has joined Homefinders Realtors as a sales associate, states Robert L. Zau, president of the firm.

Mrs. Kennedy is assigned to the Mt. Prospect office of Homefinders, which is located at 900 E. Northwest Hwy. in the village.

Born in Australia, she attended St. Charles high school and New South Wales Business College.

Mrs. Kennedy also attended Montana University in Missoula. Prior to joining Homefinders, she worked as an office manager and buyer for various indoor tennis clubs. She enjoys tennis, reading and golf as her hobbies.

Marlene and her husband, Owen, reside in Hoffman Estates. They are the parents of Stephanie, 14, and Jacinta, 12.

Based at 235 N. Northwest Highway, Palatine, Homefinders maintains sales offices in 12 villages in the northwest suburbs.

Fix up your own home

Many people renovate an old house without actually ever lifting a hammer — and find the entire project quite satisfying.

"But, in fact, part of the real pleasure of buying a home that needs fixing up can be doing some of the work yourself."

So observes Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company, Boston, a leading organization in the private mortgage insurance industry.

"Putting your own labor into the job makes it very much your own," Goss says.

He offers a quick refresher course in the gentle art of manual labor:

The number and type of tools you need will depend on how much you plan to do and the kind of work involved. Don't rush off and buy every tool that catches your eye — they are expensive and you may not actually need some of them.

Keep hand tools — as professionals do — in neat, orderly fashion. You will save considerable time and frustration if you replace a tool in its proper place as soon as you are finished with it.

Squelch the desire to do those things that will produce the most immediate and dramatic results. Do essential, fundamental things first. Don't add the window boxes and geraniums until you put in the footings.

Dress properly. Get into something comfortable and protective, and avoid anything tight-fitting. Pants made for workmen are cut much fuller.

Be armed with work gloves and thick-soled, nonslip shoes with reinforced toes.

Have a cap or hat handy to wear when you are doing work that involves dust, such as removing old plaster.

If you're sensitive to dust, wear a mask.

Get a tetanus shot — or if you have had one — a booster.

If you haven't been doing much physical work lately, break yourself in gradually. Don't overstrain — it could be a costly mistake from a personal health point of view.

Institute a special routine — you will find the early morning hours most productive, so try and get started then.

If you are inclined to ask your friends over to help, check with your insurance agent to be certain that if they should get hurt, you — and they — will be covered by the policy.

"Off to work can be rewarding. That is, if you work it right," Goss concludes.

Rookie Herald driver loses 'Hot Scoop' race

"There's only one speedway with a track of clay. You ain't seen nothin' till you've been to Santa Fe..."

Although I'd heard this catchy commercial many times, I finally saw, walked, drove and skidded on that famous track of clay Sunday night.

Until Sunday, the only track I had ever seen was Arlington Park's. Participation sports interest me much more than spectator ones.

But I couldn't refuse this offer by Santa Fe to drive in the "Hot Scoop Special." Besides, I desperately needed a column idea this week.

The Herald sports staff naturally joked about "last good-byes" as I prepared for this race against media people from the Chicagoland area. I expected that.

What I didn't expect was having to explain to eight-year-old Mia, my daughter, that she didn't have to worry about me getting killed.

Just about the time I had convinced her I'd be O.K., we arrived at the track, located in Willow Springs. Hearing the engines roaring during practice laps made me have second thoughts.

I developed "third thoughts" after reading the release all drivers had to sign. The paragraphs mentioning "medical and hospital expenses... disability benefits... death benefits" nearly convinced me to stay a spectator.

Besides, the Logan women wouldn't allow me to back out. They were convinced I'd win the big trophy.

Waiting in the air conditioned press

Paul Logan
Associate Sports Editor

box helped calm my nerves. Still, the two hours of watching experienced drivers crack up didn't help my confidence.

The "Hot Scoop" race came at intermission. It had to give the several thousand fans more than a few laughs. They probably had high hopes it would turn into a demolition derby, especially after seeing some of the media people wearing football helmets with face masks.

I drew one of the fastest cars in the first heat of an eight-car field — a 1964 Mercury convertible. The lack of a roof made me a little uneasy. But then there were the other nerve-racking things — exhaust fumes coming from the floor boards, a cracked windshield, no speedometer, a tiny dirty outside rear view mirror and a huge, powerful motor.

Three guys who had an interest in No. 4 took turns telling me what to do — when to turn, when to break, when to accelerate.

"Just keep it in second all the way," said one. "That's all you'll have to do in this bleeping car 'cause it's so bleeping fast," said another.

"You've got it made," said a third member of my "pit crew," referring to my position at the start — in the front row on the outside. "Once the green flag drops, floor it and you'll easily take this dog on your left.

You'll blast right by her and lead all the way."

He was three-fourths right.

I took the dog on my left at the flag, moved into first and led half the 10-lap race. Just when I thought I was getting the hang of it, out of the pack came a much faster '68 Chevy — No. 60 — which passed me on the outside.

No. 60 never showed up on my rear view mirror. But his passing showed me up and I tried to fight back.

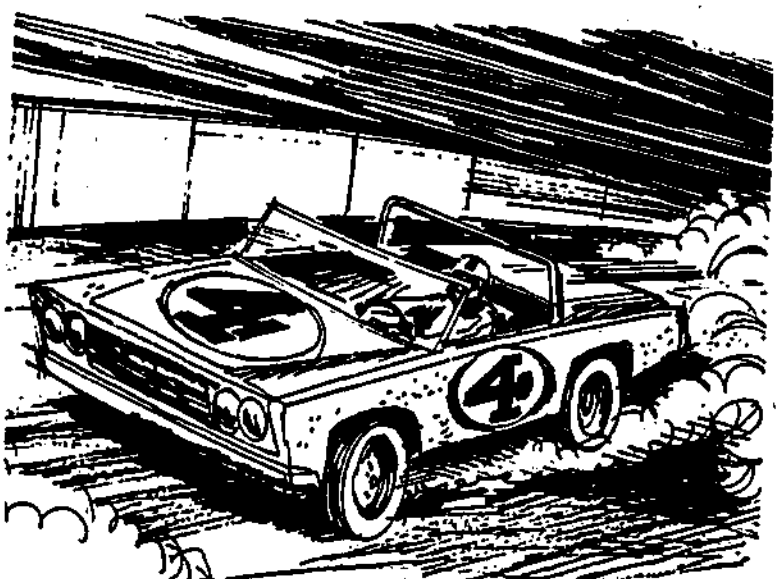

My old Merc tried to catch up over those five final laps, but No. 60 was just too fast. On the final loop, I went into the last turn out of control and skidded to the infield. But the time I got back on the track, two more cars passed me, dropping Paddock's ace wheelman to fourth.

The second heat (which included four women) helped soothe my ego. No. 60 again took a big lead with No. 4 finishing a distant second. Had I driven under control, I would have also had the runnerup spot.

Some of the guys said they'd be back next year, wanting another shot at the huge trophies. Not me. That last spinout will last me a lifetime.

The drive back in our Matador four-door sedan never felt more enjoyable. I'm staying in the spectating area from now on.

This all should be good news to A. J. Foyt.

No. 4 came in 4th for 'Lead-foot Logan' at Santa Fe

Arlington holds overnight lead, 3-1

by ART MUGALIAN

Larry Nomellini and Lloyd Meyer have pitching problems — all of a sudden.

The fast-approaching darkness and flash floods of Wednesday night brought down a quick curtain on the Ninth District Legion tourney game between Nomellini's Logan Square Lions and Meyer's Arlington Heights crew.

And though Arlington leads 3-1 after five completed innings, neither team will exactly be in the driver's seat when the game is picked up at 8 p.m. tonight at St. Viator's diamond. The third game of the series is now set for Friday at Rec Park.

Meyer and his Arlington Heights boys had their backs up against the wall after dropping the first game of the best-of-three series. Meyer sent big righty Scott Green to the mound Wednesday and Green responded with five innings of no-hit baseball, pitching with just two days rest.

Now the Arlington boss needs to make another smart decision. He must tab a relief hurler to mop up the two remaining innings for Green.

"I don't know who I'll pitch Thursday," said Meyer after the rains came.

He may go with Bob Schmidt or Dave Thorstensen. But Meyer will have to save somebody for Friday's game. He hopes righthander Tim Halas is ready.

Nomellini's dilemma is different. He used Kevin Kelley Wednesday and Kelley pitched well. But Jerry DeSimone's double off the fence in right field in the first inning keyed a two-run explosion. Paul Kastner came home on the hit and DeSimone scored a moment later on an infield error.

"I could go with (Mark) Bonucchi or (Lou) Citro or (George) Savage," said Nomellini. "I don't know yet. But I liked our chances of catching up when it was 2-1 instead of 3-1."

Arlington scored an insurance run in the fifth on its patented double steal. After two were out, Joe Ripplinger and John Vukovich singled. Then with Green at bat, Vukovich broke for second and Kelley spun around to throw. While the Lions had Vukovich hung up, Ripplinger scored.

Green, who walked six and hit a batter, was in trouble in every inning but the fifth. He allowed a run in the second when Jim Thompson walked, stole second and third, and continued home when Steve Breitball's throw went into left field.

"When Green is sharp his fast ball really moves and he gets it over," said Meyer, who had Schmidt warming up in the first inning. "When he's off, he's wild."

Giants step on Cubs

John Montefusco went the distance on a sixhitter and contributed a solo home run to a 10-hit attack Wednesday in helping the San Francisco Giants to a 10-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Run scoring singles by Gary Matthews and Willie Montanez and a three-run homer by Chris Speier staked Montefusco to a 5-0 lead in the first inning and the young Giants' righthander had a shutout until the seventh when Bill Madlock's double scored Chicago's first run. Madlock also drove in the second Chicago run in the ninth with a sacrifice fly.

Montefusco struck out nine and walked six in picking up his ninth victory compared to four losses. Steve Stone, touched for three hits and five runs in one inning, took his fifth loss in 12 decisions.

After Stone was lifted, the Giants scored a run off Tom Dettore in the third on doubles by Montanez and Steve Ontiveros. With Milk Wilcox pitching in the fourth, Montefusco's homer and a sacrifice fly by Matthews made it 8-0 and a bases loaded walk to Bobby Murcer increased the lead to 9-0 in the fifth.

Rain outlasts Sox; Yankees

The game between the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox was rained out Wednesday night and was rescheduled as part of a doubleheader Thursday afternoon.

The game was halted in the first inning with the Yankees at bat and leading 1-0. The umpires waited an hour and 40 minutes before calling the contest.

Irving-Lake hosts Babe Ruth tourney

The Irving-Lake All-Stars, including ten players from Conant and Schaumburg High Schools as well as Harper College, will host the Senior Babe Ruth League Tournament at Harper beginning today and running through the weekend.

Irving-Lake will open their bid in the double elimination tournament at 2 p.m. today against Galesburg.

Games will be played today, Friday and Saturday at 10 a.m., 2 and 5 p.m.

The championship will be decided Sunday at 2 p.m. with a second game, if necessary, being played immediately after.

Besides Irving-Lake and Galesburg, the representatives will be from Champaign, Brookfield, Chicago Heights-Oak Lawn and Chicago.

The Irving-Lake All-Stars, managed by Lou Bocci, are drawn from teams in Hoffman Estates, Woodfield, Streamwood and Hanover Park.

The team from Woodfield has placed three players on the all-star squad. They are Gary Oslance and Keith Abraham from Harper and Pete Pavich from Conant.

The Hoffman Estates team has contributed seven area ballplayers.

From Conant High School are Jeff Ironside (now attending Kent State), Marty Laquet, Jim Cole and Tim Domek (now attending Harper). Glenn Stromberg is from Elk Grove. Russ Zonca and Gary Frontier are from Schaumburg.

There will be no charge for admission.

5 MSL teams advance in baseball tourney

Hersey ousted highly regarded Barrington, 4-2, Tuesday to advance to the third round of the Illinois high school summer league baseball tourney. Led by Tom Barnard's three hits and two RBIs, the Huskies bumped off one of the pre-tournament favorites. Barrington had finished in first place in the North Section.

Dan Stoltz got the win for Hersey with three strong innings of hurling, though he needed relief help from Bob Huber and Todd Walker. The ordinarily hard-hitting Broncos managed just three hits off the trio of Huskie pitchers.

Hersey took advantage of Barrington starter John Felt's first-inning wildness when three walks and a hit batter produced a run. Joe Pusatera tripled home a run in the second and Barnard followed with an RBI single. Pusatera, who scored three times in the game, tallied in the fourth on another hit by Barnard.

Hersey and Barrington had received byes in the tourney's first round.

Palatine stunned Maine West with a five-run first inning and held on for a 6-4 victory in Tuesday's second-round summer league tourney game. Winning pitcher Kevin McKenna went six innings, fanning six and allowing eight Warrior hits.

The Pirates kayoed the Maine West starter in the opening frame. The big blow was Jeff Williams' tremendous home run following a triple by Tony Zera and a walk to Bill Odell. Singles by Dan McSweeney, Paul Henkels, and Mike Vasko were good for two more runs.

The Warriors fought back for a pair of runs in the first and two more in the fifth off McKenna. Then in the sixth, after Bob Zuccarini led off with a triple, McKenna set down the next three batters to end the tying run on third.

Henkels, who had three hits for Palatine, singled home an insurance run in the seventh, and lefty Mark Menke earned a save by retiring the Warriors in the bottom of the inning.

Wheeling got back-to-back homers from Rick Heredia and Larry Fry in the first inning and that was enough for Keith Pecka, who hurled a four-hit shutout as the Wildcats advanced, 3-0, over Crystal Lake Tuesday.

Wheeling's win was its 15th in a row in summer league play and moved them into the third round of the tournament. The Wildcats had a bye in round one.

Heredia's home run came after John Miller reached base on a Crystal Lake error. Fry hammered his roundtripper a moment later.

John Igrasek pitched and hit his Rolling Meadows team to a 2-1 victory Tuesday over a tough and tenacious Wauconda outfit. Igrasek, a right-hander, hurled a two-hitter with 10 strikeouts and collected a pair of hits, including a key double in the seventh which moved the winning run to third.

Despite Igrasek's performance, the Mustangs trailed Wauconda 1-0 going into the top of the sixth inning. But Jim Broderick tripled and came home with the tying run a moment later on Dennis Drolet's double.

Then in the seventh, Mike Bramlett singled and Igrasek followed with a double to send Bramlett to third base. Bramlett scampered home with the go-ahead run on a wild pitch, and Igrasek throttled the Wauconda bats in the bottom of the seventh.

Bramlett and Drolet joined Igrasek in pacing the Mustangs' eight-hit attack with two hits apiece.

The summer league tournament hopes of the Conant Cougars shattered at the hands of Maine South Tuesday as the Hawks took an 8-0 decision.

Conant pitcher Rob Totten had the mound all to himself as he went the seven-inning route, giving up 11 hits and striking out five.

The only offensive support he received amounted to singles by Chris Bergeron and Dan Mullin.

Buffalo Grove rode the bat of Mike Ledna to a second round tournament win over Elk Grove, 8-5, Tuesday.

Ledna slapped out four hits in five appearances at the plate, including two doubles, and drove home three runs.

Tim Connolly worked the Bison pitching chores for six innings but had control difficulties as he walked eight Elk Grove batters.

Bob Ray's double off the fence drove in one run for Elk Grove. Tom Curran had the only Grenadier extra base hit, a double.

Hoffman was eliminated from tourney play, losing to Addison Trail 11-1.

The Hawks' only hit came in the third when Al Bloom singled. Their run was a gift in the sixth when the Addison pitcher walked four Hawks with Mark Mueller receiving the RBI with his free pass.

Earl Hausl started and was tagged for four runs, including a homer, in the first inning. Jim Chamberlain finished up in relief.

Smilers need a net

The golfers were shooting for low net score in the Smilers' League at Old Orchard and several impressive marks were logged. Connie Malecki, playing in Flight A, shot a 49 gross, 35 net. In Flight B, Helen Marinoff carded a 57-31, and Flight C golfer Lauri White shot 60-30. Top net score was posted by Dottie Bartlett in Flight D. She recorded a 65-29.

Malecki and Marinoff each logged a pair of pars and Sandy Fernstrom and Peggy Frazier had one each.

Marc Pearlman takes USJF national title in Colorado meeting

Marc Pearlman is only nine years old, but he's already accomplished what many world-class athletes never achieve in a lifetime.

The diminutive resident of 9136 West Oaks in Des Plaines has just returned from Denver, Colo., where he captured the title of nine-year-old National Judo Champion in the United States Judo Federation's Junior National Championships.

Over 800 competitors from the United States and Puerto Rico participated in the tourney, having advanced in their age division through stiff regional tests.

Marc took first place over 30 other competitors in the nine-year-old bracket. Amazingly, none of his opponents was able to score a point against him!

Pearlman started competing locally in judo at the age of six, but because of his youth, he was not eligible for National competition until this year.

Since his early debut, he has won first place in 45 tournaments in the Midwest. Last year he took home a gold medal in the Junior Olympics sponsored by Chevrolet.

Marc is coached by brother Steven and Irwin Cohen of Chicago — both U.S. Senior champions, gold medal winners in the Macabean Games, U.S. representatives to the Pan American Games and World Games and participants in the 1976 pre-Olympic Games.

While in training for the demanding sport, Marc works out six days a week and runs three miles a day. About his phenomenal success, Pearlman says, "It feels good to be a National Champion, but I couldn't have done it without my teammates or coaches."

Area golfers combine for NIMAGA win

Two area men golfers matched wits with female partners to capture divisional crowns in the Northern Illinois Men's Amateur Golf Assn. Mixed Best Ball Tournament at Indian Lakes.

Craig Ridley of Mount Prospect teamed with Ann Ritchie of Barrington to win the Senior Division in a playoff with a net score 65.

In the Junior class, Dave Lyons of Palatine combined talents with Elisha Ogrin of Waukegan to net a 68 for honors.

The girls played from the women's tees and added their handicaps to the men's scratch scores over Palatine Hills' Iroquois Course.

Breaking the 300 game

Contrary to popular belief, the highest possible bowling game is not 300 when speaking in terms of elevation. The greatest altitude at which a game has taken place is 25,000 feet, when Dick Weber played Sylvia Wene in a Boeing 707 "Starstream Astrojet" freighter on Jan. 7, 1964.

Milton Richman

'Mr. Nice Guy' Garvey finding success brings other problems

The boy's name was Ricky. He was nine years old, he lived in the Los Angeles area and the doctors who had operated on him for cancer gave him only an 18 per cent chance of living.

His idol always had been Steve Garvey so the boy's parents put through a call to the Dodgers' first baseman and asked him whether he'd be willing to visit the lad in Los Angeles' Orthopedic Hospital. Willing? Steve Garvey was on his way over before he even hung up the phone.

When Garvey arrived with his wife, Cindy, the boy's mother was the only one in the hospital room. No news, no photographers, no TV crew. This was strictly private between Steve Garvey and a nine-year-old little boy afflicted with a dreaded disease which kills nearly three million persons throughout the world each year.

"Good to see you, Steve," the youngster's mother greeted the ballplayer. "But I'm afraid Ricky is so heavily sedated, he can't recognize anybody."

Steve Garvey understood. He moved quietly over toward the bed, looked down at the boy whose eyes were closed and reached for his hand, holding it gently in his own.

"I heard about your operation and I just stopped by to see you," Steve Garvey said, barely above a whisper.

There was no immediate reaction from the boy.

Steve Garvey kept on holding his hand.

After a few moments, he felt the youngster's hand growing faintly firmer. Only a bit at first, but then more and more until Garvey realized the boy was pressing his hand as lightly as he possibly could.

Gradually, the boy opened his eyes.

A look of recognition came to his face and, summoning every last ounce of energy in him, he managed a beautiful smile.

This all took place two years ago.

Last year, the ball club had a special night at Dodger Stadium. Crippled Children's Night, they call it, and on such occasions a handicapped little boy or girl escorts his or her favorite Dodger ballplayer to his position prior to the start of the game.

Hand-in-hand, Steve Garvey and Ricky walked out to first base together.

Before that, the boy gave the Dodger first baseman a small silver medal with a tiny figure of a ballplayer etched on one side. On the other was an inscription which read:

"Thank you for giving me the will to live."

To be sure, Steve Garvey is not the first major leaguer ever to have visited a sick youngster in the hospital. Nor was he the last.

Perhaps the only reason to cite this particular hospital visit, only one of a number he has made, was a published story which appeared in the San Bernardino, Calif., Sun-Telegram a short time ago and included a quote from an unnamed Dodger player saying, "Steve Garvey doesn't have one friend on this team."

Even Garvey's wife came under attack, some of the Dodger players claiming "She sticks her face in front of the cameras all the time."

Garvey, the National League's MVP last year, prefers not talking about it, but it did upset him deeply. Some of those quoted came to him and apologized, but Garvey thought it best to clear the air and met with the players himself.

He told them maybe he was naive, but he still was going to do everything he could to help them and he still was going to say "Hello" to their wives everytime he encountered them, the same as he has been doing all along.

Putting aside his accomplishments on the field, and they have been considerable since he came with the Dodgers to stay four years ago, Steve Garvey isn't your run-of-the-mill type ballplayer. He has willingly and unstintingly contributed his time and energies to community affairs and to the general improvement of baseball's image.

I don't think I've ever seen a ballplayer more patient with kids, signing autographs for them and trying to counsel them, than Steve Garvey.

Whenever a ball club proves disappointing, as the Dodgers have this season, there always is some unhappiness among the players. They have to grumble about someone or something, and Garvey, as the personification of the All-American boy, emerges as a natural enough target.

Seemingly, he has everything. He's successful, he has a beautiful wife and baby daughter, a fine contract and he never has any trouble with the press. He's in an understandably envious position and it's no more than natural that some of his teammates who came up in the Dodgers' organization with him, and haven't been as successful as he has, might have some jealous feelings about that.

If they have, they should simply try harder to be as good a ballplayer as Garvey is, bearing in mind at the same time envy is nothing more than pure ignorance. Most important, envy doesn't help the Dodgers win any more ball games, and Steve Garvey's teammates certainly wouldn't want that now, would they?

Ancient Olympics had creeping professionalism

by STEWART SLAVIN

Ancient Greeks might have done backflips in the Aegean Sea if they could see today's modern Olympic athletes competing for medals instead of money, wearing clothes, and with women in the same arena as contestants and spectators.

Back in 776 B.C. when "Typhoeus the Giant" was rearing back to hurl the discus in the first Olympic Games, he was competing nude, before an all-male audience, and he was anything but an amateur.

He thought only of winning, because victory meant not only an olive branch crown, but cash, free meals, retirement benefits and front row seats to the best play in town.

"The modern Olympics are naively idealist," says Dr. David Young, a professor of classics at UC Santa Barbara, and considered one of the nation's top authorities on Greek athletics. "They are attempting to keep professionalism out."

Young said the ancient Olympics, which began in 776 B.C. and lasted until 400 A.D., encouraged professionalism. The word "athlete" in Greek means "contender for a prize," he said.

"The main purpose of the competitors was to beat the other athletes," he said. "You either won or you lost. There is no record of any second places being recorded in the ancient Olympics or the other important meets."

Young said the cities of Greece recruited athletes, much like the professional sports teams do today, to bring fame to their communities. They rewarded their successful athletes with lavish gifts and privileges.

"In the ancient Olympics, the men who won received, for example, in addition to an olive crown from the games, usually a cash reward, pensions, retirement benefits, free meals at the public's expense and front row seats at the drama events of their cities. There were even professional coaches to train athletes."

Women were not only banned from competition in the early days, but they were also prohibited from viewing the nude male athletes.

"According to the general consensus, women were permitted to attend some of the less important meets and around the first century A.D. even allowed to compete in foot races in some of the major meets," Young said.

The exact origin of nudity in the ancient Olympics may never be known, Young admitted. But he said there were two "fanciful legends."

"They suggest that either a winning competitor's shorts fell off in the course of the first race of the 729 B.C. Olympics, compelling everyone else to 'streak' in hopes of a victory, or the runner lost his shorts, tripped over them, and died, forcing the magistrate to forbid clothing because it was hazardous to the runner's lives."

By 600 B.C., the Olympic program consisted of equestrian and chariot events; boxing and wrestling; four foot races, one about 200 yards, another 400 yards, one long distance and a race in armor; and a pentathlon consisting of javelin, discus, long jump, 200 yard race and wrestling.

Young said another combative event called the pankration, since eliminated from the Olympics, was a bit more dangerous.

"The pankration was a specialized form of struggle similar to a combination of wrestling and boxing except that its aim was to put your opponent in a position where he was compelled to admit defeat or suffer strangulation or a broken limb," The scholar said.

"The armored race was for a distance of 400 yards and was, as a metaphor at least, a constant reminder to the athletes of past wars and a preparation for future ones."

Swimming was not among the early Olympic events and there was no such thing as weight categories in boxing and wrestling.

"They were divided only by age: men and boys," said Young. "So you had to be pretty good. Few 160-pound men boxed, because they'd be up against 240 pounders and would never have a chance."

Young predicted that the strict modern rules of amateur athletics would slowly begin to slacken, because "it is too hard on the athlete to be 100 per cent amateur and it snubs out careers that are in full bloom."

"But some things about the ancient Olympics and their modern counterpart are exactly the same," the scholar said. "Most importantly, the extraordinary quality of the competition and the glory that goes to the Olympic victor."

Ice cream sensations!

Plain or fancy, ice cream desserts are truly made-in-advance sweet treats. Served with delicate cookies, a Strawberry Bombe is a spectacular looking dessert and simple to prepare. Or just put your apron away and let the guests take over with ice cream and an assortment of sauces. Either way, dessert is sure to be a success.

Raspberry-Pineapple Sauce

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1 package (10 oz.) frozen raspberries, thawed | 1 tablespoon butter |
| 1 tablespoon cornstarch | Red food color |
| 4 teaspoons sugar | 1 can (8 1/2 oz.) crushed pineapple, drained |
| | 1/2 teaspoon almond extract |

Drain raspberries, reserving syrup. Add enough water to syrup to make 1 cup. Gradually stir liquid into combined cornstarch and sugar, stirring until blended. Bring to a boil. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add butter. Fold in raspberries, a few drops of red food color, pineapple and almond extract. Cool. Makes 2 cups sauce.

Cinnamon Sundae Sprinkles

|-----------------------------|
| 1/2 cup butter |
| 1 cup graham cracker crumbs |
| 2 tablespoons sugar |
| 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon |

Melt butter in small pan. Add combined crumbs, sugar and cinnamon, toss lightly. Heat over medium temperature 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Cool. Makes 1 1/4 cups mixture.

Rich Butterscotch Sauce

- | | |
|---------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| 3 tablespoons butter | 1 tablespoon water |
| 1 cup brown sugar, packed | 1 can (5 1/2 fl. oz.) evaporated milk |

Melt butter in saucepan. Add sugar and water; mix well. Bring to a boil; cook over low heat 1 minute, stirring constantly. Cool 10 minutes. (Mixture will harden). Gradually add milk, stirring until blended. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

Strawberry Bombe

- | |
|--------------------------------|
| 2 1/2 quarts vanilla ice cream |
| 1 quart strawberry ice cream |
| 2 tablespoons creme de menthe |
| 6 to 8 drops green food color |
| 1 pint raspberry sherbet |
| 1 cup flaked coconut |

Chill 2 1/2-quart bowl in freezer. Spread 1 1/2-quarts softened vanilla ice cream around sides of bowl; freeze. Spread softened strawberry ice cream over vanilla layer; freeze. Combine 1 quart softened vanilla ice cream, creme de menthe and green food color in chilled bowl; mix until blended. Freeze 30 minutes. Spread over strawberry layer; freeze. Spoon raspberry sherbet into center of mold. Wrap securely with aluminum foil, freeze. To unmold, quickly dip bowl into warm water. Loosen ice cream from bowl with small spatula. Invert onto chilled serving plate. Return to freezer. Place in refrigerator 30 minutes before serving. Coat with coconut. Garnish with strawberry slices and lemon leaves, if desired. Makes 16 servings.

Chocolate-Cherry Balls

| 1 cup butter |
| 1/2 cup sugar |
| 2 teaspoons vanilla |
| 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour |
| 1/2 cup cocoa |
| 1 teaspoon instant coffee powder |
| 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 3/4 cup finely chopped nuts |
| 1/2 cup chopped maraschino cherries, drained |

Cream softened butter, sugar and vanilla until light and fluffy. Gradually add combined flour, cocoa, coffee powder and salt to creamed mixture; mix well. Stir in nuts and cherries. Chill dough. Shape dough into 1-inch balls; place on cookie sheet. Bake at 325 degrees, 16 to 18 minutes or until set. Cool. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar and garnish with chopped maraschino cherries, if desired. Makes 6 dozen cookies.

Key Lime Squares

|---------------------------------|
| 1/2 cup butter |
| 1 cup all-purpose flour |
| 1 cup confectioners' sugar |
| 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 2 eggs |
| 1 cup sugar |
| 3 tablespoons lime juice |
| 1 teaspoon grated lime peel |
| 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour |
| 1/2 teaspoon baking powder |
| 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 5 drops green food color |

Cut butter into combined flour, sugar and salt until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Press into bottom of buttered 9-inch square baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees, 18 to 20 minutes or until lightly browned.

Combine eggs, sugar, lime juice and peel, flour, baking powder, salt and green food color. Beat 2 minutes on medium speed of electric mixer. Pour over baked crust. Bake at 350 degrees, 18 to 20 minutes or until set. Cool. Refrigerate. Dip knife into warm water; cut into squares.

Almond Butter Cookies

|---------------------------------------|
| 1 cup butter |
| 3/4 cup sugar |
| 1/2 teaspoon vanilla |
| 1/2 teaspoon almond extract |
| 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour |
| 1/2 teaspoon baking powder |
| 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 1/2 cup finely chopped sliced almonds |

Cream softened butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Stir in vanilla and almond extract. Gradually add combined flour, baking powder, salt and nuts to creamed mixture; mix well. Shape dough into 1-inch balls. Place on cookie sheet. Flatten dough with bottom of glass dipped in sugar. If desired, press almond slices into dough. Bake at 375 degrees, 10 to 12 minutes or until set. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

Former singer cooks like a star

by LOIS SEILER

A former child singing star, Marcy Kravets of Mount Prospect hums happily in her own, never regretting abandoning her career for marriage and a family.

From the age of four she started singing on Detroit radio, and as a young girl sang with Horace Held and Wayne King. After her marriage, Marcy reared a family of four children, and particularly enjoyed being creative in the kitchen, accumulating an extensive collection of cookbooks. Handiwork, too, has always been her hobby, and this led Marcy to embark on a new career a few years ago, opening and operating the Darn Yarn Shop in Mount Prospect, with two partners.

MARCY FINDS a microwave oven convenient on working days for quick meals, but the Kravets family prefers food cooked on the grill. They have both a gas grill and Weber kettle cooker, which Marcy's husband, Al, uses throughout the year. They like the Weber for roasts and the gas grill for steaks and chops.

One of their favorite meals is Indoor Outdoor Shish Kabobs. If the weather doesn't cooperate, the skewers may be placed across a baking pan and roasted in the oven. Otherwise, they are cooked outdoors.

Before serving, Marcy slides all the meat off the skewers onto individual dinner plates. Each plate contains a stewed tomato placed on a bed of rice. The most essential ingredient of the entire meal is the garnish which is sprinkled over all. This consists of a mixture of thinly-sliced green onion, crushed dill weed and parsley flakes.

"THE DILL WEED gives this dinner an entirely different and unusual flavor," Marcy emphasized, "and is important to its total effect."

Flavorful and colorful, the shish kabobs make a big hit with guests as well as the Kravets' children, Lori, 9, Lisa, 17, Dean, 19, and their married son and wife, Lloyd and Chris.

A refreshing frozen pear salad complements the flavor of the shish kabobs. The dressing for the salad is one Marcy's mother always made. "The dressing also gives a fantastic taste to tuna fish and egg salad," Marcy remarked.

For dessert, she recommends Butter Tartlets. Made in muffin cups, they have a rich crust and a caramel-like filling somewhat similar to a pecan pie. The recipe makes two dozen, and the tartlets will freeze well. They are elegant for dinners, luncheons or bridge parties.

INDOOR OUTDOOR SHISH KABOBS

3½ pounds lamb, cut in 1½-inch cubes.

A FAVORITE meal for Marcy Kravets' family is Indoor Outdoor Shish Kabobs. She uses lamb, onions and green peppers marinated in an herb-flavored oil and wine mixture. After grilling or roasting in an oven, she slides individual servings onto rice and stewed tomatoes and sprinkles them with dill weed, onion and parsley.

- 1 large Spanish onion, quartered
- 2 green peppers, cut in squares
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon thyme
- ½ teaspoon oregano
- Garlic powder to taste
- ½ cup salad oil
- 2/3 cup Chablis, Riesling or Sauterne wine

Combine ingredients and marinate, covered, for 24 hours in refrigerator, turning from time to time. About an hour before serving, alternate lamb, green pepper and onions on skewers. Cook over gray coals or medium heat on gas grill, turning frequently and basting with marinade, about 30 minutes. Or place skewers across a 9 by 13-inch baking pan and bake at 450 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes, basting every ten minutes with marinade. Serves 4 to 6.

FROZEN PEAR SALAD

- 1 medium-size can pears
- Lettuce leaves
- Tangy Salad Dressing
- Maraschino cherries

Freeze pears overnight. When ready to serve, remove from freezer. Dip can in warm water, remove top and carefully remove frozen pears from can. Slice in rounds with knife dipped in warm water. Place slices on lettuce leaves. Top with salad dressing and garnish with cherries. Serves 4 to 6.

TANGY SALAD DRESSING

- ½ cup melted butter
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1 can sweetened condensed milk
- ¼ cup white vinegar

Put all ingredients in bowl and mix well with electric beater. Refrigerate in covered jar. Makes 2½ to 3 cups.

BUTTER TARTLETS

- Pastry:
- 2 2/3 cups flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2/3 cup sugar
- 1 1/3 cups butter, softened
- 2 eggs, well-beaten

Sift flour with salt and sugar. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse bread crumbs. Stir in beaten eggs and blend well. Knead dough slightly a couple of minutes. Cover and refrigerate for 20 minutes.

For each tartlet, place one heaping tablespoon of dough in ungreased muffin cups. Press and shape to form pastry shells. Prepare the following filling:

- ½ cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup dark brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon flour
- 2 eggs
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup butter, softened

Combine all ingredients and stir until thoroughly blended. Spoon one tablespoon filling into each shell. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Cool slightly before removing from pan. Yield: 2 dozen tartlets. They may be topped with whipped cream if desired.

Ice cream miscellaneous

Frozen desserts include ice cream, ice milk and sherbets. If they are shipped in interstate commerce, they must meet U.S. Food and Drug Administration standards of identity.

ICE CREAM is made from cream, milk, sugar, flavorings and stabilizers. It must contain at least 10 per cent milkfat.

Keep ice cream in a tightly closed carton and try to use it within a week if you store it in your refrigerator frozen food compartment. If you store it in a deep freezer, it will keep for a month or two (as long as the temperature is kept below zero). It should be kept hard frozen to prevent it from becoming "icy."

Ice cream is easier to serve if it is transferred from the frozen food compartment to the refrigerator section a short time before serving — about 10 minutes for a pint and 20 minutes for a half gallon.

Some ice cream has egg yolks added. This may be called frozen custard, French ice cream or New York ice cream.

ICE MILK is made from milk, stabilizers, sugar and flavorings. It must contain between two and seven per cent milkfat. The soft-serve frozen "ice cream" you can buy at a roadside stand is a specially processed ice milk.

SHERBET is made from milk, fruit or fruit juice, stabilizers and sugars. Sherbet has a high level of sugar — about twice as much as ice cream. It must have one or two per cent milk fat.

Both sherbet and ice milk should be handled in the home like ice cream.

A cup of regular ice cream contains 255 calories, a cup of hardened ice milk, 200, a cup of soft-serve, 265, and a cup of sherbet, 260 calories.

For diabetics

To eat is the way to live

by BARBARA LADD

To eat is to live — at least that is what experts in diabetes firmly proclaimed recently at the American Diabetes Association's first Public Conference on Diabetes in Hinsdale. And though more than 300 non-professional people (predominantly diabetics) were in attendance, even the experts had come to learn.

"I am a diabetic and a very senior citizen," said Katharine Middleton, nationally recognized nutritionist. "This class is for me, too."

In the United States more than 2 million people know they have diabetes and those who aren't aware they have it exceed that. Most of these people were diagnosed as adults — usually after being treated for some other serious problem, like heart disease.

Dr. Joseph H. Skom, a Northwestern University Medical School professor, said that around 80 per cent of the adult diabetics are or have been "significantly" obese. And over and over, he and other speakers emphasized that a good diet was nearly synonymous with life.

"NO DIABETIC can achieve a good control of diabetes without following a good diet," he said. "Time after time after time we've demonstrated to patients and hospital house officers the dramatic importance of diet."

This is probably because one major aspect of diabetes is the body's inability to utilize food properly — especially carbohydrates (sugars and starches). Persons with diabetes have difficulty converting these sugars and starches into energy which the body needs to operate normally. This problem occurs because the person has an insulin deficiency. (Insulin is a substance produced by the pancreas to regulate the use of sugar in the body.)

Telltale symptoms

Practically anybody can get diabetes. But some people are more likely to develop it than others. Those who have a greater chance for getting diabetes are persons from diabetic families, persons over forty years of age, persons who are overweight and women more often than men. Here are the usual telltale symptoms of diabetes:

1. Frequent urination
2. Excessive thirst
3. Rapid loss of weight
4. Extreme hunger
5. Fatigue, weakness, and drowsiness
6. Intense itching, particularly in the genital area.
7. Failing eyesight
8. Skin infections

Not all of these symptoms are present in every diabetic patient. Some patients have only one or two symptoms. Others have no apparent symptoms. Their diabetes is often discovered as the result of a blood or urine test.

"Being 'slightly' diabetic is like being 'slightly' pregnant," said nutritionist Middleton. It's important that a new diabetic weighs almost every bit of food eaten for the first several months, "so you can go out and dine with your friends at restaurants and not worry about going into diabetic shock because you miscalculated the amount in the food servings," she said.

Mrs. Middleton said that diabetic patients often feel that they must give up foods they enjoy and endure the monotony of a rigid diet. "But, the change doesn't have to be nearly as hard as they think," she said.

TODAY DIABETICS use an "exchange list diet" which permits a wide selection from a great number of foods. There are seven categories in these diets: milk, two groups of vegetables, fruit, bread, meat and fat. "A good diabetic diet is a good diet for any normal person," said Mrs. Middleton.

But the diabetic does encounter special problems with his diet.

"The word 'dietetic' does not mean diabetic — never," said Mrs. Middleton. Dietetic foods may have some sugar or other form of carbohydrate like sorbitol or mannitol added. Unless the label is read very carefully — even down through the fine print, she said — a diabetic cannot know with certainty that a dietetic food can be used in his diet.

Confusion also occurs with alcohol consumption. Many diabetics have the doctor's approval to have a drink occasionally, said Mrs. Middleton. "But each person has a different definition of 'occasionally' and the drink or drinks must always be calculated into the daily diet," she said.

FOR EXAMPLE, a half cup of Christmas eggnog is 335 calories, 18 grams of carbohydrate and equivalent to one slice of bread, one-half of a fruit serving and six teaspoons of butter in the diabetic diet. According to Mrs. Middleton, those figures represent a lot of needed nutrition in the form of vitamins and minerals that has been replaced by a social drink.

"Now it is common practice for me

Diabetic recipes for everyone

Here are a few recipes recommended by the American Diabetes Association, as developed by Mrs. Katharine Middleton, nutritionist.

RUM-COLA HIGHBALL

Put 2 ice cubes in a 9-oz. glass. Pour on top 1 teaspoon imitation rum flavor and ½ teaspoon lemon juice. Fill glass with chilled, sugar free cola-flavored, low calorie soda. Garnish with ¼ slice of orange. Food value... free exchange.

SWEDISH COCKTAIL MEAT BALLS

1 egg, beaten
¼ cup water
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
4 teaspoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons fine cut onion
1 slice soft, fresh white bread, crumbled fine
1 pound lean, ground beef.

Combine egg, water, seasoning, lemon rind, juice, onions, bread crumbs; mix well. Add beef; mix well. Measure 1 level teaspoonful for each ball; roll between hands to shape. Place on foil-lined cookie sheet 1 inch apart. Bake in moderately hot (400 degrees) oven 10 minutes. Serve on toothpicks. Yield: 84 balls. Food values of 1 serving (7 balls): 1.2 grams carbohydrates, 8.5 grams protein, 4.2 grams fat, total of 80 calories. Exchange value: 1 meat exchange.

SUMMER DRESSING

1 cup (8 ounces) plain, regular yogurt
½ cup (70 grams) very finely chopped unpeeled cucumber, drained
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon fine cut green onions
2 tablespoons fine diced radishes
1 tablespoon white vinegar
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
18 teaspoon / salt

Combine all ingredients carefully and thoroughly. Turn into pint jar, cover, and chill well before using. Stir before using. Can be used on salads such as sliced head lettuce, shredded cabbage, sliced tomatoes, tossed greens, deviled eggs, or tomato aspic. Yield: 1½ cups, with total food values of 15 grams carbohydrates, 9 grams protein, 4 grams fat, 132 calories. For one salad, up to 3 tablespoons may be considered a "free" exchange.

KENNEL DAWGS

1 frankfurter roll (39 grams)
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 fully cooked wiener (1.6 ounces)
1 medium small cooking onion
Sprinkle of salt
1 tablespoon regular catsup
1 slice (1 ounce) cheddar cheese
Few strips green pepper

Split roll lengthwise; place halves cut side up in shallow pan. Spread each with mustard. Cut wiener lengthwise and place cut side up on mustard. Peel onion, slice very thin, separate into rings, and place along top of wiener. Drizzle catsup on top of onion rings. Sprinkle lightly with salt. Cut cheese in strips and place on top. Cover pan with foil as a "tent" over food. Heat in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for 20 minutes. Yield: 1 serving. Food values: 1¼ bread exchanges plus 2 meat exchanges plus 2¼ fat exchanges with a total of 360 calories.

LEMON CHEESE PIE

1½ tablespoons unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup (8 ounces) skim milk
2 eggs, beaten

¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1/3 cup lemon juice
½ teaspoon pure lemon extract
Artificial sweetener to substitute for ½ cup sugar
1 pound (2 cups) small curd cottage cheese
3 to 4 fresh strawberries.

Soak gelatin in cold water. Scald milk in top of double boiler. Pour slowly on top of gently beaten eggs and salt, stirring constantly. Return to top of double boiler; cook over slowly simmering water, stirring constantly until mixture coats spoon. Remove from heat. Turn into bowl; add gelatin, lemon rind, juice, lemon extract and artificial sweetener; mix well until gelatin is dissolved.

Chill until mixture "spoons" like a thick, unbeaten egg white; stir gently several times while chilling. Add cottage cheese. Beat with electric mixer at high speed for 8 to 10 minutes. If filling thin, chill for 5 to 10 minutes. Turn into prepared 9 inch graham cracker pie shell. Sprinkle reserved 2 tablespoons cracker crumbs on top; garnish with sliced strawberries. Chill 3 hours or longer. Yield: 1 9-inch pie. Food values of 1 serving (18 of pie), 12.3 grams carbohydrates, 12.5 grams protein, 10.4 grams fat, total of 192 calories. Exchange values: 2 meat exchanges plus 1¼ fruit exchanges.

Sweets, sours add subtle flavor

by Charles Flynn

A combination of sweets and sours adds subtle flavor to many kinds of dishes and serves to pep up meats which, without the additional seasoning, tend to be bland. The Pennsylvania Dutch are past masters in such blends with vegetables while Polyne-sians more often use them to accent meats.

This dish is a little of both, turning out some wonderful pork chops which are delightfully different. To serve 4, select 8 chops which are small but cut to medium thickness. Sprinkle chops on both sides with salt and pepper and dust with flour. Brown chops on both sides in bacon drippings.

While chops are browning, mix in a saucepan 1/4 cup (lightly packed) brown sugar, 1/4 cup granulated sugar, 1/2 cup cider vinegar, 2 tablespoons soya sauce and 1/8 teaspoon salt. Heat and stir to make a thin syrup. To this mixture add 1/4 cup chopped green onions, including tops, and 1 whole green pepper, seeded, trimmed and chopped coarsely.

WHEN CHOPS are brown, pour sweet-sour mixture over them, cover and cook over low heat for 50 minutes. At this time uncover and sprinkle over 1 cup coarsely grated carrots. Put cover on again and continue to cook for another 10 minutes when carrots will still be crisp but heated through. Serve over browned feathery rice.

Meanwhile, wash and drain 1 cup long grain rice. In a medium skillet melt 1 tablespoon butter or margarine and add 1 tablespoon of salad oil (which keeps butter from burning).

Add rice to skillet and brown well, stirring often. When browned, put rice in a casserole. Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt, and pour over 2 1/4 cups of chicken stock or bouillon.

Cover and bake in a 350 degree oven for 45 minutes to 1 hour when rice will be light and feathery to the touch of a spoon. To serve, put rice on a hot plate, top with 2 chops and spoon over the sweet-sour gravy generously.

With the chops and rice we serve buttered asparagus or broccoli spears and in summer a bowl of sliced cucumbers and onion rings in a vinegar sauce, which rounds out the meal beautifully.

Barbecue stats

Hamburgers are the most popular barbecue food, prepared by 96 per cent of all outdoor cooks. (It is estimated that some 15 billion hamburgers will be consumed in the U.S. this year, which will bring the national average close to 64.6 hamburgers per person.)

Steaks are chosen by 93 per cent of those who barbecue; other beef cuts by 45 per cent; hot dogs, 85 per cent; and pork items are barbecued by 48 per cent of the outdoor chefs.

The typical family that barbecues will be young to middle-aged, and is more apt to be from a higher income bracket.

Fresh grapes for dessert

If you are stuck for a dessert recipe that uses fresh grapes, try this one.

GRAPE FOOL

1 1/2 pounds fresh grapes (4 cups)
1 cinnamon stick
1/4 teaspoon whole cloves
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons grated fresh orange rind
1 cup heavy cream.

Halve grapes and remove seeds. Combine with cinnamon, cloves, sugar and orange rind in a saucepan and bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Cook, uncovered, over low heat until grapes are reduced to a thick pulp, about 1 1/2 hours. Stir frequently to prevent sticking. Remove whole spices and chill. Whip heavy cream until stiff and fold in grape pulp. Serve in dessert glasses lined with ladyfingers. Makes about 2 1/2 cups or 8 servings.

WE WANT YOU TO SEE BOTH SIDES OF THE MEAT

Now, with our new transparent trays, you can see both sides of the meat before you buy it, and the meat stays neat, because the tray will not soften, break or leak. We go through a lot to bring you what we think is the best in meat, and this new tray helps keep it that way.

Choose As Much Or As Little As You Need!

The selection of foods you choose from at the Budget Food Store offers the same name-brand quality foods you've grown to know and trust over the years. And our perishable foods (like dairy and meat products) carry the kind of easy-to-read freshness dates smart shoppers look for. Now, in case you're wondering how we can offer such unusually low prices on these fine foods, the answer is very simple — it's because you help us cut the operating costs of running our store to a minimum by doing some of the work yourself (things like pricing and parceling your purchases). In return, we're able to sell our foods at lower prices. In short, your "do-it-yourself" participation is the best reason why quality foods cost less at your back-to-basics Budget Food Store!

By "doing it yourself" at the Budget Food Store, you help control the low, low prices!

Town center gets variety of views

by BETTY LEE

Reactions to the second phase of the Buffalo Grove town center study have been a mix of favorable comments and doubts expressed by land owners and village officials.

The second phase was presented to the public this week and featured three ways the center could be planned for the 80-acre site north of Lake-Cook Road between Ill. Rte. 83 and Buffalo Grove Road.

The planners, Touns and Olson, Economics Research Associates, and Alan M. Voorhees and Associates, said they anticipate six uses at the center: retail, office, public, housing, recreational and open space.

MANY OWNERS of proposed sites resisted the center, but apparently some are changing their minds.

One property owner, Frank Callahan, said he would like to see the development in Buffalo Grove.

"I would like to see a real village and get away from the Dundee Road idea... It's a mishmash," Callahan said.

"The property owners must get together," he added. "It'll probably maximize our profits."

Another property owner said he was not against the town center, but the way the situation is being handled.

"IT IS THE MANNER in which it is being accomplished that concerns me," Albert Knuth said.

Knuth said he was denied the right to develop his property and subsequently lost potential buyers. He added that he waited in good faith when asked by the village to postpone his plans.

"It seems that a large developer can come into the village and get permission to build right away," Knuth said. "But one person with smaller property is asked to wait indefinitely. I don't think that is just."

Knuth suggested that owners of larger parcels be allowed to develop their property when the "economic conditions of the area are ready" to allow development now. This option would prevent the area from remaining stagnant, Knuth said.

GEORGE ZIMMERMAN bought two acres to build a large hardware store. "I'm not a big landowner, but I'm disappointed," he said. "I was ready to pour my future into this store."

Zimmerman is thinking of trading his property for another suitable site or selling it.

"I would build tomorrow if I could," Zimmerman said. "But the True Value people (True Value Hardware Stores) said they will not wait much longer."

Village Pres. Edward A. Fabish said the village will act as a mediator in getting the property owners to cooperate. "The town center is not a haphazard idea that would take away their self-determination," he said.

"IT'S A TOP-priority item," Fabish said. "The land will be developed no matter what, whether we have a town center study or not."

"The prime difference is the tremendous potential for a high-class area," Fabish added. "I think coordinated efforts will depend on the quality of what's going in there."

Fabish said property owners want to "get a good buck" for their land, but with cooperation, they probably will see increased values.

Village Plan Commission Chairman Carl Genrich said he was pleased with the landowners who were at the presentation. "I saw very little at the meeting that implied a strong desire for an individual to go off on his own," he said. "I think they expressed a willingness to work together."

Genrich added he anticipates agreement on "KEY PARAMETERS" of the project. He also said the report by the firms "reflected the ideas" of residents' comments made in a town center survey by the village. "I really feel positive about the village center as a result of the meeting," Genrich said.

ONE OF THE PLANNERS, William L. Haralson of Economics Research Associates, said the town center concept is workable and the property owners can be united.

"Once they see what we're proposing, they'll see that the two objectives (the village's and the property owners') are not far apart," Haralson said.

"I think there is a common ground where it would be beneficial to all concerned," he said. "I think the few can get together out of pride in ownership or for the community."

In Jackson Drive area

by BETTY LEE

Buffalo Grove village officials are conducting field surveys on the Jackson Drive area in Wheeling Township to find a suitable site for a retention basin.

Village Engineer Arnold Seaberg said topographical surveys will show areas where a retention basin can be built to relieve the flooding problems at University Court in Buffalo Grove.

"We'll look at the area to see what would be the best," Seaberg said.

Included in the Jackson Drive area are 2.5 acres belonging to Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21. School officials have said they are willing to sell the property to the village for its purchase price two years ago—about $50,000.

VILLAGE OFFICIALS earlier approached the school district to obtain property at Sandburg School, immediately west of University Court.

School officials, however, were cool to the idea and said the district needed the property. They also said a retention basin would pose dangers for school children.

Buffalo Grove officials also were seeking to have a pump installed at Lakeside Villas townhouse development in Wheeling as part of the flood relief system.

The developers, Zale Construction Co., said they did not want to install the pump because facilities were adequate.

Zale did offer to install a pump between Lakeside Villas and Tahoe Village, north of the Zale development between Buffalo Grove Road and Jackson Drive. An agreement on installing the pump, however, must be made with the builders of Tahoe Village, Ben Pekin Corp., before it can be installed.

THE VILLAGE of Wheeling, whose officials had agreed to participate in the flooding matter, has hired consulting engineers to study the feasibility of installing the pump.

Seaberg said he has not heard from Wheeling officials but expects an engineering report soon.

A retention basin seven acre feet or any basin equivalent to seven acres of water one foot deep, is needed to solve the flooding problems, Seaberg said. He added there were doubts whether property that size can be obtained.

Seaberg also said he was uncertain when residents along University Court can see flood relief. The village must determine costs and design and obtain financing for the retention basin, as well as village board approval, Seaberg said.

Flood relief may come in six months, Seaberg said. "But I see nothing for the fall," he said.

FRANK BUTLER CHECKS the skies and the charts in preparation for his Aug. 1 voyage to the British Virgin Islands in his 41-foot ketch sailboat, "Seaward." Butler will make the journey with his son Bill and four other hands.

3,200-mile journey

Dream cruise—from suburbia to 'Shangri-La'

by DAVE GALANTI

Frank Butler is going to make a seven-week cruise from Waukegan to "paradise" next month.

Butler, who with his wife Mary recently sold his home in Long Grove and bought a 41-foot ketch (sailboat), is leaving Aug. 1 to live in a resort area on Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands.

"In our book, it is the true Shangri-La," Butler said. "We have vacationed down there before and it is beautiful."

Butler will be accompanied on the 3,200-mile journey by his 25-year-old son Bill and four other crew members. His wife will fly to the resort in late September.

THIS WILL be the longest journey ever attempted by Butler in his own boat, but he said he had been boating in the Great Lakes and elsewhere "practically all of my life."

Butler said he worked with the Coast Guard and asked for the advice of his friends in planning the voyage. He decided to start in August because that is when the best weather prevails. The route, which will take the sailboat through the Great Lakes and to New York and the Atlantic Ocean, was chosen because of more favorable wind directions than a route through the Mississippi River and Gulf of Mexico.

A large part of the trip will be made under sail, Butler said, but the boat also uses an engine if the winds fall. Safety equipment will include a 12-man life raft, safety vests and lights along with safety belts for use on deck.

Butler said he thought it was time to take the trip because he "didn't want to retire to the rock-ing chair without any memories."

"A LOT of people talk about doing their own thing," he said. "Well, I'm going to do my own thing. If you don't do it now, you may never get a chance to."

The couple will stay in the British Virgin Islands for about a year and then will continue their travels throughout the world. Butler said he might return to the northwest suburban area sometime, but asked, "would you leave paradise?"

Despite the long distance of the trip, Butler is taking the cruise in stride. The boat, named Seaward, will "take care of itself if you give it half a chance," and there will be plenty of fuel aboard he said.

"My biggest problem will be keeping five men fed and satisfied," said Butler, who will end up with cooking duties throughout the trip.

You just can't can without can lids

Well, folks, it is not officially all right to be concerned. Home canning lids are hard to find.

Of course the lids have been hard to find for at least six months. But that small detail has been overlooked in reports to news media and governmental consumer offices by the United States Dept. of Agriculture.

And meanwhile, the frantic consumer, who was told to plant a garden to cut food costs, has been running from store to store searching the shelves for those elusive disposable lids before her garden rots.

She hasn't had much success. But she was told not to worry.

Finally, with reports of black-marketing and hoarding ringing in their ears, Federal Trade Commission officials announced Tuesday that they were opening an investigation into the shortage of home canning lids.

JEROME LAMET, assistant regional director for the FTC branch in Chicago, said his office has been following the canning lid problem for months and said it is safe to say "there is a problem."

However, it isn't clear where the flow from canning lid manufacturer to consumer has clogged, he said.

Last year the lid shortage mainly was due to a lack of raw materials, especially tinplate and soda ash. But this year the raw materials are sufficient and major manufacturers—including Ball and Kerr—have stepped up their production as much as they are able to, said Lamet.

SO WHERE ARE the lids?

Earlier in the summer the lid manufacturing industry had claimed that while supplies might be tight, it would stock stores from South to North as the growing season progressed.

But reports of panic buying in the South have resulted in shortages there, which have swept North in a wave of consumer frenzy.

Five area food chains contacted (Jewel, Dominick's, National, Eagle and Kohl's) told The Herald they rarely get the canning lid supplies they order. And when lids finally reach shelves, they are purchased immediately.

There are confirmed reports of hoarding by consumers afraid their last chance for buying lids is at hand.

An area Eagle store received a shipment of lids last week which was bought in 20-to 30-dozen lots by only three or four customers.

IN MINNESOTA THERE is talk from state officials about gathering food retailers to set up a rationing policy on canning lids, Lamet said.

"It's my personal opinion that it looks like the only thing that will solve the problem here, too," said Lamet.

Meanwhile, gardens are ripening and lids are in short supply.

"I think it's a conspiracy to make us buy the entire jar-and-lid combination," mourned one woman who has more than 100 canning jars, a garden full of food and no jar lids.

Arnold Palmer may thumb his nose, but to weekend duffers a miniature golf course is the perfect place to brush up on birdies and bogies.

On this course at 199 W. Rand Road in Mount Prospect, age and apparel are unimportant. All you need is determination, a steady hand and a good sense of humor when an erratic putt ends up in the drink.

It may not be the U.S. Open, but it's still a lot of fun.

Motorecyclist killed; slams into sign

A Wilmette man was killed late Tuesday when he was thrown from his motorcycle and struck a traffic sign pole on Buffalo Grove Road.

Randy A. Kagan, 20, of 3200 Greenleaf, Wilmette, was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Buffalo Grove police said the accident occurred about 11:45 p.m. when Kagan was southbound on Buffalo Grove Road just south of Checker Road.

Police said Kagan was probably going around a curve too fast when the cycle went out of control. Police said he was thrown from the cycle into a sign pole.

A companion riding alongside Kagan on another motorcycle, Christopher Hofstetter, 22, of 1111 Ashland, Wilmette, was not injured, police said.

Parks to meet with developer today

Buffalo Grove Park District officials will meet tonight with Harry Siek, regional engineer for Levitt and Sons Inc., developer of Strathmore Grove.

Both parties are meeting to iron out conflicts in a proposed park site donation by Levitt. The developer wants to donate the 3.4 acres as a nature area, but park district officials want recreational facilities.

The park district also is receiving bids today for paving and the installation of tennis courts at Cambridge Park. Roland C. Schapanski, an architect hired by the park district, is expected to give a report.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at Emmerich Park, 150 Raupp Blvd.

Correction

The Buffalo Grove Plan Commission has recommended approval of The Crossings development by the Richards Group.

Tuesday's edition of The Herald incorrectly stated that no commission decision had been made. The public hearing for The Crossings is Aug. 18.

Big day for Susan

by NANCY COWGER

Today is Susan Lark's homecoming. Susan will walk out of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, under her own power and with the aid of crutches, nearly a month of treatment for bone-marrow cancer. Part of her treatment included the amputation of one leg.

The 11-year-old Arlington Heights resident has a big following, even though she can't see all the faces and know all the names. Susan is the focus of a suburban fund-raising effort supported both by friends and strangers, to help pay her uninsured medical bills, now estimated to exceed $40,000.

Dinner will be served Tuesday at two McDonald's restaurants in Arlington Heights, in Susan's behalf.

BILL KIMPEL, owner of the two franchises, Wednesday announced he will donate half the proceeds of the 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday business to the Susan Lark Fund. On a normal Tuesday evening, that would amount to about $600, Kimpel said. But with support from the public he hopes to raise the donation figure to $1,000. The restaurants are on North Arlington Heights

Susan Lark

Road, just south of Rand Road, and on Northwest Highway at Wilke Road.

"I have sympathy. Nobody can afford that kind of catastrophe," said Kimpel of the Lark family's plight. Susan's father, a computer specialist, had been unemployed due to the recession most of the past two years. Although he now has started a new job in Toronto, the family has no hospitalization insurance. Susan's oldest brother, Steve, 19, works at the Northwest Highway restaurant.

Children in Palatine are holding a carnival Saturday with pony rides, games and refreshment sales to raise funds in Susan's behalf. It will be in the home of Irene Kinsella, 13, at Walnut and Glencoe streets.

A benefit garage sale starts today at the home of Patricia Shipley, 4513 Lincoln St., Rolling Meadows, and will continue through Saturday. Area merchants and family friends have donated merchandise. Another garage sale will be July 31 through Aug. 2 at 312 N. Van Buren St., East Dundee.

BRITISH FRIENDS of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Lark, Susan's parents, are holding a "pie and pea supper" with donations of money requested. Mrs. Lark is a native of England, although she has lived in the U.S. 20 years. The supper is a British tradition.

The fund, established at the First National Bank of Dundee, has surpassed $1,400, although a check for the first $1,000 was presented to the Larks at a benefit dance Saturday night. Donations may be mailed to the bank in care of Joyce Proia, 2015 Berkshire Circle, Carpentersville, 60110.

An anonymous donor sent a $250 check to the fund, Mrs. Proia said. Other donations have come from children, as well as adults. A group of Bensenville youngsters raised $27 in a car wash, and Rolling Meadows children earned $10 in a carnival, and both groups sent the money to Susan's fund.

Susan's mother said final reports after the amputation surgery July 11 indicate "they caught everything in time." Susan is "all excited about" going home and being able to use the crutches instead of a wheel chair. Therapists may be able to fit her first artificial leg within three weeks, Mrs. Lark said. Susan will have to have new artificial legs periodically, as she grows.

"THE DOCTOR figures within a year she'll be able to do all the things other children are doing," Mrs. Lark said. "Things are looking so good for us. You can't really believe people care so much, but they do," she said.

Susan "has her ups and downs, but then who wouldn't," said Mrs. Lark. Her hospital room has been festooned with cards and gifts since her illness first was made public July 12.

"When Susan realized what could have been, she was very grateful" for the life-saving surgery. "She wants to live," Mrs. Lark said.

Crash hurts pair; one believed in earlier mishap

Two persons were injured late Tuesday in an auto accident at Marshall Street and Lance Drive, Des Plaines. Minutes before the accident, one of those injured allegedly was involved in a hit-and-run accident at another location.

In Lutheran General Hospital with head injuries were Dennis B. Jackson, 18, of 746 W. Dempster St., Mount Prospect, and Susan Powell, 16, of 648 Pickwick Ct., Mount Prospect. Hospital officials said Wednesday that Jackson was in fair condition and Miss Powell was in satisfactory condition.

Police said the second accident occurred when Jackson was northbound on Marshall Street and struck the rear of a parked car in which Miss Powell was sitting. The owner of the car, Otto Schlemann, 51, of 711 S. Marshall St., also was sitting in the car, but was not injured.

Police said that a few minutes before the accident, Jackson had struck a light pole at Dempster Street and Elmhurst Road, Des Plaines. A witness told police Jackson backed up and drove away after the accident, which broke off the light standard at its base.

Jackson was ticketed for leaving the scene of an accident, and improper lane usage for the first accident and driving too fast for conditions for the second crash. He is scheduled to appear in Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court Sept. 8.

You just can't can without can lids

Well, folks, it is not officially all right to be concerned. Home canning lids are hard to find.

Of course the lids have been hard to find for at least six months. But that small detail has been overlooked in reports to news media and governmental consumer offices by the United States Dept. of Agriculture.

And meanwhile, the frantic consumer, who was told to plant a garden to cut food costs, has been running from store to store searching the shelves for those elusive disposable lids before her garden rots.

She hasn't had much success.

But she was told not to worry.

Finally, with reports of black-marketing and hoarding ringing in their ears, Federal Trade Commission officials announced Tuesday that they were opening an investigation into the shortage of home canning lids.

JEROME LAMET, assistant regional director for the FTC branch in Chicago, said his office has been following the canning lid problem for months and said it is safe to say "there is a problem."

However, it isn't clear where the flow from canning lid manufacturer to consumer has clogged, he said.

Last year the lid shortage mainly was due to a lack of raw materials, especially tinplate and soda ash. But this year the raw materials are sufficient and major manufacturers—including Ball and Kerr—have stepped up their production as much as they are able to, said Lamet.

SO WHERE ARE the lids?

Earlier in the summer the lid manufacturing industry had claimed that while supplies might be tight, it would stock stores from South to North as the growing season progressed.

But reports of panic buying in the South have resulted in shortages there, which have swept North in a wave of consumer frenzy.

Five area food chains contacted (Jewel, Dominick's, National, Eagle and Kohl's) told The Herald they rarely get the canning lid supplies they order. And when lids finally reach shelves, they are purchased immediately.

There are confirmed reports of hoarding by consumers afraid their last chance for buying lids is at hand.

An area Eagle store received a shipment of lids last week which was bought in 20-to 30-dozen lots by only three or four customers.

IN MINNESOTA THERE is talk from state officials about gathering food retailers to set up a rationing policy on canning lids, Lamet said.

"It's my personal opinion that it looks like the only thing that will solve the problem here, too," said Lamet.

Meanwhile, gardens are ripening and lids are in short supply.

"I think it's a conspiracy to make us buy the entire jar-and-lid combination," mourned one woman who has more than 100 canning jars, a garden full of food and no jar lids.

City says yes

Did Wolf quit as deputy chief?

by STEVE BROWN

David Wolf, who may or may not have resigned from the Des Plaines Fire Dept. last month, Wednesday said he has asked the city board of police and fire commissioners to resolve the issue of why he was removed from the city payroll last week.

Wolf, 45, a former mayoral candidate and chairman of the Des Plaines Bicentennial and Historical Landmarks commissions had served as a deputy fire chief until June 6 when he says he was relieved of duty pending the filing of disciplinary charges. Fire Chief Donald Corey says Wolf resigned from the department.

"I have not resigned; I am still a deputy fire chief and I challenge anyone to produce a letter of resignation signed by me as the deputy fire chief," Wolf said.

WOLF HAD refused to make public comment about the situation until this week. He has been a member of the department 23 years and receives a salary of $22,000.

"I was ordered by Chief Corey not to discuss the matter and I obey orders," Wolf said, adding that he decided to break his silence after learning that his name had been removed from the city payroll last week.

"I am mad, now I am hot," he said. Wolf said he had been told he was relieved of duty with full pay. He said his attorney, Frank E. O'Reilly has written to the board of police and fire commissioners, asking for a hearing to resolve the situation.

Corey, Wednesday, said that as far as he is concerned Wolf had submitted a letter of resignation and that as of July 18 he was no longer with the department. (Continued on Page 6)

Superblock bond sale questioned

by JOE FRANZ

Several Des Plaines aldermen expressed doubts Wednesday night about the possibility of the city selling general-obligation bonds to finance parking facilities for the proposed Superblock project.

Until recently, city officials planned to finance the project with revenue bonds. Revenue bonds would be paid off only with the city parking lot fees while general-obligation bonds would require the city to use tax money to pay off the bonds if revenue is inadequate.

Ald. Carmen Sario, 6th, who opposes the sale of general-obligation bonds, said he fears revenue from parking will not be enough to pay off the bonds.

"The people are going to eventually pay for this," he said.

But Mayor Herbert H. Behrel and Edward Benjamin, city bond consultant, projected parking revenue will be adequate to pay off the bonds and that tax money will not have to be used.

BEHREL conceded, however, that taxpayers' money might be used if revenue is short in a given year, but said the amount probably would be nominal.

"In the long run the city will be better off with general-obligation bonds," Behrel said. "It's not correct to say the people are going to pay for parking facilities."

The proposed parking facilities to be built by the city would consist of a parking deck on Ellinwood Street and improvements to the parking lot on Pearson Street. The city has agreed to provide the facilities as part of an agreement with the Superblock developers.

Superblock, the first phase of the downtown redevelopment plan, will consist of a two-story retail area and a 10-to 12-story office building. Construction is scheduled to begin this fall.

ALD. GERALD MEYER, 7th, who opposes the sale of general-obligation bonds, said he thinks some aldermen might not have agreed to provide the parking facilities for Superblock if they had known general-obligation bonds would be used.

Ald. Richard Ward, 8th, said he favors general-obligation bonds but is concerned that revenue from parking facilities other than the Ellinwood deck and Pearson lot probably will be needed.

Behrel pointed out, however, that the city has always contemplated the use of parking revenue from lots throughout the city to pay off the bonds.

Benjamin told officials recently that revenue bonds could not be sold in the present bond market. He said the only way to make them marketable would be to back them with city money.

$2.5 million deficit forecast for schools

by JUDY JOBBITT
A news analysis
Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 residents are getting more education than they've paid for, which is forcing the district into severe financial problems next year.

The district projects a $2.5-million deficit with next year's budget and sees expenditures exceeding revenue for years to come.

Dist. 59 has been considered a rich district in years past but its riches depended on high and increasing assessed valuation which mostly came from Centex Industrial Park. The industries in the district have carried the financial burden, paying about 60 per cent of its tax revenue. But this pot of gold has been emptied by the state with its formula for funding schools.

THE DEFICIT was not an unexpected turn of events. The district has forecast financial problems for the past several years.

A referendum cry is not new. The school board has been talking about a 15-cent tax hike for the past two years and tax increases were sought for three years running for 1969-1971 but the voters turned them down. The last time the voters approved a tax increase was in 1965 leaving the district with a $1.80 maximum tax rate.

Long-range studies also were released in 1973 and 1974 which projected severe financial deficits. The 1976-77 school year was the year of doom, according to both studies, when drastic measures would have to be taken or tax increases approved by the voters.

A 15-cent tax referendum was shelved in 1973 when a survey of the community showed a referendum would fail.

Last December when the 1974 study by a citizens' committee came out, the board was advised that the referendum would not be needed for the 1975-76 school year but should be considered this fall for the following year.

These projections were pushed up by six months with the state aid formula catching up with the district and turning the financial picture around.

THE STATE-AID formula is based on three factors — assessed valuation, student enrollment and local tax effort. Simply stated, the higher the assessed valuation, the less money from the state. The lower the enrollment the less money from the state since money is figured on a per pupil basis.

And for Dist. 59 the local tax effort is the kicker.

If the people don't put up their share in taxes neither will the state, according to the formula. The state has set a tax rate of $1.95 for districts to receive the maximum in aid. Dist. 59, with its current $1.60 is 15 cents short.

The district has three alternatives to alleviate its deficit — continue its heavy borrowing practices until the lenders will give no more, eliminate programs or increase taxes.

In recent years the district has borrowed the maximum allowed by the state — 75 per cent of its assessed valuation — in tax anticipation warrants. The district pays about $100,000 each year in interest to pay the previous year's debts.

But the district's borrowing power

also is shrinking in relation to the amount needed. To meet its budget next year the district will need about $600,000 more in tax anticipation warrants than the state will allow.

IT ALSO CAN go the route of issuing teacher orders, a type of promissory note. The teacher orders are a method of borrowing by using the district's bonding power as collateral. Again the district would pay about 6 per cent interest a year on this loan and residents would see a tax increase.

Cutting programs is an unpopular alternative in a district that has prided itself on quality education. The district had budgeted a 4.5 per cent increase in expenditures next year, excluding salary increases, a figure comparable to neighboring districts.

A tax rate increase of 15 cents would raise the district's taxing effort to state expectations and would result in the district receiving the maximum state aid allowed. Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said this would not solve all the financial problems but it is the only factor in the state aid formula taxpayers can control.

WITHOUT A tax-rate increase, the board will be facing some difficult decisions in the coming months. A referendum is an obvious solution, but the board expressed concern that its previous track record would hold true and the referendum would be voted down.

Without it, the district must face the less economical route of borrowing money or the traditionally less desirable route of program cuts.

Oakton College wrapup

Rental of sixth building approved

Oakton Community College will have an additional building next year on its interim campus at Oakton Street and Nagle Avenue, Morton Grove.

The college board of trustees authorized the administration to lease a sixth building at the interim campus in an industrial park. The building, which has been occupied by General Environment Corp., will provide the college with an additional 22,000 square feet of classroom and office space.

College Vice President David Hilkvist said the cost of the lease will be $3,333 a month, plus property taxes. He said the college either will sublease the building from General Environment or will negotiate a new lease with the owner. The lease will be for two years with options allowing the college to renew it.

Hilkvist said the addition of the sixth building on the interim campus will help the college accommodate expected increases in enrollment this fall. Summer enrollment has increased 45 per cent over last year and college officials anticipate major increases this fall.

3 administrators hired

Three new administrators were hired Tuesday despite objections from board member Stephen Loska that the starting salaries for at least two were too high.

The board hired Louis Pettica to be director of student activities, Patricia Handzel to be director of women's programs and Eugenia Zellin to be assistant vice president for curriculum and instruction. All three will be paid $14,000 a year.

Loska voted against the hiring of Pettica and Ms. Zellin, saying, "I have no objection to the particular people. I'm concerned about the jobs. I don't think these jobs should go at $14,000 initially. We are hiring people in too high."

Loska was joined by board member Howard Levin in his vote against Ms. Zellin.

Pettica has been coordinator of student activities at Moraine Valley Community College, Palos Hills. Ms. Zellin taught English at Oakton from 1971 to 1973. Ms. Handzel was coordinator of the Oakton Women's Outreach program last year.

Aid for refugees to be studied

A proposal from board member Thomas Flynn to provide tuition scholarships for Vietnamese refugees will be studied.

The board had said last month that any consideration of scholarships would be premature. However, Flynn revived the issue Tuesday, saying he was working with Catholic Charities of Chicago on the resettlement of several hundred refugee families in the Chicago area.

Flynn said the college should provide 25 full tuition scholarships for refugees "to introduce them to our language and culture." He said Catholic Charities had been channeling the refugees through Niles College and has been finding homes and jobs for them.

Board Chairman Ray Hartstein said the college should investigate federal programs to help the refugees before launching its own program. He said the board could decide in August whether to sponsor the scholarships.

At Rio Rand Motel

Three nabbed on drug charges

A manager of the Rio Rand Motel, Des Plaines, was among three persons arrested on drug-charges Tuesday night by agents of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group.

Seized in the arrests were 1,000 tablets of methamphetamines, two pounds of marijuana, a number of eye droppers used to make syringes and scales for packaging marijuana.

State to fund underground tank

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency has agreed to pay for an underground tank for Des Plaines' motor oil recycling program.

The program was started in May, but has been limited because the city has only a small tank to store the recycled motor oil. Two months ago, a plan to install a 275-gallon above-ground tank was abandoned after city officials were informed it would violate city ordinances.

Mayor Herbert H. Behrel this week said the EPA has agreed to pay for the tank, which will be installed at the city recycling center, Oakton Street, east of Lee Street. Behrel said the city will install and maintain the tank.

The mayor said the owner of the property on which the recycling center is located has agreed to allow the city to keep the tank on the property until he sells the land or needs it for another use.

Philip Lindahl, city environmental officer, said the city expects delivery

The manager, Jack Duane Sandberg, 28, was charged with two counts of delivery of controlled substances, sale of methamphetamines and possession of marijuana. He faces additional drug delivery charges stemming from earlier undercover deals when agents said they purchased quantities of methamphetamines and LSD.

Also arrested were Roger Bise, 30, on two charges of delivery of a controlled substance, and Thomas R. Johnson, 28. Johnson was charged with a misdemeanor alleging he patronized a disorderly house.

All three are residents of the motel, 173 River Rd.

Also taken into custody was a juvenile, 16, who was released without being charged.

MEG AGENTS said Sandberg may have been selling drugs out of his office in the motel for as long as a year, adding they used earlier deals, when only small quantities of narcotics were purchased to arrange a bigger sale and set the stage for the arrest.

Sandberg was taken to County Jail, where he is being held on $25,000 bond pending an appearance Tuesday in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

Bise also is in County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bond, pending the same court date. Johnson was released on $100 bond.

FBI investigates 'theft' of plane from Palwaukee

The reported theft Tuesday of a single-engine airplane from Palwaukee Airport possibly was the result of a misunderstanding between friends, but the FBI has begun an investigation.

An FBI spokesman said he did not know the location of the stolen plane nor if any arrest had been made. The plane, a Cessna 122M valued at $20,000, was reported stolen at 8:45 p.m. Tuesday from the airport, south of Wheeling.

Sheriff's police said a friend of the plane's owner, Leo Brigman, 39, of 2856 N. Avers, Chicago, heard a radio report of the plane's takeoff and told Brigman. Brigman told police he had not given anyone authority to take the plane.

Esther Noffke, an administrative assistant at Palwaukee, said Brigman told her he knew who took the airplane. "It is some kind of communications problem," Ms. Noffke said.

SEVERAL PERSONS have been permitted to use the plane by Brigman, Ms. Noffke said, and it was apparently one of them who took the plane Tuesday.

Brigman kept a key to the plane under the cowl (engine housing), which is probably how the airplane was taken, Ms. Noffke said.

"These people come and go. They have their own individual hangar, their own assigned area," she said, adding that Brigman told her it was the second time the airplane was stolen. Previously, the airplane was kept at Chicago's Midway Airport, north of Wheeling on Milwaukee Avenue.

Sheriff's police said Brigman told them he would sign a complaint if the person who took the plane is caught. No authority could give the name of the alleged airplane thief. An unconfirmed radio report Tuesday said the plane was headed for Virginia.

'Y' dance director tells of retirement

Georgette Williams, director of the youth and adult women's dance department of Northwest Suburban YMCA, has announced her retirement.

Mrs. Williams has been teaching dance at the YMCA since 1957 and prior to that had a dance school in Peoria, Ill.

Mrs. Williams, a life member of the Chicago National Assn. of Dance Masters, has remained progressive in the dance world attending annual dance congresses and association meetings to procure new ideas. She has taught all forms of dance to children and adults. In 1962 she produced the YMCA's first dance recital "Stars of Tomorrow" which has become an annual event.

Aid queries on rise

Two local work stoppages have increased the number of persons applying for township assistance and reversed a three-month decline in applications, James J. Dowd, Maine Township Supervisor, said.

Dowd said more than 40 persons, either employees of Central Telephone Co., or auto mechanics, have requested township aid thus far in July. Preliminary information for June had shown the third consecutive month of decline since the high of March this year.

Under the law, certain striking workers are eligible for township assistance, but they must meet several conditions regarding their assets to be eligible. The Centel workers became eligible on July 1, but can and will be referred to the Illinois Dept. of Public Aid on August 1 if the work stoppage continues.

FRANK BUTLER checks the skies and the charts in preparation for his Aug. 1 voyage to the British Virgin Islands in his 41-foot ketch sailboat, "Seaward." Butler will make the journey with his son Bill and four other hands.

Dream cruise to 'Shangri-La'

by DAVE GALANTI

Frank Butler is going to make a seven-week cruise from Waikiki to "paradise" next month.

Butler, who with his wife Mary recently sold his home in Long Grove and bought a 41-foot ketch (sailboat), is leaving Aug. 1 to live in a resort area on Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands.

"In our book, it is the true Shangri-la," Butler said. "We have vacationed down there before and it is beautiful."

Butler will be accompanied on the 3,200-mile journey by his 25-year-old son Bill and four other crew members. His wife will fly to the resort in late September.

THIS WILL be the longest journey ever attempted by Butler in his own boat, but he said he had been boating in the Great Lakes and elsewhere "practically all of my life."

Butler said he worked with the Coast Guard and asked for the advice of his friends in planning the voyage. He decided to start in August because that is when the best weather prevails. The route, which will take the sailboat through the Great Lakes and to New York and the Atlantic Ocean, was chosen because of more favorable wind directions than a route through the Mississippi River and Gulf of Mexico.

A large part of the trip will be made under sail, Butler said, but the boat also uses an engine if the winds fail. Safety equipment will include a 12-man life raft, safety vests and lights along with safety belts for use on deck.

Butler said he thought it was time to take the trip because he "didn't want to retire to the rocking chair without any memories."

"A LOT of people talk about doing their own thing," he said. "Well, I'm going to do my own thing. If you don't do it now, you may never get a chance to."

The couple will stay in the British Virgin Islands for about a year and then will continue their travels throughout the world. Butler said he might return to the northwest suburban area sometime, but asked, "would you leave paradise?"

Despite the long distance of the trip, Butler is taking the cruise in stride. The boat, named Seaward, will "take care of itself if you give it half a chance," and there will be plenty of fuel aboard he said.

"My biggest problem will be keeping five men fed and satisfied," said Butler, who will end up with cooking duties throughout the trip.

Big day for Susan

Bone-cancer victim leaves hospital under own strength

by NANCY COWGER

Susan Lark

The 11-year-old Arlington Heights resident has a big following, even though she can't see all the faces and know all the names. Susan is the focus of a suburban fund-raising effort supported both by friends and strangers, to help pay her uninsured medical bills, now estimated to exceed $40,000.

Dinner will be served Tuesday at two McDonald's restaurants in Arlington Heights, in Susan's behalf.

BILL KIMPEL, owner of the two franchises, Wednesday announced he will donate half the proceeds of the 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday business to the Susan Lark Fund. On a normal Tuesday evening, that would amount to about $600, Kimpel said. But with support from the public he hopes to raise the donation figure to $1,000. The restaurants are on North Arlington Heights

Road, just south of Rand Road, and on Northwest Highway at Wilke Road.

"I have sympathy. Nobody can afford that kind of catastrophe," said Kimpel of the Lark family's plight. Susan's father, a computer specialist, had been unemployed due to the recession most of the past two years. Although he now has started a new job in Toronto, the family has no hospitalization insurance. Susan's oldest brother, Steve, 19, works at the Northwest Highway restaurant.

Children in Palatine are holding a carnival Saturday with pony rides, games and refreshment sales to raise funds in Susan's behalf. It will be in the home of Irene Kinsella, 13, at Walnut and Glencoe streets.

A benefit garage sale starts today at the home of Patricia Shipley, 4513 Lincoln St., Rolling Meadows, and will continue through Saturday. Area merchants and family friends have donated merchandise. Another garage sale will be July 31 through Aug. 2 at 312 N. Van Buren St., East Dundee.

BRITISH FRIENDS of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Lark, Susan's parents, are holding a "pie and pea supper" with donations of money requested. Mrs. Lark is a native of England, although she has lived in the U.S. 20 years. The supper is a British tradition.

The fund, established at the First National Bank of Dundee, has surpassed $1,400, although a check for the first $1,000 was presented to the Larks at a benefit dance Saturday night. Donations may be mailed to the bank in care of Joyce Proia, 2015 Berkshire Circle, Carpentersville, 60110.

An anonymous donor sent a $250 check to the fund, Mrs. Proia said. Other donations have come from children, as well as adults. A group of Bensenville youngsters raised $27 in a car wash, and Rolling Meadows children earned $10 in a carnival, and both groups sent the money to Susan's fund.

Susan's mother said final reports after the amputation surgery July 11 indicate "they caught everything in time." Susan is "all excited about" going home and being able to use the crutches instead of a wheel chair. Therapists may be able to fit her first artificial leg within three weeks, Mrs. Lark said. Susan will have to have new artificial legs periodically, as she grows.

"THE DOCTOR figures within a year she'll be able to do all the things other children are doing," Mrs. Lark said. "Things are looking so good for us. You can't really believe people care so much, but they do," she said.

Susan "has her ups and downs, but then who wouldn't," said Mrs. Lark. Her hospital room has been festooned with cards and gifts since her illness first was made public July 12.

"When Susan realized what could have been, she was very grateful" for the life-saving surgery. "She wants to live," Mrs. Lark said.

the department. City officials considered the period between June 6 and July 18 as vacation and compensatory time Wolf had accumulated.

HOWEVER, earlier this month Wolf said he would comment about the retirement dispute at an appropriate time when he was not under orders.

City Atty. Charles Hug Wednesday said he knows of no provisions in the police and fire commission regulations that would allow a hearing on the retirement of a member of the fire department.

Although Wolf said he has not submitted a letter of resignation, he did confirm reports that he had sent a letter to Corey.

Wolf termed the document a "personal note," but said he would not discuss the details. The Herald reported that the note apparently contained a reference to the ongoing dispute between the pair and a suggestion by Wolf that he might resign from either the fire department or the Bicentennial Commission in order to ease the tension between himself and Corey.

Both Hug and City Corporation Counsel Robert DiLeonardi ruled that the document constituted a letter of resignation.

WOLF SAID the police and fire commission is the only city agency that can properly accept a letter of resignation, but Hug and other city officials disagree.

He also noted that if any disciplinary charges are made he is prepared to defend himself before the commission.

"I have not done anything wrong," he added.

Wolf said he planned to leave the city late Wednesday on a two-week vacation that he had scheduled.

"I have full confidence that the commission will resolve the matter equitably," he added.

$2.5 million deficit forecast for schools

by JUDY JOBBITT
A news analysis
Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 residents are getting more education than they've paid for, which is forcing the district into severe financial problems next year.
The district projects a $2.5-million deficit with next year's budget and sees expenditures exceeding revenue for years to come.
Dist. 59 has been considered a rich district in years past but its riches depended on high and increasing assessed valuation which mostly came from Centex Industrial Park. The industries in the district have carried the financial burden, paying about 60 per cent of its tax revenue. But this pot of gold has been emptied by the state with its formula for funding schools.

THE DEFICIT was not an unexpected turn of events. The district has forecast financial problems for the past several years.
A referendum cry is not new. The school board has been talking about a 15-cent tax hike for the past two years and tax increases were sought for three years running for 1969-1971 but the voters turned them down. The last time the voters approved a tax increase was in 1965 leaving the district with a $1.80 maximum tax rate.
Long-range studies also were released in 1973 and 1974 which projected severe financial deficits. The 1976-77 school year was the year of doom, according to both studies, when drastic measures would have to be taken or tax increases approved by the voters.
A 15-cent tax referendum was shelved in 1973 when a survey of the community showed a referendum would fail.

Last December when the 1974 study by a citizens' committee came out, the board was advised that the referendum would not be needed for the 1975-76 school year but should be considered this fall for the following year.
These projections were pushed up by six months with the state aid formula catching up with the district and turning the financial picture around.
THE STATE-AID formula is based on three factors — assessed valuation, student enrollment and local tax effort. Simply stated, the higher the assessed valuation, the less money from the state. The lower the enrollment the less money from the state since money is figured on a per pupil basis.

And for Dist. 59 the local tax effort is the kicker.
If the people don't put up their share in taxes neither will the state, according to the formula. The state has set a tax rate of $1.95 for districts to receive the maximum in aid. Dist. 59, with its current $1.80 is 15 cents short.
The district has three alternatives to alleviate its deficit — continue its heavy borrowing practices until the lenders will give no more, eliminate programs or increase taxes.
In recent years the district has borrowed the maximum allowed by the state — 75 per cent of its assessed valuation — in tax anticipation warrants. The district pays about $100,000 each year in interest to pay the previous year's debts.
But the district's borrowing power

also is shrinking in relation to the amount needed. To meet its budget next year the district will need about $600,000 more in tax anticipation warrants than the state will allow.
IT ALSO CAN go the route of issuing teacher orders, a type of promissory note. The teacher orders are a method of borrowing by using the district's bonding power as collateral. Again the district would pay about 6 per cent interest a year on this loan and residents would see a tax increase.
Cutting programs is an unpopular alternative in a district that has prided itself on quality education. The district had budgeted a 4.5 per cent increase in expenditures next year, excluding salary increases, a figure comparable to neighboring districts.
A tax rate increase of 15 cents

would raise the district's taxing effort to state expectations and would result in the district receiving the maximum state aid allowed. Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said this would not solve all the financial problems but it is the only factor in the state aid formula taxpayers can control.
WITHOUT A tax-rate increase, the board will be facing some difficult decisions in the coming months. A referendum is an obvious solution, but the board expressed concern that its previous track record would hold true and the referendum would be voted down.
Without it, the district must face the less economical route of borrowing money or the traditionally less desirable route of program cuts.

To curb vandals Cops to patrol Cosman Lake

Cosman Lake area residents will give Elk Grove Village police authority to enforce village ordinances on their property in hopes of curbing vandalism in the predominantly multi-family development.
Permission from the six homeowners' associations in the development will allow police to patrol privately-owned common areas. Without the authority from the residents, police have been able to patrol only public streets in the project.
Representatives of the homeowners' associations met Tuesday night with members of the village board's judiciary, planning and zoning committee to discuss police protection.
The residents said they have been plagued with a variety of incidents of vandalism, littering and teen-agers trespassing on their common property to swim in the lake.
ELK GROVE POLICE Chief Harry Jenkins recommended the board of each association draft and adopt resolutions as soon as possible to give police the right to make arrests in the development.
Village Atty. Edward Hofert said the village has a similar agreement with the Elk Grove Park District to enforce ordinances on park-owned land.
Written permission to enforce village ordinances on all private property is necessary, Hofert said, to protect the village against possible civil rights or false arrest suits.
Village Trustee Edward Kenna stressed the importance of the agreement with the homeowners.
"We have to hammer home that there is no difference between your common property and any other private property in the village," he told the residents.

Park officials await result of Stevenson site talks

Elk Grove Park officials will wait for the outcome of discussions between Centex Homes Corp. and Elk Grove Township School Dist. 54 before considering development of the Stevenson School park site.
Centex donated the five-acre site behind Volkamer Trail to the school district in 1973, but according to school officials, has not lived up to promises to correct severe drainage problems on the property.
Dist. 54 has offered to turn the site over to the park district, but park commissioners have hedged on accepting it because of the estimated $40,000 worth of work that will be required to make the land usable.
In a meeting Tuesday between representatives of the three groups, Centex and Dist. 54 officials agreed to attempt to resolve their differences over the original site donation agreement.
"WE HAVE A copy of the 1973 letter that spells out the things Centex agreed to do," said Marvin Lapicola, Dist. 54 assistant superintendent of finances. "They've done everything on the list but improve the drainage and level the playground."
Claude Koenig, Centex project manager, has said he is not aware of any agreement with Dist. 54.
Residents of the Stevenson School area only recently expressed concern about the park, saying Centex salesmen assured them it would be developed by the park district.
Lapicola, however, said school officials have been attempting to get the developer to live up to the site donation agreement for the past year with no success.
"WE'RE STILL hoping to get something done over there by the time the school opens in the fall," he said. "Believe me, we haven't just thought of this dilemma, we've been working on it all year."
Park Board Pres. Edward Hauser said the park district will adopt a "wait and see" attitude until Centex and Dist. 54 iron out their differences.
"Since the park district wasn't involved in the initial discussions, all we can do is stand by and see what comes out of their negotiations," Hauser said.

You just can't can without can lids

Well, folks, it is now officially all right to be concerned. Home canning lids are hard to find.
Of course the lids have been hard to find for at least six months. But that small detail has been overlooked in reports to news media and governmental consumer offices by the United States Dept. of Agriculture.
And meanwhile, the frantic consumer, who was told to plant a garden to cut food costs, has been running from store to store searching the shelves for those elusive disposable lids before her garden rots.
She hasn't had much success.
But she was told not to worry.
Finally, with reports of black-marketing and hoarding ringing in their ears, Federal Trade Commission officials announced Tuesday that they were opening an investigation into the shortage of home canning lids.
JEROME LAMET, assistant regional director for the FTC branch in Chicago, said his office has been following the canning lid problem for months and said it is safe to say "there is a problem."
However, it isn't clear where the flow from canning lid manufacturer to consumer has clogged, he said.
Last year the lid shortage mainly was due to a lack of raw materials, especially tinplate and soda ash. But this year the raw materials are sufficient and major manufacturers — including Ball and Kerr — have stepped up their production as much as they are able to, said Lamet.
SO WHERE ARE the lids?
Earlier in the summer the lid manufacturing industry had claimed that while supplies might be tight, it would stock stores from South to North as the growing season progressed.
But reports of panic buying in the South have resulted in shortages there, which have swept North in a wave of consumer frenzy.
Five area food chains contacted (Jewel, Dominick's, National, Eagle and Kohl's) told The Herald they rarely get the canning lid supplies they order. And when lids finally reach shelves, they are purchased immediately.
There are confirmed reports of hoarding by consumers afraid their last chance for buying lids is at hand.
An area Eagle store received a shipment of lids last week which was bought in 20-to 30-dozen lots by only three or four customers.
IN MINNESOTA THERE is talk from state officials about gathering food retailers to set up a rationing policy on canning lids, Lamet said.
"It's my personal opinion that it looks like the only thing that will solve the problem here, too," said Lamet.
Meanwhile, gardens are ripening and lids are in short supply.
"I think it's a conspiracy to make us buy the entire jar-and-lid combination," mourned one woman who has more than 100 canning jars, a garden full of food and no jar lids.

FBI probes Palwaukee plane 'theft'

The reported theft Tuesday of a single-engine airplane from Palwaukee Airport possibly was the result of a misunderstanding between friends, but the FBI has begun an investigation.

An FBI spokesman said he did not know the location of the stolen plane nor if any arrest had been made. The plane, a Cessna 122M valued at $26,000, was reported stolen at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday from the airport, south of Wheeling.

Sheriff's police said a friend of the plane's owner, Leo Brigman, 39, of 2856 N. Avers, Chicago, heard a radio report of the plane's takeoff and told Brigman. Brigman told police he had not given anyone authority to take the plane.

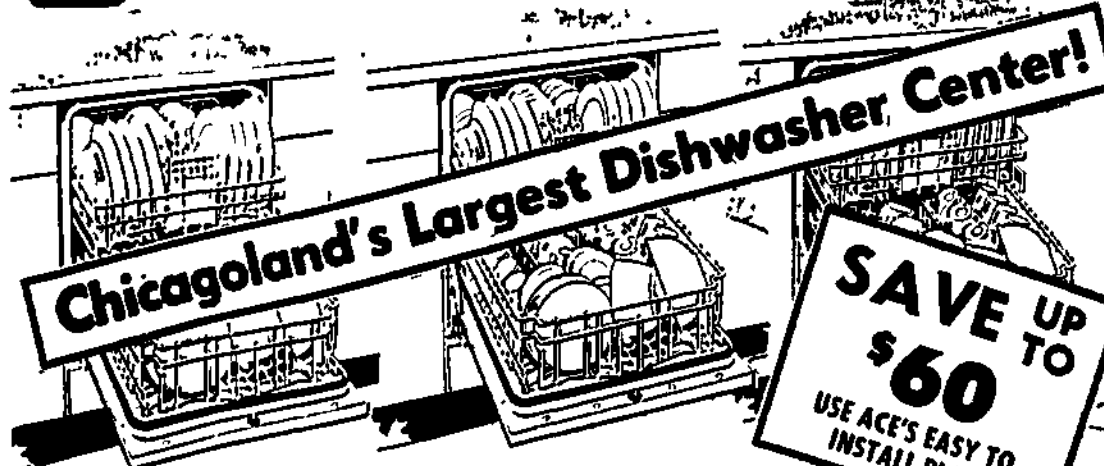

Esther Noffke, an administrative assistant at Palwaukee, said Brigman told her he knew who took the airplane. "It is some kind of communications problem," Ms. Noffke said.

SEVERAL PERSONS have been permitted to use the plane by Brigman, Ms. Noffke said, and it was apparently one of them who took the plane Tuesday.

Heed sprinkling rules, urges Willis

Elk Grove Village Mgr. Charles Willis Tuesday night stressed the importance of residents obeying lawn sprinkling ordinances because of problems at two local wells.

One currently out of service is being rehabilitated and is expected to be operating later this month. Another well was out of service for several days recently, Willis said.

"We expect and appreciate the cooperation of residents on sprinkling regulations," he said. "This is not a crisis, but we need to be prepared in the event it becomes so."

The sprinkling regulations allow residents with odd-numbered addresses to water lawns on odd numbered calendar days between 5 and 9 p.m. Those with even-numbered addresses may water on the alternate days during the same hours.

Residents with newly-sodded lawns may obtain special permission from the village to sprinkle their yards more frequently.

Schmerler gets 5-car contract

A purchase contract was awarded by the village board for five cars to Schmerler Ford, Inc., Elk Grove Village, for $18,127.33.

The village is buying one Ford Pinto and four Ford Torinos from Schmerler, the only dealer of 25 contacted who submitted a bid.

Village Trustee George Spees voted against the purchase, saying he believes the village does not utilize municipal vehicles to their capacity. Older cars could be used for more purposes, he said, instead of buying new ones.

Radio maintenance bid let

The village board also awarded a contract for maintenance of police radio equipment to PIC Communications, the low bidder.

The contract calls for a monthly service charge of $320.60 or $3,847.20 for one year of maintenance.

'Act of piracy' rapped by track

by KURT BAER

William Moore, attorney for Madison Square Garden Corp., Tuesday labeled attempts to take the 450-acre Arlington Park Race Track property out of the Salt Creek Rural Park District "an act of piracy."

Moore said emphatically that the race track owners "would not invite litigation" by seeking to disannex from the Salt Creek district to join the Arlington Heights Park District as the Arlington Heights Park Board has requested.

The Arlington Heights Park District showed little interest in annexing the property before a residential, office and industrial development plan turned the race track into a "financial plum," Moore said.

Over the years, the Salt Creek Park District provided the recreation programs for the race track's summer backstretch workers, he said.

The Arlington Heights Park Board has asked village officials to push for the disannexation in connection with hearings on a master plan for the property, which includes an 80,000-seat football stadium.

A NEW STATE LAW allows a property owner to transfer land from one park district to another by filing a petition in court. But Moore said any attempt to remove the race track from the Salt Creek district would provoke lawsuits which Madison Square Garden is not interested in fighting.

Katy Graham, Arlington Heights

park district vice president, has called the Salt Creek Park District a "tax shelter" for the race track. Taxes from the property should benefit Arlington Heights residents, most of whom live within the Arlington Heights Park District, she said.

"The difference is between a park district with 70,000 people and one with 3,000," Mrs. Graham said.

NORMAN BREYER, member of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, said Tuesday night that most of the real estate tax benefits claimed for the Arlington Park development will go to school and park districts that lie outside the Village of Arlington Heights and get little support from Arlington Heights residents.

The Arlington Heights Park District, Arlington Heights Dist. 59, Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 and High School Dist. 214 will gain little or nothing from the development, Breyer said.

Madison Square Garden's economic consultants say the race track development will be a boon to local taxing districts and will pay more than $7.5 million in real estate taxes annually. A $4.7 million tax surplus to the school districts also is predicted.

Breyer said much of this will go to Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 and High School Dist. 211 which have few, if any Arlington Heights students.

"These tax benefits go to other taxing districts not in the Village of Arlington Heights," Breyer said.

ROBERT SKINNER turns on the steam to win the first heat of 100-yard dash competition for 10-year-old boys in the Elk Grove Village Olympics Wednesday. Local winners go to the Paddock Olympics.

Rooftop for Bears' stadium urged by Arlington official

The stadium proposed for Arlington Park Race Track should be enclosed in order to have maximum usability, Joe Kesler, Arlington Heights village planner, has told officials of Madison Square Garden Corp.

"The stadium is not just a project for Arlington Heights, or the suburban area of Chicago," Kesler said. "This is a facility for all of Northern Illinois."

An open-air stadium as proposed by Madison Square Garden could turn out to be "another white elephant similar to Soldier Field in Chicago," he said.

Though an enclosed stadium would cost more to build, Kesler admitted, the potential for year-round use would mean more revenue from stadium events to pay off construction bonds.

KESLER SAID he would like to see restaurants, meeting rooms and gal-eries included in the stadium plan to make it a "civic and cultural attraction for the entire suburban area."

First look at parks budget due tonight

The Elk Grove Park Board will get its first look at the district's proposed operating budget for 1975-76 today at a meeting at 8 p.m. in the park office, 499 Blesterfield Rd.

Park Supt. Jack Claes would not release any figures prior to the meeting, but said the operating budget would show a slight increase due to the increase in the district's assessed valuation. The 1974-75 general park fund for operations was $293,960, a 28 per cent increase over the previous year's figure of $228,200.

$9,000 ahead of estimates

Village tax revenue rises

The village coffers in Hoffman Estates are benefitting from higher-than-expected sales tax receipts for the first three months of the fiscal year.

Sales tax is running about $9,000 higher than budget estimates had forecast, Finance Director Keith Wendland said Wednesday. The last amount, representing receipts for the month of May, totaled $29,000, some $2,000 higher than anticipated.

The village has budgeted to receive about $300,000 in sales tax for the current year, which runs from May, 1975 to April, 1976. The figure represents about 6.4 per cent of the village's total revenue.

SALES TAX IS reimbursed to villages by the state, which collects 4 cents of every 5 cents in tax. The remaining penny is returned to local municipalities where the tax was collected.

Wendland said the higher receipt pattern "could change at any time," but the bigger amounts are an encouraging financial factor.

The sales tax funds have somewhat offset building permit fee income which is slightly lower than village estimates had predicted. Wendland said fees for May and June were off by about $700 as the building industry continues to make only a slow recovery in the current economy.

Building permit fees this year could bring in some $120,000, village officials have estimated in the budget. The figure is substantially lower than the $200,000 which had been anticipated last year, when building permits fell about 60 per cent below budget.

OFFICIALS HAVE said building in the village could pick up this year so that the $120,000 budget estimate may be reached.

Construction this year could include up to 125 units in the Westbury development north of the Northwest Tollway, 50 to 60 townhouses in the Partridge Hill project, 20 new commercial buildings in the Robert Hall Village shopping center and possible start of the Hoffman Estates Community Hospital.

Approve 199-unit subdivision: panel

The Hoffman Estates Plan Commission has recommended approval of a proposal to build a 199-unit single-family home subdivision near Palatine and Freeman roads.

The commission voted unanimously Wednesday night to recommend forwarding the project plans to the village board for the start of action on annexation and development of the subdivision.

The proposal is being sponsored by the Realty Corp. of America (Realco) which seeks to build the subdivision on 54 acres known as the Cipri Farm property.

THE SUBDIVISION would consist of 125 single-family three- and four-bedroom homes and 74 zero-lot-line homes, which are built on smaller lots without traditional side and rear yards.

The zero-lot-line homes would sell for an estimated $55,000 while the conventional units would sell from the mid-$60,000 to the low $70,000s, Realco attorney Kenneth Rawson said.

The proposal is the second single-family home project being considered for unincorporated land bordering the village's northern sector near Palatine Road. Centex Homes Inc. has a major development proposed for 336 acres immediately south of the Cipri site.

The Centex plans for 940 single-family homes on the land have already won approval from the plan commission. The village board has scheduled a public hearing on the proposal Aug. 6.

IF APPROVED by the village board, the two projects will likely be the last major developments in the village's northern end and also its last single-family home developments.

In a hearing before the plan commission Wednesday night, Rawson said Realco would set aside 5 acres of the project for recreational use. That land would likely be turned over to the Hoffman Estates Park District.

The remaining land would be divided so that about 36 acres are used for the conventional single-family homes and about 13 acres for the zero lot line homes.

Village estimates have said the Realco project could add 846 persons to the population. The Centex proposal could generate another 4,000, according to estimates.

Children living in the Realco subdivision, located in Barrington Township, would attend school in Barrington Unit Dist. 220. Those living in the Centex project, located in Barrington and Palatine Townships, would be divided between Dist. 220 and Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 and High School Dist. 211.

Rawson said Realco representatives are to meet July 30 with Dist. 220 officials to determine if a contribution from the developer will be made.

Dist. 220 officials have balked at the Centex proposal, saying they are opposed to the addition of more children to their district.

Dist. 15 officials, however, have accepted Centex's offer of a 10 acre school site plus a $35 cash contribution for each unit built, or $32,900.

Building permits lacking

Village forces builder to halt work on office

The Village of Schaumburg late Wednesday stopped renovation of a house owned by Levitt and Sons in Sheffield Park.

Building Comr. Joseph Julian said a stop-work order was issued for the house at 1835 Shakespeare Ct., where the builder proposes a regional sales office.

"There is no building permit on file for the project," Julian said, explaining that any interior work costing $50 or more requires a permit.

George Keller of Levitt, said several "free-standing petitions" have been installed in the house. "We just put up some sticks. There are no bearing walls or anything like that," he said, noting that the renovation is "something we planned to do all along."

Keller said the vacant house has been used for storage for several years, adding, "We just moved things around a little in the building."

LAST WEEK KELLER asked the development committee to consider allowing the building to be converted for use as an office. Keller said the builder plans to transfer eight employees to Schaumburg from a Schiller

Park office, with three other workers to be housed in a nearby construction office.

Discussion of the proposed conversion is expected at the Aug. 12 development meeting, although Trustee Herbert Aigner has said the change is subject to a public hearing by the zoning board.

Twelve families living on Essex or Shakespeare courts presented petitions to the village board Tuesday outlining their objections to the conversion, suggesting that the "spot" business zoning in a residential area may harm their property values.

Oleksy named manager's aide

Kenneth S. Oleksy has been named administrative assistant to Schaumburg Village Mgr. John E. Coste.

Oleksy, 27, has been employed as village purchasing agent since May 1974. Oleksy was chosen from three village employees who applied for the new post that pays $14,990 annually.

Before joining the village, Oleksy was employed by Zenith Radio Corp. as a purchasing expediter and scheduler for six years, and a production control analyst for Barrett Electronics, Northbrook for 18 months.

Oleksy and his wife live at 219 Pochet Ct. He is a graduate of Wright

Junior College, Chicago.

Donald J. Baumgart, LaGrange, will replace Oleksy as purchasing agent, at a yearly salary of $14,900.

Baumgart has 12 years of purchasing experience in both industry and government having been on the staffs of Interlake Steel, Riverdale, Corn Products Co., Argo and Picker-Dunlee, Bellwood. He was also purchasing agent for the Village of Villa Park.

Baumgart has a bachelor of science degree in business administration from St. Joseph College, Rensselaer, Ind. He is a member of the Purchasing Manager Assn. of Chicago.

You just can't can without can lids

Well, folks, it is now officially all right to be concerned. Home canning lids are hard to find.

Of course the lids have been hard to find for at least six months. But that small detail has been overlooked in reports to news media and governmental consumer offices by the United States Dept. of Agriculture.

And meanwhile, the frantic consumer, who was told to plant a garden to cut food costs, has been running from store to store searching the shelves for those elusive disposable lids before her garden rots.

She hasn't had much success.

But she was told not to worry.

Finally, with reports of black-marketing and hoarding ringing in their ears, Federal Trade Commission officials announced Tuesday that they were opening an investigation into the shortage of home canning lids.

JEROME LAMET, assistant regional director for the FTC branch in Chicago, said his office has been following the canning lid problem for months and said it is safe to say "there is a problem."

However, it isn't clear where the flow from canning lid manufacturer to consumer has clogged, he said.

Last year the lid shortage mainly was due to a lack of raw materials, especially tinplate and soda ash. But this year the raw materials are sufficient and major manufacturers — including Ball and Kerr — have stepped up their production as much as they are able to, said Lamet.

SO WHERE ARE the lids?

Earlier in the summer the lid manufacturing industry had claimed that while supplies might be tight, it would stock stores from South to North as the growing season progressed.

But reports of panic buying in the South have resulted in shortages there, which have swept North in a wave of consumer frenzy.

Five area food chains contacted (Jewel, Dominick's, National, Eagle and Kohl's) told The Herald they rarely get the canning lid supplies they order. And when lids finally reach shelves, they are purchased immediately.

There are confirmed reports of hoarding by consumers afraid their last chance for buying lids is at hand.

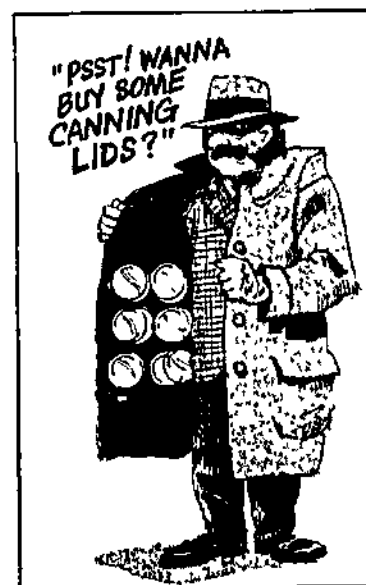

An area Eagle store received a shipment of lids last week which was bought in 20-to 30-dozen lots by only three or four customers.

IN MINNESOTA THERE is talk from state officials about gathering food retailers to set up a rationing policy on canning lids, Lamet said.

"It's my personal opinion that it looks like the only thing that will solve the problem here, too," said Lamet.

Meanwhile, gardens are ripening and lids are in short supply.

"I think it's a conspiracy to make us buy the entire jar-and-lid combination," mourned one woman who has more than 100 canning jars, a garden full of food and no jar lids.

FRANK BUTLER checks the skies and the charts in preparation for his Aug. 1 voyage to the British Virgin Islands in his 41-foot ketch sailboat, "Seaward." Butler will make the journey with his son Bill and four other hands.

Dream cruise to 'Shangri-La'

by DAVE GALANTI

Frank Butler is going to make a seven-week cruise from Waukegan to "paradise" next month.

Butler, who with his wife Mary recently sold his home in Long Grove and bought a 41-foot ketch (sailboat), is leaving Aug. 1 to live in a resort area on Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands.

"In our book, it is the true Shangri-la," Butler said. "We have vacationed down there before and it is beautiful."

Butler will be accompanied on the 3,200-mile journey by his 25-year-old son Bill and four other crew members. His wife will fly to the resort in late September.

THIS WILL be the longest journey ever attempted by Butler in his own boat, but he said he had been boating in the Great Lakes and elsewhere "practically all of my life."

Butler said he worked with the Coast Guard and asked for the advice of his friends in planning the voyage. He decided to start in August because that is when the best weather prevails. The route, which will take the sailboat through the Great Lakes and to New York and the Atlantic Ocean, was chosen because of more favorable wind directions than a route through the Mississippi River and Gulf of Mexico.

A large part of the trip will be made under sail, Butler said, but the boat also uses an engine if the winds fall. Safety equipment will include a 12-man life raft, safety vests and lights along with safety belts for use on deck.

Butler said he thought it was time to take the trip because he "didn't want to retire to the rocking chair without any memories."

"A LOT of people talk about doing their own thing," he said. "well, I'm going to do my own thing. If you don't do it now, you may never get a chance to."

The couple will stay in the British Virgin Islands for about a year and then will continue their travels throughout the world. Butler said he might return to the northwest suburban area sometime, but asked, "would you leave paradise?"

Despite the long distance of the trip, Butler is taking the cruise in stride. The boat, named Seaward, will "take care of itself if you give it half a chance," and there will be plenty of fuel aboard he said.

"My biggest problem will be keeping five men fed and satisfied," said Butler, who will end up with cooking duties throughout the trip.

Big day for Susan

Bone-cancer victim leaves hospital under own strength

by NANCY COWGER

Today is Susan Lark's homecoming. Susan will walk out of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, under her own power and with the aid of crutches, nearly a month of treatment for bone-marrow cancer. Part of her treatment included the amputation of one leg.

The 11-year-old Arlington Heights resident has a big following, even though she can't see all the faces and know all the names. Susan is the focus of a suburban fund-raising effort supported both by friends and strangers, to help pay her uninsured medical bills, now estimated to exceed $40,000.

Dinner will be served Tuesday at two McDonald's restaurants in Arlington Heights, in Susan's behalf.

BILL KIMPEL, owner of the two franchises, Wednesday announced he will donate half the proceeds of the 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday business to the Susan Lark Fund. On a normal Tuesday evening, that would amount to about $800, Kimpel said. But with support from the public he hopes to raise the donation figure to $1,000. The restaurants are on North Arlington Heights

Susan Lark

Road, just south of Rand Road, and on Northwest Highway at Wilke Road.

"I have sympathy. Nobody can afford that kind of catastrophe," said Kimpel of the Lark family's plight. Susan's father, a computer specialist, had been unemployed due to the recession most of the past two years. Although he now has started a new job in Toronto, the family has no hospitalization insurance. Susan's oldest brother, Steve, 19, works at the Northwest Highway restaurant.

Children in Palatine are holding a carnival Saturday with pony rides, games and refreshment sales to raise funds in Susan's behalf. It will be in the home of Irene Kinsella, 13, at Walnut and Glencoe streets.

A benefit garage sale starts today at the home of Patricia Shipley, 4513 Lincoln St., Rolling Meadows, and will continue through Saturday. Area merchants and family friends have donated merchandise. Another garage sale will be July 31 through Aug. 2 at 312 N. Van Buren St., East Dundee.

BRITISH FRIENDS of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Lark, Susan's parents, are holding a "pie and pea supper" with donations of money requested. Mrs. Lark is a native of England, although she has lived in the U.S. 20 years. The supper is a British tradition.

The fund, established at the First National Bank of Dundee, has surpassed $1,400, although a check for the first $1,000 was presented to the Larks at a benefit dance Saturday night. Donations may be mailed to the bank in care of Joyce Proia, 2015 Berkshire Circle, Carpentersville, 60110.

An anonymous donor sent a $250 check to the fund, Mrs. Proia said. Other donations have come from children, as well as adults. A group of Bensenville youngsters raised $27 in a car wash, and Rolling Meadows children earned $10 in a carnival, and both groups sent the money to Susan's fund.

Susan's mother said final reports after the amputation surgery July 11 indicate "they caught everything in time." Susan is "all excited about" going home and being able to use the crutches instead of a wheel chair. Therapists may be able to fit her first artificial leg within three weeks, Mrs. Lark said. Susan will have to have new artificial legs periodically, as she grows.

"THE DOCTOR figures within a year she'll be able to do all the things other children are doing," Mrs. Lark said. "Things are looking so good for us. You can't really believe people care so much, but they do," she said.

Susan "has her ups and downs, but then who wouldn't," said Mrs. Lark. Her hospital room has been festooned with cards and gifts since her illness first was made public July 12.

"When Susan realized what could have been, she was very grateful" for the life-saving surgery. "She wants to live," Mrs. Lark said.

Village tax revenue rises

The village coffers in Hoffman Estates are benefitting from higher-than-expected sales tax receipts for the first three months of the fiscal year.

Sales tax is running about $9,000 higher than budget estimates had forecast, Finance Director Keith Wendland said Wednesday. The last amount, representing receipts for the month of May, totaled $29,000, some $2,000 higher than anticipated.

The village has budgeted to receive about $300,000 in sales tax for the current year, which runs from May, 1975 to April, 1976. The figure represents about 6.4 per cent of the village's total revenue.

SALES TAX is reimbursed to villages by the state, which collects 4 cents of every 5 cents in tax. The remaining penny is returned to local municipalities where the tax was collected.

Wendland said the higher receipt pattern "could change at any time," but the bigger amounts are an encouraging financial factor.

The sales tax funds have somewhat offset building permit fee income which is slightly lower than village estimates had predicted. Wendland said fees for May and June were off by about $700 as the building industry continues to make only a slow recovery in the current economy.

Building permit fees this year could bring in some $120,000, village officials have estimated in the budget. The figure is substantially lower than the $200,000 which had been anticipated last year, when building permits fell about 60 per cent below budget.

OFFICIALS HAVE said building in the village could pick up this year so that the $120,000 budget estimate may be reached.

Construction this year could include up to 125 units in the Westbury development north of the Northwest Tollway, 50 to 60 townhouses in the Partridge Hill project, 20 new commercial buildings in the Robert Hall Village shopping center and possible start of the Hoffman Estates Community Hospital.

Approve 199-unit subdivision: panel

The Hoffman Estates Plan Commission has recommended approval of a proposal to build a 199-unit single-family home subdivision near Palatine and Freeman roads.

The commission voted unanimously Wednesday night to recommend forwarding the project plans to the village board for the start of action on annexation and development of the subdivision.

The proposal is being sponsored by the Realty Corp. of America (Realco) which seeks to build the subdivision on 54 acres known as the Cipri Farm property.

THE SUBDIVISION would consist of 125 single-family three- and four-bedroom homes and 74 zero-lot-line homes, which are built on smaller lots without traditional side and rear yards.

The zero-lot-line homes would sell for an estimated $55,000 while the conventional units would sell from the mid-$60,000 to the low $70,000s, Realco attorney Kenneth Rawson said.

The proposal is the second single-family home project being considered for unincorporated land bordering the village's northern sector near Palatine Road. Centex Homes Inc. has a major development proposed for 336 acres immediately south of the Cipri site.

The Centex plans for 940 single-family homes on the land have already won approval from the plan commission. The village board has scheduled a public hearing on the proposal Aug. 6.

IF APPROVED by the village board, the two projects will likely be the last major developments in the village's northern end and also its last single-family home developments.

In a hearing before the plan commission Wednesday night, Rawson said Realco would set aside 5 acres of the project for recreational use. That land would likely be turned over to the Hoffman Estates Park District.

The remaining land would be divided so that about 36 acres are used for the conventional single-family homes and about 13 acres for the zero lot line homes.

Village estimates have said the Realco project could add 846 persons to the population. The Centex proposal could generate another 4,000, according to estimates.

Children living in the Realco subdivision, located in Barrington Township, would attend school in Barrington Unit Dist. 220. Those living in the Centex project, located in Barrington and Palatine Townships, would be divided between Dist. 220 and Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 and High School Dist. 211.

Rawson said Realco representatives are to meet July 30 with Dist. 220 officials to determine if a contribution from the developer will be made.

Dist. 220 officials have balked at the Centex proposal, saying they are opposed to the addition of more children to their district.

Dist. 15 officials, however, have accepted Centex's offer of a 10 acre school site plus a $35 cash contribution for each unit built, or $32,900.

Building permits lacking

Village forces builder to halt work on office

The Village of Schaumburg late Wednesday stopped renovation of a house owned by Levitt and Sons in Sheffield Park.

Building Comr. Joseph Julian said a stop-work order was issued for the house at 1835 Shakespeare Ct., where the builder proposes a regional sales office.

"There is no building permit on file for the project," Julian said, explaining that any interior work costing $50 or more requires a permit.

George Keller of Levitt, said several "free-standing petitions" have been installed in the house. "We just put up some sticks. There are no bearing walls or anything like that," he said, noting that the renovation is "something we planned to do all along."

Keller said the vacant house has been used for storage for several years, adding, "We just moved things around a little in the building."

LAST WEEK KELLER asked the development committee to consider allowing the building to be converted for use as an office. Keller said the builder plans to transfer eight employees to Schaumburg from a Schiller

Park office, with three other workers to be housed in a nearby construction office.

Discussion of the proposed conversion is expected at the Aug. 12 development meeting, although Trustee Herbert Aigner has said the change is subject to a public hearing by the zoning board.

Twelve families living on Essex or Shakespeare courts presented petitions to the village board Tuesday outlining their objections to the conversion, suggesting that the "spot" business zoning in a residential area may harm their property values.

Oleksy named manager's aide

Kenneth S. Oleksy has been named administrative assistant to Schaumburg Village Mgr. John E. Coste.

Oleksy, 27, has been employed as village purchasing agent since May 1974. Oleksy was chosen from three village employees who applied for the new post that pays $14,990 annually.

Before joining the village, Oleksy was employed by Zenith Radio Corp. as a purchasing expediter and scheduler for six years, and a production control analyst for Barrett Electronics, Northbrook for 18 months.

Junior College, Chicago.

Donald J. Baumgart, LaGrange, will replace Oleksy as purchasing agent, at a yearly salary of $14,900.

Baumgart has 12 years of purchasing experience in both industry and government having been on the staffs of Interlake Steel, Riverdale, Corn Products Co., Argo and Picker-Dunlee, Bellwood. He was also purchasing agent for the Village of Villa Park.

Baumgart has a bachelor of science degree in business administration from St. Joseph College, Rensselaer, Ind. He is a member of the Purchasing Manager Assn. of Chicago.

You just can't can without can lids

Well, folks, it is now officially all right to be concerned. Home canning lids are hard to find.

Of course the lids have been hard to find for at least six months. But that small detail has been overlooked in reports to news media and governmental consumer offices by the United States Dept. of Agriculture.

And meanwhile, the frantic consumer, who was told to plant a garden to eat food costs, has been running from store to store searching the shelves for those elusive disposable lids before her garden rots.

She hasn't had much success. But she was told not to worry.

Finally, with reports of black-marketing and hoarding ringing in their ears, Federal Trade Commission officials announced Tuesday that they were opening an investigation into the shortage of home canning lids.

JEROME LAMET, assistant regional director for the FTC branch in Chicago, said his office has been following the canning lid problem for months and said it is safe to say "there is a problem."

However, it isn't clear where the flow from canning lid manufacturer to consumer has clogged, he said.

Last year the lid shortage mainly was due to a lack of raw materials, especially tinplate and soda ash. But this year the raw materials are sufficient and major manufacturers — including Ball and Kerr — have stepped up their production as much as they are able to, said Lamet.

SO WHERE ARE the lids?

Earlier in the summer the lid manufacturing industry had claimed that while supplies might be tight, it would stock stores from South to North as the growing season progressed.

But reports of panic buying in the South have resulted in shortages there, which have swept North in a wave of consumer frenzy.

Five area food chains contacted (Jewel, Dominick's, National, Eagle and Kohl's) told The Herald they rarely get the canning lid supplies they order. And when lids finally reach shelves, they are purchased immediately.

There are confirmed reports of hoarding by consumers afraid their last chance for buying lids is at hand.

An area Eagle store received a shipment of lids last week which was bought in 20-to 30-dozen lots by only three or four customers.

IN MINNESOTA THERE is talk from state officials about gathering food retailers to set up a rationing policy on canning lids, Lamet said.

"It's my personal opinion that it looks like the only thing that will solve the problem here, too," said Lamet.

Meanwhile, gardens are ripening and lids are in short supply.

"I think it's a conspiracy to make us buy the entire jar-and-lid combination," mourned one woman who has more than 100 canning jars, a garden full of food and no jar lids.

Rosenberg honored; former plans chief

Schaumburg officials presented a certificate of appreciation to former village plans commissioner James Rosenberg this week.

Rosenberg recently resigned from the commission and moved to Glencoe.

"Your past work has left a lasting impression on this village," Schaumburg Pres. Raymond Kessell told Rosenberg Tuesday.

Rosenberg terms his four years of service on the plans commission "really a splendid honor" adding he considers "service in government a privilege."

Move OKd to join fight for lake water

Schaumburg officials pledged Tuesday to join with Elk Grove Village and Hoffman Estates to obtain Lake Michigan water.

Their action stemmed from a meeting of five communities called last week by Village Pres. Raymond Kessell. The Village of Arlington Heights and the City of Rolling Meadows also expressed interest in the joint effort although the proposal has not been ratified by their municipal boards.

The communities are seeking the lake water allocations to supplement existing supplies officials believe may not be adequate to provide for future needs.

The participating villages plan to prepare information concerning water needs to present to officials of the City of Chicago by September.

Officials of Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates also plan to appear at an Aug. 8 lake water allocation hearing scheduled by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation. Suburban communities must win approval at the hearings to ensure supplemental lake water allocations.

"At this time we are not asking the villages to commit funds for the project but to give us authorization in principle to obtain Chicago water," said Village Mgr. John E. Coste.

Coste said participating village managers and engineers will meet over the next several weeks to prepare water need forecasts and "devise the mechanics" of tapping into a Chicago water main in the vicinity of O'Hare Airport.

Pool location change approved

Site-plan revisions to allow owners of The Towers, a 43-acre apartment complex near Roselle Road and Hillcrest Boulevard, to change the location of a proposed swimming pool have been approved by Schaumburg officials.

The first of four planned 12-story buildings has been completed and is partially occupied, said a representative of the owners. He explained that the land planned for a recreational center is unbuildable.

"We have an obligation to provide recreational facilities to our tenants and to the village," said George Welsenbach of Cleave Trust Realty Advisors.

In reply to questions from trustees, Welsenbach said his firm has no plans to deviate from the original plan approved in 1971.

But Welsenbach said that his firm plans to retain the property only until it can be sold to a builder willing to follow the original plan.

He said that Cleave Trust "started out as a lender and ended up owner" of The Towers when American Housing Systems Corp., a Cleveland-based holding company, experienced financial difficulties.

Duplexes OKd in development

Campanelli Brothers received approval from the village this week to substitute duplex units for townhouses in its development near Wise and Braintree roads.

In compliance with village requests, the builder has replaced narrow streetside carriage walks with conventional walkways on both sides of streets.

A representative of the firm also assured Schaumburg officials the units would all contain two-bedrooms, explaining that a den planned in some models has been converted to a dining room. When revisions were presented to the zoning board last month, members expressed concern that the proposed dens could be used as third bedrooms.

John Brunner, of Campanelli Brothers, also assured the board that the firm will pay some $60,000 in contributions to the village cultural center and $19,000 to Schaumburg Township Dist. 54.

Brunner and Village Mgr. John Coste are to attend a meeting later this week with park and school officials to resolve terms of an 11.3 acre school-park site donation.

Starzyk on Bicentennial panel

Schaumburg Jaycee Robert Starzyk was appointed to the village Bicentennial committee this week.

Requesting village board ratification of the appointment, Kessell praised Starzyk's work in the Jaycees Alive-On-Arrival program in which a paramedic vehicle was recently purchased.

To take advantage of a state grant which provided matching funds, the $32,000 vehicle was purchased by the village with Jaycee money.

Clown Week to begin Aug. 1

Bring on the clowns!

Acting on a request from Scampl The Clown, Kessell has proclaimed the week of Aug. 1 National Clown Week in Schaumburg.

"We certainly do have our share of clowns in Schaumburg," Kessell quipped, explaining he was referring to the Rotary and Jaycees clown units.

2 women charged in cafe disturbance

Two Hoffman Estates women were arrested Tuesday after they allegedly created a disturbance when they were refused a pitcher of beer at Hippo's Hot Dogs, Plum Grove and Higgins roads, Schaumburg.

Charged with disorderly conduct were Tamara A. McDermott, 18, of 129 Alpine Ln., and Rita P. Zylkowski, 19, of 502 Apricot Ln.

Police said the pair became boisterous and used obscene words after employees would not serve them beer when the women did not produce identification.

The women were released after posting $25 bond each pending appearance Sept. 3 in the Schaumburg branch of Circuit Court.

Paint goods stolen in apartment theft

Schaumburg police are investigating four apartment burglaries including three where painting equipment was taken Tuesday from the Schaumburg Green complex.

Police were told the equipment, valued at $170, was stolen from apartments being renovated in the 1220 Cambria Ln. building. No signs of forced entry were found, police said.

In the other break-in, about $600 worth of damage was caused to the recreation center at Town Square apartments, 300 S. Roselle Rd. Light fixtures in the center were smashed. Police said they could find no signs of forced entry.

Big day for Susan

by NANCY COWGER

Today is Susan Lark's homecoming. Susan will walk out of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, under her own power and with the aid of crutches, nearly a month of treatment for bone-marrow cancer. Part of her treatment included the amputation of one leg.

The 11-year-old Arlington Heights resident has a big following, even though she can't see all the faces and know all the names. Susan is the focus of a suburban fund-raising effort supported both by friends and strangers, to help pay her uninsured medical bills, now estimated to exceed $40,000.

Dinner will be served Tuesday at two McDonald's restaurants in Arlington Heights, in Susan's behalf.

BILL KIMPEL, owner of the two franchises, Wednesday announced he will donate half the proceeds of the 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday business to the Susan Lark Fund. On a normal Tuesday evening, that would amount to about $600, Kimpel said. But, with support from the public he hopes to raise the donation figure to $1,000. The restaurants are on North Arlington Heights Road, just south of Rand Road, and on Northwest Highway at Wilke Road.

"I have sympathy. Nobody can afford that kind of catastrophe," said Kimpel of the Lark family's plight. Susan's father, a computer specialist, had been unemployed due to the recession most of the past two years. Although he now has started a new job in Toronto, the family has no hospitalization insurance. Susan's oldest brother, Steve, 19, works at the Northwest Highway restaurant.

Children in Palatine are holding a carnival Saturday with pony rides, games and refreshment sales to raise funds in Susan's behalf. It will be in the home of Irene Kinella, 13, at Walnut and Glencoe streets.

A benefit garage sale starts today at the home of Patricia Shipley, 4513 Lincoln St., Rolling Meadows, and will continue through Saturday. Area merchants and family friends have donated merchandise. Another garage sale will be July 31 through Aug. 2 at 312 N. Van Buren St., East Dundee.

Susan Lark

Mrs. Dana Lark, Susan's parents, are holding a "pie and pea supper" with donations of money requested. Mrs. Lark is a native of England, although she has lived in the U.S. 20 years. The supper is a British tradition.

The fund, established at the First National Bank of Dundee, has surpassed $1,400, although a check for the first $1,000 was presented to the Larks at a benefit dance Saturday night. Donations may be mailed to the bank in care of Joyce Proia, 2015 Berkshire Circle, Carpentersville, 60110.

An anonymous donor sent a $250 check to the fund, Mrs. Proia said. Other donations have come from children, as well as adults. A group of Bensenville youngsters raised $27 in a car wash, and Rolling Meadows children earned $10 in a carnival, and both groups sent the money to Susan's fund.

Susan's mother said final reports after the amputation surgery July 11 indicate "they caught everything in time." Susan is "all excited about" going home and being able to use the crutches instead of a wheel chair. Therapists may be able to fit her first artificial leg within three weeks, Mrs. Lark said. Susan will have to have new artificial legs periodically, as she grows.

"THE DOCTOR figures within a year she'll be able to do all the things other children are doing," Mrs. Lark said. "Things are looking so good for us. You can't really believe people care so much, but they do," she said. Susan "has her ups and downs, but then who wouldn't," said Mrs. Lark.

Her hospital room has been festooned with cards and gifts since her illness first was made public July 12. "When Susan realized what could have been, she was very grateful" for the life-saving surgery. "She wants to live," Mrs. Lark said.

FRANK BUTLER checks the skies and the charts in preparation for his Aug. 1 voyage to the British Virgin Islands in his 41-foot ketch

sailboat, "Seaward." Butler will make the journey with his son Bill and four other hands.

Dream cruise to 'Shangri-La'

by DAVE GALANTI

Frank Butler is going to make a seven-week cruise from Wauegan to "paradise" next month.

Butler, who with his wife Mary recently sold his home in Long Grove and bought a 41-foot ketch (sailboat), is leaving Aug. 1 to live in a resort area on Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands.

"In our book, it is the true Shangri-la," Butler said. "We have vacationed down there before and it is beautiful."

Butler will be accompanied on the 3,200-mile journey by his 25-year-old son Bill and four other crew members. His wife will fly to the resort in late September.

THIS WILL be the longest journey ever attempted by Butler in his own boat, but he said he had been boating in the Great Lakes and elsewhere "practically all of my life."

Butler said he worked with the Coast Guard and asked for the advice of his friends in planning the voyage. He decided to start in August because that is when the best weather prevails. The route, which will take the sailboat through the Great Lakes and to New York and the Atlantic Ocean, was chosen because of more favorable wind directions than a route through the Mississippi River and Gulf of Mexico.

A large part of the trip will be made under sail, Butler said, but the boat also uses an engine if the winds fail. Safety equipment will include a 12-man life raft, safety vests and lights along with safety belts for use on deck.

Butler said he thought it was time to take the trip because he "didn't want to retire to the rocking chair without any memories."

"A LOT of people talk about doing their own thing," he said. "Well, I'm going to do my own thing. If you don't do it now, you may never get a chance to."

The couple will stay in the British Virgin Islands for about a year and then will continue their travels throughout the world. Butler said he might return to the northwest suburban area sometime, but asked, "would you leave paradise?"

Despite the long distance of the trip, Butler is taking the cruise in stride. The boat, named Seaward, will "take care of itself if you give it half a chance," and there will be plenty of fuel aboard he said.

"My biggest problem will be keeping five men fed and satisfied," said Butler, who will end up with cooking duties throughout the trip.

No firemen to be hired

Finances in Rolling Meadows may not be "comfortable" enough to hire new firemen until December, City Treasurer Robert B. Cole has said.

Ald. William D. Ahrens, 2nd, asked Cole for a prognosis of city finances at Tuesday's city council meeting, saying the city is "getting a bad name" for testing potential new firefighters but never acting on their appointments.

"We've got a list of personnel but it's quickly dwindling. I'm trying to get some idea of when we can call these men on duty," Ahrens said. The fire and police commission posted a list of qualified applicants in September 1974 after a series of physical and written tests and oral interviews. It included 12 men, but now only seven are still interested in the positions, Ahrens said.

By December, those seven also may have lost interest, and the city would face another delay in hiring until new tests are given to develop another eligibility list, Ahrens said.

"We seem to be getting ourselves into a box," he said. "If you're talking November or December, we're down the sewer again," he said.

MAYOR Roland J. Meyer said he "would much rather not hire the men now than hire them and lay them off in November."

Meyer also noted the council approved a contract earlier in the meeting with National Loss Control Service

Corp., Long Grove, for an evaluation of the fire department. The $1,400 study could show the city does not need more than two more firefighters, instead of the five allotted in this year's budget, Meyer said. Last year's budget included funds for six firemen, but they never were hired. This year the fireman increase was delayed by a hiring freeze ordered July 1 to help stave off a shortage of cash.

COLE SAID the city can expect to receive the 75 per cent of city property tax money — about $750,000 — still due from the county by the end of September. That money must be used to repay city accounts depleted by loans to the general corporate fund, the amount which pays for day-to-day operations.

The city also must make an $80,000 payment, the first of four annual installments, to the Bank of Rolling Meadows for 6.7 acres the city purchased a year ago. The payment was to have been due Aug. 1, but Cole arranged with the bank for a 90-day extension. The council approved payment Tuesday of the $18,833.96 interest portion of the installment.

"It will probably be late November or early December before we're back to a comfortable position," allowing an end to the freeze on hiring, overtime pay and nonessential purchases, Cole said.

First day-care center in city to open Aug. 18

A nonprofit day-care facility, Meadows Child Center, will open Aug. 18 in Meadows Baptist Church, 2401 Kirkchiff Rd., Rolling Meadows.

The church center, for children from 2½ to 6, will provide the city's first facility for children of working mothers, said the Rev. David Sundin, pastor and director of youth and bus ministries.

The center will serve 20 children, but will expand to accommodate 80 later.

One teacher and two teaching assistants will be on duty Aug. 18, but as the center moves into a capacity operation within four to five months, the teacher-pupil ratio will be about 1-to-8, Sundin said.

Breakfast, lunch and two snacks will be provided, Sundin said. Center hours will be from 6:45 a.m. to 5:45 p.m.

The center will offer an instruction program in phonics, color perception, alphabet recognition, basic science, seasons, days of the week, months, and Biblical teaching, Sundin said. Enrollment will be accepted from persons of any church congregation or religious faith, he said, but parents will be asked to sign permission to teach their children religious tenets.

The administrator will be Lynne M. Smith of Prairie View, a graduate of the State University College at Potsdam, N.Y., with a degree in the nursery school area, Sundin said.

Resident reports theft of his car

Rolling Meadows police are investigating the theft of a 1973 auto from the home of Mark Lambert, 4305 Peacock Ln. Lambert reported his car missing Tuesday.

City probes ways to save on garbage-bag system

A study is under way to determine how to save money in Rolling Meadows' garbage collection system.

Ald. Daniel E. Weber, 3rd, reported to the public works committee this week the city could save more than $3,600 per year by making one annual delivery of garbage bags to each house, instead of allowing residents to pick up their bags as they need them. The city now dispenses bags Saturdays and Sundays all day and Monday evenings at the Public Works Building, 3200 Central Rd. The manpower cost is $2,256 per year, Weber said.

Other costs are for pallets on which bags are stored and rental of a fork lift truck for the four deliveries to the public works building per year.

Eliminating those items would save $1,806, but the once-per-year home deliveries would cost $1,200 Weber said.

WEBER ALSO SAID a count is being kept of all bags collected on regular city garbage pickup routes. It is hoped this will indicate whether the average household needs four free bundles of bags per year, he said. It may be possible to save $28,000 annually by providing only three free bundles.

Another possibility, Weber said, would be to sell all bags at cost or to institute a service fee.

Other potential savings being considered are:

- Eliminating twice weekly collections during June, July and August.
- Changing the schedule for collections when a holiday falls on a regular collection day, instead of doubling up the collection on the day after a holiday.

• And using plastic instead of paper bags.

Weber said the second collection during summer months has a volume of only half the first collection of the week. Maintaining a year round schedule of one collection per week would not cause any difficulty, he said.

You just can't can without can lids

Well, folks, it is now officially all right to be concerned. Home canning lids are hard to find.

Of course the lids have been hard to find for at least six months. But that small detail has been overlooked in reports to news media and governmental consumer offices by the United States Dept. of Agriculture.

And meanwhile, the frantic consumer, who was told to plant a garden to cut food costs, has been running from store to store searching the shelves for those elusive disposable lids before her garden rots.

She hasn't had much success.

But she was told not to worry. Finally, with reports of black-marketing and hoarding ringing in their ears, Federal Trade Commission officials announced Tuesday that they were opening an investigation into the shortage of home canning lids.

JEROME LAMET, assistant regional director for the FTC branch in Chicago, said his office has been following the canning lid problem for months and said it is safe to say "there is a problem."

However, it isn't clear where the flow from canning lid manufacturer to consumer has clogged, he said.

Last year the lid shortage mainly was due to a lack of raw materials, especially tinplate and soda ash. But this year the raw materials are sufficient and major manufacturers — including Ball and Kerr — have stepped up their production as much as they are able to, said Lamet.

SO WHERE ARE the lids?

Earlier in the summer the lid manufacturing industry had claimed that while supplies might be tight, it would stock stores from South to North as the growing season progressed.

But reports of panic buying in the South have resulted in shortages there, which have swept North in a wave of consumer frenzy.

Five area food chains contacted (Jewel, Dominick's, National, Eagle and Kohl's) told The Herald they rarely get the canning lid supplies they order. And when lids finally reach shelves, they are purchased immediately.

There are confirmed reports of hoarding by consumers afraid their last chance for buying lids is at hand.

An area Eagle store received a shipment of lids last week which was bought in 20-to 30-dozen lots by only three or four customers.

IN MINNESOTA THERE is talk from state officials about gathering food retailers to set up a rationing policy on canning lids, Lamet said.

"It's my personal opinion that it looks like the only thing that will solve the problem here, too," said Lamet.

Meanwhile, gardens are ripening and lids are in short supply.

"I think it's a conspiracy to make us buy the entire jar-and-lid combination," mourned one woman who has more than 100 canning jars, a garden full of food and no jar lids.

Tornado sirens all working - after 4 years

A tornado warning-siren system is fully operational in Rolling Meadows for the first time since December 1970.

City Mgr. James Watson said Tuesday all three Civil Defense warning sirens are working properly. The city purchased the sirens in late 1970, but could not make them function adequately from that time on. Either the sirens were not loud enough to meet federal decibel standards to obtain $15,000 in a federal matching grant to pay for them, or they made no sound at all. During a tornado that ripped three homes and destroyed a garage near Flicker Lane and Sigwalt Street June 17, only one of the three sirens sounded.

"A phone call to me could be worth money to you!"

IT'S A "PING-PONG SUMMER" for teenagers at Rand Grove Village in Palatine Township. The Bridge youth services bureau of Palatine has opened a drop-in center at the complex, on Long Grove Road north of

Rand Road, to offer supervised activities, field trips and counseling to more than 80 high school and junior high school youths who live in the development. Teens painted and decorated the three-bedroom apartment where the center is located during the past week, writing messages of "Peace" and "Zap 'Em With Love" on the walls.

Teen clubhouse

Rent-free apartment offers youths a place to go

by DIANE NERNIGAS

Teen-agers in Rand Grove Village, a low-and moderate-income housing development in Palatine Township, have always wanted a place to gather, to have fun and to get help when they need it.

Now they have such a place. As many as 30 teens, ranging in age from 12 to 18, are meeting weekdays in a rent-free, three-bedroom apartment in the complex, on Long Grove Road north of Rand Road.

There, they listen to music, play ping-pong, and have the questions that trouble them answered.

THE APARTMENT is being transformed into a drop-in center by The Bridge Youth Services Bureau, 434½ N. Northwest Hwy., Palatine.

The center will be open until winter on a trial basis to offer teens supervised activities, films, field trips, and professional counseling and referral services.

Most of all, the drop-in center will offer Rand Grove teens privacy and social experiences with youths their own age that they can't find anywhere else, said Rick Atwater, director of the center whose salary is subsidized from a $25,000 state grant that The Bridge recently received.

"Many of the teens are like second parents to their younger brothers and sisters who they babysit for each day during the summer while their parents are out working," he said.

"THE FAMILIES here are larger, the apartments are smaller and there is no privacy for the teen-ager who is growing up and needs to be alone sometimes with kids his own age," Atwater said.

Few of the families at Rand Grove Village have cars or enough money to give weekly allowances to the children.

"So, the center is free, the music is free and the counseling is free," he said. Even most of the field trips to beaches and roller skating rinks that Atwater chaperones each Thursday are of minimal cost.

There are no nearby recreational or entertainment facilities for the more than 80 high school and junior high school youths who live in the development. The teens are bused to schools in Palatine where they are unable to remain for after-school and late-night activities because they have no transportation, he said.

"I LOOK AT my job here as preventative medicine. Anywhere kids are in a place where there is nothing for them to do, they are going to get into trouble. This way, they have something to occupy their time and help when they need it," Atwater said.

"We feel like the center is really our own," said Tina Melco, 13, who has been among the teens who have helped paint and decorate the new facility.

Chris Hussaini, manager of the development, said she knows "Idle teens can bring trouble" but that she is leaving the problem up to The Bridge. "These teens need the influence of a professional adult and all they want is a place of their own to hang out in. The center will work out to our advantage I'm sure," she said.

THE SALT Creek Park District has donated a ping-pong table to the center. Atwater said he is trying to get other civic and community groups to make similar contributions.

"Rand Grove is a model of what is

Rooftop for Bears' stadium urged by Arlington official

The stadium proposed for Arlington Park Race Track should be enclosed in order to have maximum usability, Joe Kesler, Arlington Heights village planner, has told officials of Madison Square Garden Corp.

"The stadium is not just a project for Arlington Heights, or the suburban area of Chicago," Kesler said. "This is a facility for all of Northern Illinois."

An open-air stadium as proposed by Madison Square Garden could turn out to be "another white elephant similar to Soldier Field in Chicago," he said.

Though an enclosed stadium would cost more to build, Kesler admitted, the potential for year-round use would mean more revenue from stadium events to pay off construction bonds.

KESLER SAID he would like to see restaurants, meeting rooms and galleries included in the stadium plan to make it a "civic and cultural attraction for the entire suburban area."

Arlington Park Race Track and Oak Brook are the two best-suited locations for a stadium, Kesler said. Oak Brook has better highway access, but the race track has the advantage of the Chicago and North Western Ry. commuter station, he said.

In response, William Moore, attorney for Madison Square Garden, said that "there has never been any groundswell (of support) for an enclosed stadium."

Whether to put a roof on the stadium or not comes down to a matter of "individual preference," he said.

Madison Square Garden has never proposed an enclosed stadium for Arlington Park, and there is no indication that one is being considered.

Big day for Susan

by NANCY COWGER

Today is Susan Lark's homecoming. Susan will walk out of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, under her own power and with the aid of crutches, nearly a month of treatment for bone-marrow cancer. Part of her treatment included the amputation of one leg.

The 11-year-old Arlington Heights resident has a big following, even though she can't see all the faces and know all the names. Susan is the focus of a suburban fund-raising effort supported both by friends and strangers, to help pay her uninsured medical bills, now estimated to exceed $40,000.

Dinner will be served Tuesday at two McDonald's restaurants in Arlington Heights, in Susan's behalf.

BILL KIMPEL, owner of the two franchises, Wednesday announced he will donate half the proceeds of the 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday business to the Susan Lark Fund. On a normal Tuesday evening, that would amount to about $600, Kimpel said. But with support from the public he hopes to raise the donation figure to $1,000. The restaurants are on North Arlington Heights Road, just south of Rand Road, and on Northwest Highway at Wilke Road.

"I have sympathy. Nobody can afford that kind of catastrophe," said Kimpel of the Lark family's plight. Susan's father, a computer specialist, had been unemployed due to the recession most of the past two years. Although he now has started a new job in Toronto, the family has no hospitalization insurance. Susan's oldest brother, Steve, 19, works at the Northwest Highway restaurant.

Children in Palatine are holding a carnival Saturday with pony rides, games and refreshment sales to raise funds in Susan's behalf. It will be in the home of Irene Kinsella, 13, at Walnut and Glencoe streets.

A benefit garage sale starts today at the home of Patricia Shipley, 4513 Lincoln St., Rolling Meadows, and will continue through Saturday. Area merchants and family friends have donated merchandise. Another garage sale will be July 31 through Aug. 2 at 312 N. Van Buren St., East Dundee.

BRITISH FRIENDS of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Lark, Susan's parents, are holding a "pie and pea supper" with donations of money requested. Mrs. Lark is a native of England, although she has lived in the U.S. 20 years. The supper is a British tradition.

The fund, established at the First National Bank of Dundee, has surpassed $1,400, although a check for the first $1,000 was presented to the Larks at a benefit dance Saturday night. Donations may be mailed to the bank in care of Joyce Proia, 2015 Berkshire Circle, Carpentersville, 60110.

An anonymous donor sent a $250 check to the fund, Mrs. Proia said. Other donations have come from children, as well as adults. A group of Bensenville youngsters raised $27 in a car wash, and Rolling Meadows children earned $10 in a carnival, and both groups sent the money to Susan's fund.

Susan's mother said final reports after the amputation surgery July 11 indicate: "they caught everything in time." Susan is "all excited about" going home and being able to use the crutches instead of a wheel chair. Therapists may be able to fit her first artificial leg within three weeks, Mrs. Lark said. Susan will have to have new artificial legs periodically, as she grows.

Meadows graduate wins merit honor

Paul L. Wickstrom of Arlington Heights has won a four-year Michigan State University merit scholarship.

A graduate of Rolling Meadows High School, Wickstrom plans to study computer science in college. In high school, he received a seven-semester honor pin and a German award. He also was a member of the National Honor Society and the swimming team.

Merit scholars were selected from among some 14,000 finalists. Wickstrom is one of 3,700 students across the country to receive a merit scholarship.

FRANK BUTLER checks the skies and the charts in preparation for his Aug. 1 voyage to the British Virgin Islands in his 41-foot ketch

sailboat, "Seaward." Butler will make the journey with his son Bill and four other hands.

Dream cruise to 'Shangri-La'

by DAVE GALANTI

Frank Butler is going to make a seven-week cruise from Waukegan to "paradise" next month.

Butler, who with his wife Mary recently sold his home in Long Grove and bought a 41-foot ketch (sailboat), is leaving Aug. 1 to live in a resort area on Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands.

"In our book, it is the true Shangri-la," Butler said. "We have vacationed down there before and it is beautiful."

Butler will be accompanied on the 3,200-mile journey by his 25-year-old son Bill and four other crew members. His wife will fly to the resort in late September.

THIS WILL be the longest journey ever attempted by Butler in his own boat, but he said he had been boating in the Great Lakes and elsewhere "practically all of my life."

Butler said he worked with the Coast Guard and asked for the advice of his friends in planning the voyage. He decided to start in August because that is when the best weather prevails. The route, which will take the sailboat through the Great Lakes and to New York and the Atlantic Ocean, was chosen because of more favorable wind directions than a route through the Mississippi River and Gulf of Mexico.

A large part of the trip will be made under sail, Butler said, but the boat also uses an engine if the winds fall. Safety equipment will include a 12-man life raft, safety vests and lights along with safety belts for use on deck.

Butler said he thought it was time to take the trip because he "didn't want to retire to the rocking chair without any memories."

"A LOT of people talk about doing their own thing," he said. "well, I'm going to do my own thing. If you don't do it now, you may never get a chance to."

The couple will stay in the British Virgin Islands for about a year and then will continue their travels throughout the world. Butler said he might return to the northwest suburban area sometime, but asked, "would you leave paradise?"

Despite the long distance of the trip, Butler is taking the cruise in stride. The boat, named Seaward, will "take care of itself if you give it half a chance," and there will be plenty of fuel aboard he said.

"My biggest problem will be keeping five men fed and satisfied," said Butler, who will end up with cooking duties throughout the trip.

Byrnes named to fill park board vacancy

Robert Byrnes, a member of the Rolling Meadows Plan Commission the past five years, has been appointed to the Rolling Meadows Park Board.

Byrnes, 44, of 4004 Wren Lane, fills the vacancy left by Raymond H. Neuckmeyer, who resigned in May after being elected 1st Ward alderman.

Byrnes has served as chairman of the plan commission for two of his five years as a commission member. He also has served as a member and chairman of special zoning commissions.

A 16-year resident of Rolling Meadows, Byrnes is a supervisor of economic analysis for Standard Oil of Indiana.

Kid's sports day at library Tuesday

The Rolling Meadows Library Children's Dept. will sponsor a sports day for school children from 2:30-4 p.m. Tuesday.

Activities will include a variety of games such as baseball and races. Children should gather at the library, 3110 Martin Ln. Events will be on the park district grounds adjoining the library. Ribbons will be awarded to winners.

IT'S A "PING-PONG SUMMER" for teenagers at Rand Grove Village in Palatine Township. The Bridge youth services bureau of Palatine has opened a drop-in center at the complex, on Long Grove Road north of

Rand Road, to offer supervised activities, field trips and counseling to more than 80 high school and junior high school youths who live in the development. Teens painted and decorated the three-bedroom apartment where the center is located during the past week, writing messages of "Peace" and "Zap 'Em With Love" on the walls.

Teen clubhouse

Rent-free apartment offers youths a place to go

by DIANE NERMIGAS

Teen-agers in Rand Grove Village, a low-and moderate-income housing development in Palatine Township, have always wanted a place to gather, to have fun and to get help when they need it.

Now they have such a place.

As many as 30 teens, ranging in age from 12 to 18, are meeting weekdays in a rent-free, three-bedroom apartment in the complex, on Long Grove Road north of Rand Road.

There, they listen to music, play ping-pong, and have the questions that trouble them answered.

THE APARTMENT is being transformed into a drop-in center by The Bridge Youth Services Bureau, 434½ N. Northwest Hwy., Palatine.

The center will be open until winter on a trial basis to offer teens supervised activities, films, field trips, and professional counseling and referral services.

Most of all, the drop-in center will offer Rand Grove teens privacy and social experiences with youths their own age that they can't find anywhere else, said Rick Atwater, director of the center whose salary is subsidized from a $25,000 state grant that The Bridge recently received.

"Many of the teens are like second parents to their younger brothers and sisters who they babysit for each day during the summer while their parents are out working," he said.

"THE FAMILIES here are larger, the apartments are smaller and there is no privacy for the teen-ager who is growing up and needs to be alone sometimes with kids his own age," Atwater said.

Few of the families at Rand Grove Village have cars or enough money to give weekly allowances to the children.

"So, the center is free, the music is free and the counseling is free," he said. Even most of the field trips to beaches and roller skating rinks that Atwater chaperones each Thursday are of minimal cost.

There are no nearby recreational or entertainment facilities for the more than 80 high school and junior high school youths who live in the development. The teens are bused to schools in Palatine where they are unable to remain for after-school and late-night activities because they have no transportation, he said.

"I LOOK AT my job here as preventative medicine. Anywhere kids are in a place where there is nothing for them to do, they are going to get into trouble. This way, they have something to occupy their time and help when they need it," Atwater said.

"We feel like the center is really our own," said Tina Melco, 13, who has been among the teens who have helped paint and decorate the new facility.

Chris Hussaini, manager of the development, said she knows "idle teens can bring trouble" but that, she is leaving the problem up to The Bridge.

"These teens need the influence of a professional adult and all they want is a place of their own to hang out in. The center will work out to our advantage I'm sure," she said.

THE SALT Creek Park District has donated a ping-pong table to the center. Atwater said he is trying to get other civic and community groups to make similar contributions.

"Rand Grove is a model of what is to come in the suburbs. People out here are going to have to learn that the suburbs are for everyone. The ideal thing would be for everyone to pitch in and make this center a success," he said.

"It's something for these kids. And these kids and kids all over here are what the future of this area is all about," he said.

'Advantages, disadvantages'

Library tax vote unlikely

The question if the Palatine Public Library District should levy a tax to pay off the bonds on the new library "will probably not be included" in a Sept. 27 referendum, Gerald McElroy, library board president, said.

McElroy said proposing the tax could jeopardize the chances that Inverness residents will vote to join the library district.

The Palatine Village board has requested that the library district ask voters to approve a sufficient tax to pay off $1.3 million in bonds issued in 1973 to construct the new library, near completion at Northwest Highway and Benton Street.

Palatine residents pay an average $8 annually for the library bonds. That would increase by about $5 if the district levies the tax, McElroy said.

"There are disadvantages and advantages to it. It would be confusing to everyone if we included in it our September referendum. If we ask library residents to vote on it at all, we should do it after this Inverness question is settled, when we know if they will be part of the district," McElroy said.

THE VILLAGE issued the bonds before the library became a district with its own bonding powers in September. The village must continue to retire the bonds, "hopefully with the tax money that the library district will give to us each year under this proposal," said Palatine Trustee Richard W. Fonte.

The village would abate its tax levy for the 20-year bonds and retire the bonds each year with revenues from the library district if a library tax levy is approved. The money would be placed in an "irrevocable fund" so it would only be used to pay off the bonds, Fonte said.

Library officials have agreed to use portions of the tax revenues from new residents of the district to help pay off the bonds. Areas of Palatine Township north of the village were voted into the district last month.

"BY HAVING the library district levy its own tax for the bond payment, we are sure that every taxpayer in the library district is paying an equal share. It's the only fair way," Fonte said.

"We (the village board) have asked the library district to include the question of the tax levy on the Sept. 27 referendum because it is something that would take voter approval. Since they are having a referendum anyway, they should get this cleared up," he said.

Fonte warned that library district residents who live in Palatine will be "less likely" to approve the Sept. 27 referendum "unless they know that the library has settled this issue once and for all, and has taken measures to equalize the payment of the bonds among all district residents."

"It's not going to make much difference to the people of Inverness because the special tax levy wouldn't be that much more," Fonte said.

McELROY SAID the library board will consider the matter at its meeting Aug. 13.

"I don't think there's any question that it is legal, but it is strictly a board decision. This matter needs to be cleared up before the referendum so library district residents and Inverness residents, who may come into the district, know what is going on," he said.

It will take a majority vote of library district residents and Inverness residents who go to the polls to add the village to the district.

This alarm's no help — burglars steal it

Thieves unplugged a burglar alarm and stole it Wednesday from Harper Mobil, 1800 S. Roselle Rd., Palatine, police said.

Also taken were coins from a cigarette vending machine. Police said entry was gained by prying a door.

Pact OK'd for new bridge on Capri

The Palatine Township Highway Dept. has awarded a $37,000 contract to the George D. Hardin Co., Chicago, to replace a bridge in the Pinehurst Manor subdivision.

The bridge on Capri Drive will be replaced with a double-barrel reinforced concrete box culvert.

The new bridge, completed this fall, will be 66 feet wide and 30 feet long, and will include sidewalks and guard railings, said Robert Bergman, township highway commissioner.

The contract will be paid for with motor fuel tax revenues.

Concert at church

A harp and flute concert will be presented Sunday by Delores Stewart, 240 N. Flake Dr., Palatine, at the First Christian Church of Hoffman Estates.

The program at 7 p.m. will consist of semipopular selections, classical harp music and sacred compositions.

The concert will be in the church's main hall, Roselle Road and Illinois Street, and is free.

Rooftop for Bears' stadium urged by Arlington official

The stadium proposed for Arlington Park Race Track should be enclosed in order to have maximum usability, Joe Kesler, Arlington Heights village planner, has told officials of Madison Square Garden Corp.

"The stadium is not just a project for Arlington Heights, or the suburban area of Chicago," Kesler said. "This is a facility for all of Northern Illinois."

An open-air stadium as proposed by Madison Square Garden could turn out to be "another white elephant similar to Soldier Field in Chicago," he said.

Though an enclosed stadium would cost more to build, Kesler admitted, the potential for year-round use would mean more revenue from stadium events to pay off construction bonds.

KESLER SAID he would like to see restaurants, meeting rooms and galleries included in the stadium plan to make it a "civic and cultural attraction for the entire suburban area."

Arlington Park Race Track and Oak Brook are the two best-suited locations for a stadium, Kesler said. Oak Brook has better highway access, but the race track has the advantage of the Chicago and North Western Ry. commuter station, he said.

In response, William Moore, attorney for Madison Square Garden, said that "there has never been any groundswell (of support) for an enclosed stadium."

Whether to put a roof on the stadium or not comes down to a matter of "individual preference," he said.

Madison Square Garden has never proposed an enclosed stadium for Arlington Park, and there is no indication that one is being considered.

You just can't can without can lids

Well, folks, it is now officially all right to be concerned. Home canning lids are hard to find.

Of course the lids have been hard to find for at least six months. But that small detail has been overlooked in reports to news media and governmental consumer offices by the United States Dept. of Agriculture.

And meanwhile, the frantic consumer, who was told to plant a garden to cut food costs, has been running from store to store searching the shelves for those elusive disposable lids before her garden rots.

She hasn't had much success. But she was told not to worry.

Finally, with reports of black-marketing and hoarding ringing in their ears, Federal Trade Commission officials announced Tuesday that they were opening an investigation into the shortage of home canning lids.

JEROME LAMET, assistant regional director for the FTC branch in Chicago, said his office has been following the canning lid problem for months and said it is safe to say "there is a problem."

However, it isn't clear where the flow from canning lid manufacturer to consumer has clogged, he said.

Last year the lid shortage mainly was due to a lack of raw materials, especially tinplate and soda ash. But this year the raw materials are sufficient and major manufacturers — including Ball and Kerr — have stepped up their production as much as they are able to, said Lamet.

SO WHERE ARE the lids?

Earlier in the summer the lid manufacturing industry had claimed that while supplies might be tight, it would stock stores from South to North as the growing season progressed.

But reports of panic buying in the South have resulted in shortages there, which have swept North in a wave of consumer frenzy.

Five area food chains contacted (Jewel, Dominick's, National, Eagle and Kohl's) told The Herald they rarely get the canning lid supplies they order. And when lids finally reach shelves, they are purchased immediately.

There are confirmed reports of hoarding by consumers afraid their last chance for buying lids is at hand.

An area Eagle store received a shipment of lids last week which was bought in 20-to 30-dozen lots by only three or four customers.

IN MINNESOTA THERE is talk from state officials about gathering food retailers to set up a rationing policy on canning lids, Lamet said.

"It's my personal opinion that it looks like the only thing that will solve the problem here, too," said Lamet.

Meanwhile, gardens are ripening and lids are in short supply.

"I think it's a conspiracy to make us buy the entire jar-and-lid combination," mourned one woman who has more than 100 canning jars, a garden full of food and no jar lids.

$224 bid for police uniforms gains OK

Acceptance of the low bid of $224.60 from Feldman Bros. for police uniforms will be recommended Monday to the Palatine Village Board.

The administration, finance and legislation committee of the board reviewed three bids on police uniforms and decided to recommend Feldman Bros. The other bids were $243.45 from V.C.G. Uniforms and $216.85 to $235.85 from Advance Uniform.

Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig had recommended the board accept the bid from Advance Uniform because it was competitive and the board had experience with Advance.

"I think it is important for people to know we will make changes. If bidders know we will change I think we will get better prices," Trustee Richard W. Fonte said.

Disannex from Salt Creek Park District?

'Act of piracy' rejected by track

by KURT BAER

William Moore, attorney for Madison Square Garden Corp., Tuesday labeled attempts to take the 450-acre Arlington Park Race Track property out of the Salt Creek Rural Park District "an act of piracy."

Moore said emphatically that the race track owners "would not invite litigation" by seeking to disannex from the Salt Creek district to join the Arlington Heights Park District as the Arlington Heights Park Board has requested.

The Arlington Heights Park District showed little interest in annexing the property before a residential, office and industrial development plan turned the race track into a "financial plum," Moore said.

Over the years, the Salt Creek Park District provided the recreation programs for the race track's summer backstretch workers, he said.

The Arlington Heights Park Board has asked village officials to push for the disannexation in connection with hearings on a master plan for the property, which includes an 80,000-seat football stadium.

A NEW STATE LAW allows a property owner to transfer land from one park district to another by filing a petition in court. But Moore said any attempt to remove the race track from the Salt Creek district would provoke lawsuits which Madison Square Garden is not interested in fighting.

Katy Graham, Arlington Heights park district vice president, has called the Salt Creek Park District a "tax shelter" for the race track. Taxes from the property should benefit Arlington Heights residents, most of whom live within the Arlington Heights Park District, she said.

"The difference is between a park district with 70,000 people and one with 3,000," Mrs. Graham said.

NORMAN BREYER, member of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, said Tuesday night that most of the real estate tax benefits claimed for the Arlington Park development will go to school and park districts that lie outside the Village of Arlington Heights and get little support from Arlington Heights residents.

The Arlington Heights Park District, Arlington Heights Dist. 59, Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 and High School Dist. 214 will gain little or nothing from the development, Breyer said.

Madison Square Garden's economic consultants say the race track development will be a boon to local taxing districts and will pay more than $7.5 million in real estate taxes annually. A $4.7 million tax surplus to the school districts also is predicted.

Breyer said much of this will go to Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 and High School Dist. 211 which have few, if any Arlington Heights students.

"These tax benefits go to other taxing districts not in the Village of Arlington Heights," Breyer said.

School crossings set to be striped

Palatine public work crews will begin marking school and pedestrian crossings this week.

The village had originally budgeted $1,800 for contractual services to have the crossings marked. Robert Miller, director of public works and engineering, said the public works department is ahead of its summer schedule and decided to do the work. All of the village parking lots and parking spaces in downtown Palatine have already been striped.

Miller said the school districts were contacted for the first time this year to list routes that children use to get to school. He said most Palatine principals have supplied the public works department with maps of routes children use.

FRANK BUTLER checks the skies and the charts in preparation for his Aug. 1 voyage to the British Virgin Islands in his 41-foot ketch

sailboat, "Seaward." Butler will make the journey with his son Bill and four other hands.

Dream cruise to 'Shangri-La'

by DAVE GALANTI

Frank Butler is going to make a seven-week cruise from Waukegan to "paradise" next month.

Butler, who with his wife Mary recently sold his home in Long Grove and bought a 41-foot ketch (sailboat), is leaving Aug. 1 to live in a resort area on Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands.

"In our book, it is the true Shangri-La," Butler said. "We have vacationed down there before and it is beautiful."

Butler will be accompanied on the 3,200-mile journey by his 25-year-old son Bill and four other crew members. His wife will fly to the resort in late September.

THIS WILL be the longest journey ever attempted by Butler in his own boat, but he said he had been boating in the Great Lakes and elsewhere "practically all of my life."

Butler said he worked with the Coast Guard and asked for the advice of his friends in planning the voyage. He decided to start in August because that is when the best weather prevails. The route, which will take the sailboat through the Great Lakes and to New York and the Atlantic Ocean, was chosen because of more favorable wind directions than a route through the Mississippi River and Gulf of Mexico.

A large part of the trip will be made under sail, Butler said, but the boat also uses an engine if the winds fail. Safety equipment will include a 12-man life raft, safety vests and lights along with safety belts for use on deck.

Butler said he thought it was time to take the trip because he "didn't want to retire to the rocking chair without any memories."

"A LOT of people talk about doing their own thing," he said. "Well, I'm going to do my own thing. If you don't do it now, you may never get a chance to."

The couple will stay in the British Virgin Islands for about a year and then will continue their travels throughout the world. Butler said he might return to the northwest suburban area sometime, but asked, "would you leave paradise?"

Despite the long distance of the trip, Butler is taking the cruise in stride. The boat, named Seaward, will "take care of itself if you give it half a chance," and there will be plenty of fuel aboard he said.

"My biggest problem will be keeping five men fed and satisfied," said Butler, who will end up with cooking duties throughout the trip.

Big day for Susan

Bone-cancer victim leaves hospital under own strength

by NANCY COWGER

Today is Susan Lark's homecoming. Susan will walk out of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, under her own power and with the aid of crutches, nearly a month of treatment for bone-marrow cancer. Part of her treatment included the amputation of one leg.

The 11-year-old Arlington Heights resident has a big following, even though she can't see all the faces and know all the names. Susan is the focus of a suburban fund-raising effort supported both by friends and strangers, to help pay her uninsured medical bills, now estimated to exceed $40,000.

Dinner will be served Tuesday at two McDonald's restaurants in Arlington Heights, in Susan's behalf.

BILL KIMPEL, owner of the two franchises, Wednesday announced he will donate half the proceeds of the 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday business to the Susan Lark Fund. On a normal Tuesday evening, that would amount to about $600, Kimpel said. But with support from the public he hopes to raise the donation figure to $1,000. The restaurants are on North Arlington Heights Road, just south of Rand Road, and on Northwest Highway at Wilke Road.

"I have sympathy. Nobody can afford that kind of catastrophe," said Kimpel of the Lark family's plight. Susan's father, a computer specialist, had been unemployed due to the recession most of the past two years. Although he now has started a new job in Toronto, the family has no hospitalization insurance. Susan's oldest brother, Steve, 19, works at the Northwest Highway restaurant.

Children in Palatine are holding a carnival Saturday with pony rides, games and refreshment sales to raise funds in Susan's behalf. It will be in the home of Irene Kinsella, 13, at Walnut and Glencoe streets.

A benefit garage sale starts today at the home of Patricia Shipley, 4513 Lincoln St., Rolling Meadows, and will continue through Saturday. Area merchants and family friends have donated merchandise. Another garage sale will be July 31 through Aug. 2 at 312 N. Van Buren St., East Dundee.

Susan Lark

Mrs. Dana Lark, Susan's parents, are holding a "pie and pea supper" with donations of money requested. Mrs. Lark is a native of England, although she has lived in the U.S. 20 years. The supper is a British tradition.

The fund, established at the First National Bank of Dundee, has surpassed $1,400, although a check for the first $1,000 was presented to the Larks at a benefit dance Saturday night. Donations may be mailed to the bank in care of Joyce Proia, 2015 Berkshire Circle, Carpentersville, 60110.

An anonymous donor sent a $250 check to the fund, Mrs. Proia said. Other donations have come from children, as well as adults. A group of Bensenville youngsters raised $27 in a car wash, and Rolling Meadows children earned $10 in a carnival, and both groups sent the money to Susan's fund.

Susan's mother said final reports after the amputation surgery July 11 indicate "they caught everything in time." Susan is "all excited about" going home and being able to use the crutches instead of a wheel chair. Therapists may be able to fit her first artificial leg within three weeks, Mrs. Lark said. Susan will have to have new artificial legs periodically, as she grows.

"THE DOCTOR figures within a year she'll be able to do all the things other children are doing," Mrs. Lark said. "Things are looking so good for us. You can't really believe people care so much, but they do," she said.

Susan "has her ups and downs, but then who wouldn't," said Mrs. Lark.

Her hospital room has been festooned with cards and gifts since her illness first was made public July 12.

"When Susan realized what could have been, she was very grateful" for the life-saving surgery. "She wants to live," Mrs. Lark said.

$2.5 million deficit forecast for schools

by JUDY JOBBITT
A news analysis
Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 residents are getting more education than they've paid for, which is forcing the district into severe financial problems next year.
The district projects a $2.5-million deficit with next year's budget and sees expenditures exceeding revenue for years to come.
Dist. 59 has been considered a rich district in years past but its riches depended on high and increasing assessed valuation which mostly came from Centex Industrial Park. The industries in the district have carried the financial burden, paying about 60 per cent of its tax revenue. But this pot of gold has been emptied by the state with its formula for funding schools.

THE DEFICIT was not an unexpected turn of events. The district has forecast financial problems for the past several years.
A referendum cry is not new. The school board has been talking about a 15-cent tax hike for the past two years and tax increases were sought for three years running for 1969-1971 but the voters turned them down. The last time the voters approved a tax increase was in 1965 leaving the district with a $1.80 maximum tax rate.
Long-range studies also were released in 1973 and 1974 which projected severe financial deficits. The 1976-77 school year was the year of doom, according to both studies, when drastic measures would have to be taken or tax increases approved by the voters.
A 15-cent tax referendum was shelved in 1973 when a survey of the community showed a referendum would fail.
Last December when the 1974 study by a citizens' committee came out, the board was advised that the referendum would not be needed for the 1975-76 school year but should be considered this fall for the following year.
These projections were pushed up by six months with the state aid formula catching up with the district and turning the financial picture around.
THE STATE-AID formula is based on three factors — assessed valuation, student enrollment and local tax effort. Simply stated, the higher the assessed valuation, the less money from the state. The lower the enrollment the less money from the state since money is figured on a per pupil basis.

And for Dist. 59 the local tax effort is the kicker.
If the people don't put up their share in taxes neither will the state, according to the formula. The state has set a tax rate of $1.95 for districts to receive the maximum in aid. Dist. 59, with its current $1.00 is 15 cents short.
The district has three alternatives to alleviate its deficit — continue its heavy borrowing practices until the lenders will give no more, eliminate programs or increase taxes.
In recent years the district has borrowed the maximum allowed by the state — 75 per cent of its assessed valuation — in tax anticipation warrants. The district pays about $100,000 each year in interest to pay the previous year's debts.
But the district's borrowing power also is shrinking in relation to the amount needed. To meet its budget next year the district will need about $600,000 more in tax anticipation warrants than the state will allow.
IT ALSO CAN go the route of issuing teacher orders, a type of promissory note. The teacher orders are a method of borrowing by using the district's bonding power as collateral. Again the district would pay about 6 per cent interest a year on this loan and residents would see a tax increase.
Cutting programs is an unpopular alternative in a district that has prided itself on quality education. The district had budgeted a 4.5 per cent increase in expenditures next year, excluding salary increases, a figure comparable to neighboring districts.
A tax rate increase of 15 cents

would raise the district's taxing effort to state expectations and would result in the district receiving the maximum state aid allowed. Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said this would not solve all the financial problems but it is the only factor in the state aid formula taxpayers can control.
WITHOUT A tax-rate increase, the board will be facing some difficult decisions in the coming months. A referendum is an obvious solution, but the board expressed concern that its previous track record would hold true and the referendum would be voted down.
Without it, the district must face the less economical route of borrowing money or the traditionally less desirable route of program cuts.

Cost of services may rise; taxes cut

by LYNN ASINOF
Increased water rates and the transfer of garbage collection costs to Mount Prospect residents will only partially solve village financial problems, according to two village trustees.
Trustees E. F. Richardson and Edward B. Rhea Jr. said the village will have to retain at least part of the tax levy now used to finance garbage collection and use it for other purposes. This in effect would require an increase in property taxes although the shift in garbage fees might lower the tax rate.
Village board members are expected to vote Aug. 5 to shift $3 of the garbage-collection costs onto residents. The village would assume the rest of the cost, which will be $1.30 by October. All collection fees are paid out of tax money.
This shift in garbage-collection financing is expected to save the village $408,591 this year since taxes already have been levied for garbage collection. Next year, however, no garbage tax would be collected from residents, leaving the village short of funds unless less action is taken to create new village revenues.

THE SEARCH for new funds began when the village board approved $371,000 in salary increases for village employees without having sufficient funds.
"The immediate problem, the one that had to be solved, was how to finance the wage increases we approved," Rhea said. "That will be done with the additional revenue we gained through the garbage."
Next year, Rhea said he expects part of the garbage levy to be retained and used for other purposes, but said he doesn't think the entire 29 cents per $100 assessed valuation will be retained.
In addition, Rhea said the village can expect to gain some money from the water-rate hike, which is designed to make the water department self-sufficient and is expected to be approved Aug. 5. During the past four years the water department has operated at a deficit of $1,281,000, draining other village programs.

"We'll think of a way to spend it," Trustee Michael H. Minton said he plans to attend the next finance committee meeting to become better acquainted with the problem.
Mayor Robert D. Teichert and Trustee Richard N. Hendricks were unavailable for comment.

Pacers set fast pace in first year

The Prospect Pacers baton corps has had a successful first year's work, culminating in its first-place finish in the recent state championships at Buffalo Grove High School.
The 23 girls in the corps, who range in age from 9 to 16, are a beginners' parade corps, sponsored by the Prospect Heights Park District and directed by Judy Magnuson.
In their final competition of the year, at the National Baton Twirlers Assn. state championship, the corps won two first-place awards — for novice parade corps and dance-twirl team. The championship was held July 12 at Buffalo Grove High School.
The group also captured a first-place award in an Illinois Park and Recreation Society competition and won second place in the same organization's state championship. The group's total awards from four competitions, include three first and one second-place finish.
Girls of all ages, interested in baton lessons or the Pacers, should contact the park district, at 394-2648. New classes will be formed in September.

You just can't can without can lids

Well, folks, it is now officially all right to be concerned. Home canning lids are hard to find.
Of course the lids have been hard to find for at least six months. But that small detail has been overlooked in reports to news media and governmental consumer offices by the United States Dept. of Agriculture.
And meanwhile, the frantic consumer, who was told to plant a garden to cut food costs, has been running from store to store searching the shelves for those elusive disposable lids before her garden rots.
She hasn't had much success.
But she was told not to worry.
Finally, with reports of black-marketing and hoarding ringing in their ears, Federal Trade Commission officials announced Tuesday that they were opening an investigation into the shortage of home canning lids.

JEROME LAMET, assistant regional director for the FTC branch in Chicago, said his office has been following the canning lid problem for months and said it is safe to say "there is a problem."
However, it isn't clear where the flow from canning lid manufacturer to consumer has clogged, he said.
Last year the lid shortage mainly was due to a lack of raw materials, especially tinplate and soda ash. But this year the raw materials are sufficient and major manufacturers — including Ball and Kerr — have stepped up their production as much as they are able to, said Lamet.

SO WHERE ARE the lids?
Earlier in the summer the lid manufacturing industry had claimed that while supplies might be tight, it would stock stores from South to North as the growing season progressed.
But reports of panic buying in the South have resulted in shortages there, which have swept North in a wave of consumer frenzy.
Five area food chains contacted (Jewel, Dominick's, National, Eagle and Kohl's) told The Herald they rarely get the canning lid supplies they order. And when lids finally reach shelves, they are purchased immediately.
There are confirmed reports of hoarding by consumers afraid their last chance for buying lids is at hand.

An area Eagle store received a shipment of lids last week which was bought in 20-to 30-dozen lots by only three or four customers.
IN MINNESOTA THERE is talk from state officials about gathering food retailers to set up a rationing policy on canning lids, Lamet said.
"It's my personal opinion that it looks like the only thing that will solve the problem here, too," said Lamet.
Meanwhile, gardens are ripening and lids are in short supply.
"I think it's a conspiracy to make us buy the entire jar-and-lid combination," mourned one woman who has more than 100 canning jars, a garden full of food and no jar-lids.

FBI probes Palwaukee plane 'theft'

The reported theft Tuesday of a single-engine airplane from Palwaukee Airport possibly was the result of a misunderstanding between friends, but the FBI has begun an investigation.

An FBI spokesman said he did not know the location of the stolen plane nor if any arrest had been made. The plane, a Cessna 122M valued at $26,000, was reported stolen at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday from the airport, south of Wheeling.

Sheriff's police said a friend of the plane's owner, Leo Brigman, 39, of 2856 N. Avers, Chicago, heard a radio report of the plane's takeoff and told Brigman. Brigman told police he had not given anyone authority to take the plane.

Esther Nofke, an administrative assistant at Palwaukee, said Brigman told her he knew who took the airplane. "It is some kind of communications problem," Ms. Nofke said.

SEVERAL PERSONS have been permitted to use the plane by Brigman, Ms. Nofke said, and it was apparently one of them who took the plane Tuesday.

Brigman kept a key to the plane under the cowling (engine housing), which is probably how the airplane was taken, Ms. Nofke said.

"These people come and go. They have their own individual hangar, their own assigned area," she said, adding that Brigman told her it was the second time the airplane was stolen. Previously, the airplane was kept at Chicago's Midway Airport, north of Wheeling on Milwaukee Avenue.

Sheriff's police said Brigman told them he would sign a complaint if the person who took the plane is caught. No authority could give the name of the alleged airplane thief. An unconfirmed radio report Tuesday said the plane was headed for Virginia.

Crime up 16.9% in first 6 months

by TOM VON MALDER

Reported crimes in Mount Prospect increased 16.9 per cent during the first six months of the year, compared with the same period in 1974.

Statistics released by the police department this week show a 17.9 per cent increase in the more serious crime categories as defined by the FBI. The increase is slightly under nationwide crime statistics released Tuesday by the FBI.

The FBI statistics, which covered only the first three months of this year, showed a 17% increase in serious crimes for cities with populations more than 25,000, a 19 per cent increase for suburbs and a 21 per cent increase for rural areas.

THE LARGEST crime increases in Mount Prospect during the six months were recorded in deceptive practice cases, burglaries and vandalism. The deceptive practice cases increased from 40 to 89, with 43 cases being solved by police. The 564 vandalism cases reported showed an increase of 32, with only 26 arrests made.

"As you can see by the figures, my most concern is with vandalism where we only solved 26 out of 564 cases," Police Chief Ralph J. Doney said. "I feel 99 per cent of these acts are by youthful offenders. This also concerns me with the larger portions of the burglaries."

The 167 reported burglaries was an increase of 38. Doney said his men have solved 47 of the forced-entry burglaries, seven of the 43 burglaries with no force and five of 30 attempted burglaries.

During the first half of this year, there was one murder (part of a murder-suicide case), a rape, an attempted rape and 11 robberies. Doney said all those cases except one robbery were solved.

OTHER CASES solved by police included 14 of the 17 reported aggravated assaults, four of the 25 thefts over $150 and 159 of the 532 thefts under $150. There were three more of the lesser-value thefts reported this year than last year but many of last year's thefts in this category are now classified as burglaries from autos. As a result, the number of burglaries from autos has increased from 27 to 142.

Less serious crimes, as defined by the FBI, increased 18.1 per cent during the six-month period.

"The individual police officer is doing a much better job. They are encouraged by the support shown by the village board in the recent contract negotiations. The morale is very high at this point," Doney said.

The police, after weeks of discussion with the board and village officials, were given 8 per cent wage hikes plus fringe benefits.

THE TOTAL number of calls handled by police was 8,559, an increase of 1,639 or 23.5 per cent for the six months. Doney again said some service cuts may be necessary because of this rapid increase in calls. He pointed to the 182 rise in alarms as a case in point.

"Most of these alarms are false, caused by people tripping them either when closing or opening a business," Doney said. He said that the village should consider charging for police response to false alarms. "It needs a serious look," he said.

The number of accidents during the period decreased by 60 to 956. There were no fatalities and 100 persons injured, compared with three fatalities and 187 injuries during the first half of last year.

Oswald and James Jacoby will help you hold a winning hand in "WIN AT BRIDGE", appearing daily in the HERALD.

FRANK BUTLER checks the skies and the charts in preparation for his Aug. 1 voyage to the British Virgin Islands in his 41-foot ketch sailboat, "Seaward." Butler will make the journey with his son Bill and four other hands.

Dream cruise to 'Shangri-La'

by DAVE GALANTI

Frank Butler is going to make a seven-week cruise from Waukegan to "paradise" next month.

Butler, who with his wife Mary recently sold his home in Long Grove and bought a 41-foot ketch (sailboat), is leaving Aug. 1 to live in a resort area on Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands.

"In our book, it is the true Shangri-la," Butler said. "We have vacationed down there before and it is beautiful."

Butler will be accompanied on the 3,200-mile journey by his 25-year-old son Bill and four other crew members. His wife will fly to the resort in late September.

THIS WILL be the longest journey ever attempted by Butler in his own boat, but he said he had been boating in the Great Lakes and elsewhere "practically all of my life."

Butler said he worked with the Coast Guard and asked for the advice of his friends in planning the voyage. He decided to start in August because that is when the best weather prevails. The route, which will take the sailboat through the Great Lakes and to New York and the Atlantic Ocean, was chosen because of more favorable wind directions than a route through the Mississippi River and Gulf of Mexico.

A large part of the trip will be made under sail, Butler said, but the boat also uses an engine if the winds fail. Safety equipment will include a 12-man life raft, safety vests and lights along with safety belts for use on deck.

Butler said he thought it was time to take the trip because he "didn't want to retire to the rocking chair without any memories."

"A LOT of people talk about doing their own thing," he said. "Well, I'm going to do my own thing. If you don't do it now, you may never get a chance to."

The couple will stay in the British Virgin Islands for about a year and then will continue their travels throughout the world. Butler said he might return to the northwest suburban area sometime, but asked, "would you leave paradise?"

Despite the long distance of the trip, Butler is taking the cruise in stride. The boat, named Seaward, will "take care of itself if you give it half a chance," and there will be plenty of fuel aboard he said.

"My biggest problem will be keeping five men fed and satisfied," said Butler, who will end up with cooking duties throughout the trip.

Wisconsin holding man shot in burglary attempt

Police in Tomahawk, Wis., are holding a Mount Prospect man who was shot and wounded by police during the burglary of a supermarket there.

In custody is Robert Feracotta, 25, of 612 W. Algonquin Rd. He and an alleged accomplice, Ronald Bradford of Chicago, face charges of possession of burglary tools with intent to burglarize and breaking and entering.

Tomahawk police said the two were taken into custody early Sunday. Police were alerted when the two tripped a burglar alarm.

Police said Bradford surrendered without a struggle but Feracotta, who had a pistol, threatened to shoot himself. Feracotta reportedly raised the weapon to his head, when police shot the gun from his hand, striking him in the forearm.

Bond for the two was set at $29,000. A court appearance for both men was pending.

Man, 26, nabbed in cocaine sale

Agents in the Metropolitan Enforcement Group arrested a Villa Park man Monday for allegedly selling undercover agents $1,000 worth of cocaine.

Arrested was Patrick J. Gibson, 26, of 227 S. Ardmore Ave. Agents said he was arrested in a parking lot in the back of The Captain's Steak Joint, Algonquin Road and Ill. Rte. 83, Mount Prospect, where the alleged drug deal took place.

He was charged with delivery of cocaine and unlawful use of a weapon. He had a loaded .38-caliber pistol with him at the time of the arrest, agents said.

Gibson was released on a $20,000 bond pending a hearing Aug. 12 in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

Big day for Susan

by NANCY COWGER

Susan Lark

The 11-year-old Arlington Heights resident has a big following, even though she can't see all the faces and know all the names. Susan is the focus of a suburban fund-raising effort supported both by friends and strangers, to help pay her uninsured medical bills, now estimated to exceed $40,000.

Dinner will be served Tuesday at two McDonald's restaurants in Arlington Heights, in Susan's behalf.

BILL KIMPEL, owner of the two franchises, Wednesday announced he will donate half the proceeds of the 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday business to the Susan Lark Fund. On a normal Tuesday evening, that would amount to about $600, Kimpel said. But with support from the public he hopes to raise the donation figure to $1,000. The restaurants are on North Arlington Heights

Road, just south of Rand Road, and on Northwest Highway at Wilke Road.

"I have sympathy. Nobody can afford that kind of catastrophe," said Kimpel of the Lark family's plight. Susan's father, a computer specialist, had been unemployed due to the recession most of the past two years. Although he now has started a new job in Toronto, the family has no hospitalization insurance. Susan's oldest brother, Steve, 19, works at the Northwest Highway restaurant.

Children in Palatine are holding a carnival Saturday with pony rides, games and refreshment sales to raise funds in Susan's behalf. It will be in the home of Irene Kinsella, 13, at Walnut and Glencoe streets.

A benefit garage sale starts today at the home of Patricia Shipley, 4513 Lincoln St., Rolling Meadows, and will continue through Saturday. Area merchants and family friends have donated merchandise. Another garage sale will be July 31 through Aug. 2 at 312 N. Van Buren St., East Dundee.

BRITISH FRIENDS of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Lark, Susan's parents, are holding a "pie and pea supper" with donations of money requested. Mrs. Lark is a native of England, although she has lived in the U.S. 20 years, the supper is a British tradition.

The fund, established at the First National Bank of Dundee, has surpassed $1,400, although a check for the first $1,000 was presented to the Larks at a benefit dance Saturday night. Donations may be mailed to the bank in care of Joyce Prola, 2015 Berkshire Circle, Carpentersville, 60110.

An anonymous donor sent a $250 check to the fund, Mrs. Prola said. Other donations have come from children, as well as adults. A group of Bensenville youngsters raised $27 in a car wash, and Rolling Meadows children earned $10 in a carnival, and both groups sent the money to Susan's fund.

Susan's mother said final reports after the amputation surgery July 11 indicate "they caught everything in time." Susan is "all excited about" going home and being able to use the crutches instead of a wheel chair. Therapists may be able to fit her first artificial leg within three weeks, Mrs. Lark said. Susan will have to have new artificial legs periodically, as she grows.

"THE DOCTOR figures within a year she'll be able to do all the things other children are doing," Mrs. Lark said. "Things are looking so good for us. You can't really believe people care so much, but they do," she said.

Susan "has her ups and downs, but then who wouldn't," said Mrs. Lark. Her hospital room has been festooned with cards and gifts since her illness first was made public July 12.

"When Susan realized what could have been, she was very grateful" for the life-saving surgery. "She wants to live," Mrs. Lark said.

In September

7 schools get new principals

Seven Arlington Heights Dist. 25 schools will have new principals in September because of administrative changes and several principals leaving the district.

Park, Wilson, Kensington, North and Westgate schools along with South and Minner junior high schools will be under new leadership, Supt. Donald Strong said Wednesday.

The following assignments have been made:

- South Junior High. Acting principal Alan Holt has resigned to accept a position as assistant superintendent of schools in Champaign. Phillip Worland, principal of Park School for 22 years, has been named acting principal of South. South principal Thomas Martin will remain on sabbatical leave for studying at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign.

- Park School. Replacing Worland will be Frank Santelli, who has been principal for eight years at Minner Junior High School. Santelli also will be in charge of all district federally funded projects Strong said Santelli has requested the opportunity to return to elementary education and involvement with districtwide projects.

- Minner Junior High. Santelli will be replaced at Minner by Richard Hanke, who has served for two years as principal of Westgate School.

- Westgate School. Priscilla Manthey, principal of Countryside School in Barrington for two years, has been assigned to Westgate. Hired last week, Mrs. Manthey holds a doctorate in education administration from Northwestern University.

- Kensington School. John Bennett, principal at North School for the past two years, has been assigned to Kensington. He replaces Kathryn McElroy who retired earlier this year.

- North School. Replacing Bennett will be Richard Nickelsen, who has been assistant principal at Rand Junior High School for five years.

- Wilson School. Emily Alford, assistant professor in the College of Education at Wichita State University, has been hired as principal of Wilson. Ms. Alford holds a doctorate in education from Northern Illinois University. She replaces Robert Parsons, who has requested reassignment as a teacher, Strong said. Parsons' school assignment has not been determined.

"FINIAN'S RAINBOW," a musical, will be presented by students from Prospect, Arlington, Forest View and Rolling Meadows high schools today through Sunday at Prospect High School, 801 W. Kensington Ave. Linda Ursin as Sharon McLonergan and Tom Anderson as Woody Mahoney are in the cast. Performances will be at 8 p.m. A Sunday matinee starts at 2 p.m.

Retain BOLI, but trim terms to 5 years: panel

The community service committee of the Arlington Heights Village Board voted unanimously Wednesday to retain an appointment Board of Local Improvements.

The committee, however, moved away from tradition and recommended that BOLI members serve five-year terms, rather than the indefinite terms to which they are now appointed by the village president.

The recommendations will go to the full village board next month for final consideration.

THE VOTE BY the committee is a minor setback for Village Pres. James T. Ryan. Ryan campaigned for village president on a platform that included abolition of an appointed BOLI.

Ryan called for the hearings after taking office and appeared before the first committee session. At that time, he said, "Without question, the idea of an appointed Board of Local Improvements should come to an end."

He took the position, rejected by the committee, that a special committee of trustees could handle the functions of BOLI. He further said BOLI's workload was now reduced to a point where it would not become a burden on trustees.

Committee member Trustee August C. Bettman, who served on BOLI for four years before being elected to the village board, said BOLI's special assessment responsibilities were too politically sensitive for a trustee.

TRUSTEE ROBERT H. Miller, committee chairman, agreed with Bettman, saying a trustee trying to decide on an unpopular, yet needed project would be "put in a very rough situation."

Miller suggested the five-year terms for BOLI members. He said the terms should be staggered so that while new blood would be coming into BOLI, there would still be stability and continuity.

Miller said a definite term "gives a person a chance to bow out gracefully" if their performance is less than satisfactory.

The committee also recommended that BOLI and the village board meet regularly to keep each other abreast of current developments and possible problems.

BOLI became embroiled in controversy earlier this year when it attempted to force the installation of sidewalks in the northeast section of the village. The resulting flareups developed into a major issue of the recent village campaign.

Dome urged for stadium by planner

The stadium proposed for Arlington Park Race Track should be enclosed in order to have maximum usability, Joe Kesler, Arlington Heights village planner, has told officials of Madison Square Garden Corp.

"The stadium is not just a project for Arlington Heights, or the suburban area of Chicago," Kesler said. "This is a facility for all of Northern Illinois."

An open-air stadium as proposed by Madison Square Garden could turn out to be "another white elephant similar to Soldier Field in Chicago," he said.

Though an enclosed stadium would cost more to build, Kesler admitted, the potential for year-round use would mean more revenue from stadium events to pay off construction bonds.

KESLER SAID he would like to see restaurants, meeting rooms and galleries included in the stadium plan to make it a "civic and cultural attraction for the entire suburban area."

Arlington Park Race Track and Oak Brook are the two best-suited locations for a stadium, Kesler said. Oak Brook has better highway access, but the race track has the advantage of the Chicago and North Western Ry. commuter station, he said.

In response, William Moore, attorney for Madison Square Garden, said that "there has never been any groundswell (of support) for an enclosed stadium."

Whether to put a roof on the stadium or not comes down to a matter of "individual preference," he said.

Madison Square Garden has never proposed an enclosed stadium for Arlington Park, and there is no indication that one is being considered.

Woman, 18, raped in parking lot

An 18-year-old Arlington Heights woman was raped early Wednesday in the parking lot of Dana Point apartments, Central Road and Arthur Street, Arlington Heights.

Police said the woman was treated at Northwest Community Hospital for minor cuts on the arm suffered when the attacker scraped her arm with a razor-type knife.

She was returning from work about 4:10 a.m. when a man approached her with a lead pipe in his hand. The attacker grabbed her and then assaulted her, authorities said.

Sidewalk Days Opens; carnival rides featured

Bargains, carnivals and music will mark Arlington Heights' Sidewalk Days, the annual summer sale sponsored by the Downtown Arlington Heights Merchants Assn.

Highlighting Sidewalk Days is a sidewalk sale by downtown merchants today through Saturday. A carnival, complete with tilt-a-whirl, merry-go-round and moon walk, will be operating in the downtown midway between Van and Dunton avenues through Sunday.

Other entertainment includes:

- The Dolores Eiler dance school will present a dance review at 7:30 p.m. today at 16 S. Dunton Ave.

- The Bucks and Does square dancers will perform Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the same location.

- A diskland music festival at 2 p.m. Saturday will precede Snow White in Musical Storyland at 4 p.m. Both will occur at the 16 S. Dunton site.

- A children's dog show Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at the Cultural Center site, 400 N. Dunton Ave. Six trophies will be awarded to winners for best costume, best tricks, longest and shortest tail.

Registration for the show will start at 9:15 a.m.

Discount tickets for the carnival rides are available at Paddock Publications, 217 or 114 W. Campbell St. The tickets are good Thursday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m.

You just can't can without can lids

Well, folks, it is now officially all right to be concerned. Home canning lids are hard to find.

Of course the lids have been hard to find for at least six months. But that small detail has been overlooked in reports to news media and governmental consumer offices by the United States Dept. of Agriculture.

And meanwhile, the frantic consumer, who was told to plant a garden to cut food costs, has been running from store to store searching the shelves for those elusive disposable lids before her garden rots.

She hasn't had much success.

But she was told not to worry.

Finally, with reports of black-marketing and hoarding ringing in their ears, Federal Trade Commission officials announced Tuesday that they were opening an investigation into the shortage of home canning lids.

JEROME LAMET, assistant regional director for the FTC branch in Chicago, said his office has been following the canning lid problem for months and said it is safe to say "there is a problem."

However, it isn't clear where the flow from canning lid manufacturer to consumer has clogged, he said.

Last year the lid shortage mainly was due to a lack of raw materials, especially tinplate and soda ash. But this year the raw materials are sufficient and major manufacturers—including Ball and Kerr—have stepped up their production as much as they are able to, said Lamet.

SO WHERE ARE the lids?

Earlier in the summer the lid manufacturing industry had claimed that while supplies might be tight, it would stock stores from South to North as the growing season progressed.

But reports of panic buying in the South have resulted in shortages there, which have swept North in a wave of consumer frenzy.

Five area food chains contacted (Jewel, Dominick's, National, Eagle and Kohl's) told The Herald they rarely get the canning lid supplies they order. And when lids finally reach shelves, they are purchased immediately.

There are confirmed reports of hoarding by consumers afraid their last chance for buying lids is at hand.

An area Eagle store received a shipment of lids last week which was bought in 20- to 30-dozen lots by only three or four customers.

IN MINNESOTA THERE is talk from state officials about gathering food retailers to set up a rationing policy on canning lids, Lamet said.

"It's my personal opinion that it looks like the only thing that will solve the problem here, too," said Lamet.

Meanwhile, gardens are ripening and lids are in short supply.

"I think it's a conspiracy to make us buy the entire jar-and-lid combination," mourned one woman who has more than 100 canning jars, a garden full of food and no jar lids.

It's fun to putt(er) around

Arnold Palmer may thumb his nose, but to weekend duffers a miniature golf course is the perfect place to brush up on birdies and bogies.

On this course at 199 W. Rand Road in Mount Prospect, age and apparel are unimportant. All you need is determination, a steady hand and a good sense of humor when an erratic putt ends up in the drink.

It may not be the U.S. Open, but it's still a lot of fun.

Disannex from Salt Creek Park District?

'Act of piracy' rejected by track

by KURT BAER
William Moore, attorney for Madison Square Garden Corp., Tuesday labeled attempts to take the 450-acre Arlington Park Race Track property out of the Salt Creek Rural Park District "an act of piracy."

Moore said emphatically that the race track owners "would not invite litigation" by seeking to disannex from the Salt Creek district to join the Arlington Heights Park District as the Arlington Heights Park Board has requested.

The Arlington Heights Park District showed little interest in annexing the property before a residential, office and industrial development plan turned the race track into a "financial plum," Moore said.

Over the years, the Salt Creek Park District provided the recreation programs for the race track's summer backstretch workers, he said.

The Arlington Heights Park Board has asked village officials to push for the disannexation in connection with hearings on a master plan for the property, which includes an 80,000-seat football stadium.

A NEW STATE LAW allows a property owner to transfer land from one park district to another by filing a petition in court. But Moore said any attempt to remove the race track from the Salt Creek district would provoke lawsuits which Madison Square Garden is not interested in fighting.

Katy Graham, Arlington Heights park district vice president, has called the Salt Creek Park District a "tax shelter" for the race track. Taxes from the property should benefit Arlington Heights residents, most of whom live within the Arlington Heights Park District, she said.

"The difference is between a park district with 70,000 people and one with 3,000," Mrs. Graham said.

NORMAN BREYER, member of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, said Tuesday night that most of the real estate tax benefits claimed for the Arlington Park development will go to school and park districts that lie outside the Village of Arlington Heights and get little support from Arlington Heights residents.

FRANK BUTLER checks the skies and the charts in preparation for his Aug. 1 voyage to the British Virgin Islands in his 41-foot ketch

sailboat, "Seaward." Butler will make the journey with his son Bill and four other hands.

Dream cruise to 'Shangri-La'

by DAVE GALANTI

Frank Butler is going to make a seven-week cruise from Waikiki to "paradise" next month.

Butler, who with his wife Mary recently sold his home in Long Grove and bought a 41-foot ketch (sailboat), is leaving Aug. 1 to live in a resort area on Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands.

"In our book, it is the true Shangri-la," Butler said. "We have vacationed down there before and it is beautiful."

Butler will be accompanied on the 3,200-mile journey by his 25-year-old son Bill and four other crew members. His wife will fly to the resort in late September.

THIS WILL be the longest journey ever attempted by Butler in his own boat, but he said he had been boating in the Great Lakes and elsewhere "practically all of my life."

Butler said he worked with the Coast Guard and asked for the advice of his friends in planning the voyage. He decided to start in August because that is when the best weather prevails. The route, which will take the sailboat through the Great Lakes and to New York and the Atlantic Ocean, was chosen because of more favorable wind directions than a route through the Mississippi River and Gulf of Mexico.

A large part of the trip will be made under sail, Butler said, but the boat also uses an engine if the winds fall. Safety equipment will include a 12-man life raft, safety vests and lights along with safety belts for use on deck.

Butler said he thought it was time to take the trip because he "didn't want to retire to the rocking chair without any memories."

"A LOT of people talk about doing their own thing," he said. "Well, I'm going to do my own thing. If you don't do it now, you may never get a chance to."

The couple will stay in the British Virgin Islands for about a year and then will continue their travels throughout the world. Butler said he might return to the northwest suburban area sometime, but asked, "would you leave paradise?"

Despite the long distance of the trip, Butler is taking the cruise in stride. The boat, named Seaward, will "take care of itself if you give it half a chance," and there will be plenty of fuel aboard he said.

"My biggest problem will be keeping five men fed and satisfied," said Butler, who will end up with cooking duties throughout the trip.

Big day for Susan

by NANCY COWGER

Today is Susan Lark's homecoming. Susan will walk out of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, under her own power and with the aid of crutches, nearly a month of treatment for bone-marrow cancer. Part of her treatment included the amputation of one leg.

The 11-year-old Arlington Heights resident has a big following, even though she can't see all the faces and know all the names. Susan is the focus of a suburban fund-raising effort supported both by friends and strangers, to help pay her uninsured medical bills, now estimated to exceed $40,000.

Dinner will be served Tuesday at two McDonald's restaurants in Arlington Heights, in Susan's behalf.

BILL KIMPEL, owner of the two franchises, Wednesday announced he will donate half the proceeds of the 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday business to the Susan Lark Fund. On a normal Tuesday evening, that would amount to about $600, Kimpel said. But with support from the public he hopes to raise the donation figure to $1,000. The restaurants are on North Arlington Heights

Susan Lark

Road, just south of Rand Road, and on Northwest Highway at Wilke Road.

"I have sympathy. Nobody can afford that kind of catastrophe," said Kimpel of the Lark family's plight. Susan's father, a computer specialist, had been unemployed due to the recession most of the past two years. Although he now has started a new job in Toronto, the family has no hospitalization insurance. Susan's oldest brother, Steve, 10, works at the Northwest Highway restaurant.

Children in Palatine are holding a carnival Saturday with pony rides, games and refreshment sales to raise funds in Susan's behalf. It will be in the home of Irene Kinsella, 13, at Walnut and Glencoe streets.

A benefit garage sale starts today at the home of Patricia Shipley, 4513 Lincoln St., Rolling Meadows, and will continue through Saturday. Area merchants and family friends have donated merchandise. Another garage sale will be July 31 through Aug. 2 at 312 N. Van Buren St., East Dundee.

BRITISH FRIENDS of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Lark, Susan's parents, are holding a "pie and pea supper" with donations of money requested. Mrs. Lark is a native of England, although she has lived in the U.S. 20 years. The supper is a British tradition.

The fund, established at the First National Bank of Dundee, has surpassed $1,400, although a check for the first $1,000 was presented to the Larks at a benefit dance Saturday night. Donations may be mailed to the bank in care of Joyce Proia, 2015 Berkshire Circle, Carpentersville, 60110.

An anonymous donor sent a $250 check to the fund, Mrs. Proia said. Other donations have come from children, as well as adults. A group of Bensenville youngsters raised $27 in a car wash, and Rolling Meadows children earned $10 in a carnival, and both groups sent the money to Susan's fund.

Susan's mother said final reports after the amputation surgery July 11 indicate "they caught everything in time." Susan is "all excited about" going home and being able to use the crutches instead of a wheel chair. Therapists may be able to fit her first artificial leg within three weeks, Mrs. Lark said. Susan will have to have new artificial legs periodically, as she grows.

"THE DOCTOR figures within a year she'll be able to do all the things other children are doing," Mrs. Lark said. "Things are looking so good for us. You can't really believe people care so much, but they do," she said.

Susan "has her ups and downs, but then who wouldn't," said Mrs. Lark. Her hospital room has been festooned with cards and gifts since her illness first was made public July 12.

"When Susan realized what could have been, she was very grateful" for the life-saving surgery. "She wants to live," Mrs. Lark said.
